Norwich People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Norwich who suffer with weak kidneys and had backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. Doan's Kidney Pills is a medicine for the kidneys only, and one that is backed by willing testimony of Norwich people. Here's a case:

Mrs. Catherine Hogan, 22 Hickory St., Norwich, says: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at N. D. Sevin's Drug Store, as highly today as when I gave a public statement in their praise some years ago. This remedy cured me of a severe attack of kidney complaint, causing the pains in my back and trouble with the kidney secretions to disappear after everything else had failed to help me."

Riversites is Pouting. The town of Riversites, that gave birth to the Commandant-in-Chief of the French armies, is pouting. The blinds of Joffre's house have been closed more than a year and the patient woodpecker has had time to pierce them in so many places they look as if a mashing gun had been operating there. The villagers no longer point the place out to visitors. All because Joffre has not taken the time to come to receive the address of felicitations of his neighbors and the present bought for him by popular subscriptions. The General-in-Chief is quite as black-belted and will have to exercise some of his finest strategy after the war to lift the penalty of his pouting.

The ill humor of Riversites is aggravated by a total lack of "saus" and a big deficit of wine. The absence of small changes is attributed to the German raid on all forms of copper, and this, too, falls on Joffre, who ought to have been able to prevent it. For the shortage of the vintage of 1915 there is the more logical reason of mildew.

There is less song and laughter in all the towns of the south for the Midi has found something in the war that it is bound to take seriously. All Foreign man salutes gravely when the Belgian band, recruited from the refugees of Flanders, marches by playing the Brahms march, but the hostlers cheer of other days are absent. Every day the Place de la Loge is crowded in front of the bulletin board of the Sporting club, where is posted the latest news from the champion football players of France with friends added to the already long list of those who have fallen on the field of battle.

House is interesting also for the mystery that surrounds one of the old brick mansions, where Bachelier carved coats of arms in 1855. With fixed bayonets, night and day the Territorials defend the entrance to this house. The rumor was current in the early fall last year that the Bank of France had transferred its gold reserves there. When the bank returned to Paris, however, the Territorials continued their guard. Their mission is still a mystery to the public in general, but the initiated assert confidently that the secret is "Vercy's 'Monna Lisa,' removed from the Louvre when danger threatened Paris, is in safe-keeping there in an inviolable steel case.

MONASTERY AND CATHEDRAL OF ECHMIADZIN

The Most Treasured and Sacred Possession of the Armenian Nation.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—Swallowed up in the maelstrom of the southern Caucasus, which is now aflame with the strife of the Turks and the Russians, and near the meeting point of Persia, Russia and Turkey, is situated the most treasured and sacred possession of the Armenian nation, a nation without a country and with the longest record of, bravely-borne suffering of any people, and late possession of the Armenian nation, the cathedral of Echmiadzin, the Holy See of Armenian Christians, the heart of the Armenian nation, and the source of that strength which has held together and guided the Armenians through centuries of persecution, war, and massacre.

The library of Echmiadzin is a treasure of Armenian literature, and among its shelves are kept some remarkable manuscripts of the gospels, dating from the 5th and 10th centuries. The monasteries maintain a type-foundry and a printing press, and they have accomplished great things for education of their people and for the development of Armenian literature. The academy connected with Echmiadzin is one of the first educational institutions in the Armenian world, and many of its pupils do excellent graduate work in the United States.

The Armenian church is claimed by its adherents to be the oldest established Christian church in the world, having been founded in the first part of the third century. It is, probably, the most national of all churches in the world, for only Armenians belong to it. The church of 'Armenia' is in the midst of the path where severe contests are being fought, and where, according to reports, destruction has become the law and reigns supreme.
