E. Pistkowski of Central Avenue Lost Money Which Stranger Was to Make Good—Bills of Big Denomination Were Put Between Pieces of Board—Nothing There But Green Paper the Next Day.

One of a pair of confidence operators who have been working on Edward Pistkowski of No. 218 Central avenue ever since the early part of January, well dressed and good talkers, made a good impression as to their reliability and responsibility.

They had a drink and talked over the business about a farm. The man said he could not go to see it then but would do so later. Both the men were well dressed and good talkers and made a good impression as to their reliability and responsibility.

At that time he was given a large brown box to take to his home to keep till the men called. The box was to be kept in a safe place and the man was to be called when the men called.

Ceiling Fell, but No Clerks Hit. Clerks at the Maurice Sample shop in the Waterman store on Main street had a fortunate escape from injury when a large portion of the ceiling fell late in the afternoon. None of them happened to be standing in the way when the heavy pieces of ceiling suddenly came down.

A leaking water pipe had loosened the ceiling. Some of the ceiling was filled with dust, but it is not believed the stock was seriously damaged. Rebuilding of the ceiling will not be made until after the company has disposed of their present stock.
