The careful observer of Fifth Avenue fashions has noted for the benefit of those who will purchase a suit for Easter that the military effect is the dominant note in the approved fashions. Of course the effect is greatly modified in many ways, but it still is there and it's really clever—the style has considerable vigor and distinction.

The Suits are built for comfort as well as looks—note the full circular skirt which is the only thing permissible—and the ankle length adds to the freedom of the wearer.

AGAINST LAND INVASION.
 Plans For Forts on Montauk Point Are in Preparation.

Authentic information concerning the purpose of the visit of five United States army officers to Montauk Point on Saturday was given on Tuesday morning by Captain Terrell, adjutant at Fort Wright, who was one of the party. Unofficial reports which gained currency led to the publication in New York and other newspapers Monday of a dispatch to the effect that a fort for coast defense purposes was contemplated by the war department at Montauk Point.

It was not in relation to coast defense that the inspection was made. Captain Terrell stated, but in respect to land defense providing for the operation of a large body of mobile troops. In other words the proposition which will eventually reach the hands of Secretary of War Garrison deals with the protection of a land area from invasion in the rear. So many erroneous impressions had gone forth as a result of the visit of the officers to Long Island that Captain Terrell believed the public should be acquainted with its real significance.

Major Langhorne Recalled from Berlin Washington, March 29.—Major George T. Langhorne, former attaché to the American embassy at Berlin, who has been on temporary duty at the army war college, will be assigned to the Eleventh cavalry for duty at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. In announcing this today Secretary Garrison again declined to throw any light on the reasons for Major Langhorne's relief from duty in the German capital.

A SAFE WAY TO STOP INDIGESTION
 Without Fear of Weakening the Stomach—Works Fine in Any Case and Brings Relief in Ten Minutes.

The greatest folly of today is committed by people who take stomachic medicines which take artificial digesters to cure indigestion.

Artificial digesters—pepsin pills, etc.—simply encourage a lazy or tired out stomach to shirk its duty by doing the most of its work for it. This is fine for a time, but chronic dyspepsia, indigestion, and other ailments, which are the result of indigestion, are the result of the artificial digesters. Where one once did the trick, three or four are now required and the poor old stomach itself becomes tired and weak.

Your stomach must be strong enough to expand and contract with a sort of pumping movement so as to mix the digestive juices with your food. If your stomach isn't strong enough to properly churn your food, you will suffer right on having indigestion after every meal until you make it strong.

There is one stomach remedy that every dyspeptic should know. It is called MI-O-N-A, most famous of all stomach remedies. It lets the stomach rest and digest the food. It doesn't weaken the stomach, but it will strengthen and stimulate the stomach and make it do its own digesting. It cures stomach pains, gas, bloating, burning, belching, flatulence, and all the other ailments that result from indigestion. It cures the habit of making the baby, inflamed and inactive stomach walls grow strong and able to do their own work. MI-O-N-A Tablets never lose their effect. Artificial digesters need not be used forever. A few weeks' use is generally sufficient to put your stomach in fine shape and Lee & Osgood and many other leading druggists, agreeing to refund money to anyone who does not get complete relief.
