scheme to the benefit of the investors and a permanent asset to our city. Although in no spirit of prophecy, at the last census, a half decade ago, the then Norwich Business Men's association, for the rejuvenation of the town of Norwich to be worked for till 1920 at $5,000. There are five years more to the next census—go to it. It will not be amiss to emphasize at this time, the importance of continued attendance at our State Chamber meetings by the directors, our delegates to annual conventions, or whatever occasion may call.

There was never a state directors' meet—and I was distinctly able to attend nearly every one—when there was not some valuable idea to bring back to our local chamber.

There was some gratifying circumstance to a president, than being the leader of your seven delegates that went up to Windsor on October 21st and who placed in the hands of our fellow-members of this chamber, Joseph T. Crutenden, and afterward elect him to the second vice president's chair.

In closing I wish to say that I feel a sense of personal obligation to every member, director and officer who has contributed to the support or working during the past year of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, and trust you will give the same support to your new president during the year to come.

Respectfully submitted by WM. H. CRUICKSHANK, Secretary Pearson Reports.

Secretary C. W. Pearson then submitted his report, which showed that the year had been an unusually active one. The report showed that during the past year, which is the first year as a chamber of commerce, 17 meetings were held, while the board of directors have held 17 meetings during the same period.

As our state director he has represented our chamber with good grace and his counsel in the future will be very valuable. It is the duty of each member, director and officer to the extent of their ability every obligation he is appointed to, within the needs of the association.

As you gentlemen can recall in so many instances, a private reluctance "cuts no ice" in 20th century language) in the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, it is the duty of each member, director and officer to the extent of their ability every obligation he is appointed to, within the needs of the association.

consider to be only a beginning from the great interest being manifested along this line throughout the entire county. Connecticut ought to raise her present yield of corn on one-third the number of acres devoted to the crop, which means that she will increase her yield from 900,000 to 3,000,000 bushels when this is accomplished.

Several demonstration plots have been started this season and another year will find alfalfa, clover, top-dressing and pruning demonstrations in nearly every town. Agent Warner is going to Connecticut and study to the milk industry, which is one of the most important problems of our county.

and expects in the near future to organize a county and state association. We also appreciate the importance of good roads which means so much in the proper development of the entire county and hope during the winter or early spring to have a good roads day with State Highway Commissioner Bennett, secretary of Connecticut Road and Automobile Association, Charles Macy Robinson, every section of the county; representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, bankers, and automobilists present to learn whether we may not be working together for the interest of all able to give a better system of working more efficiently and economically the long mileage of county roads that now are not being properly handled.

The desire through the cooperation of farm bureaus on one hand and the local communities on the other, are preparing to give this winter one extension school in agriculture and home economics in each county of the state. A big get-together first annual conference of county farm bureau workers in New Britain, Conn., on December 8, 9 and 10, hope to be present on the 8th and your agent no doubt will be present all these days.

Remember, our aim is to unite all organizations and individuals, farmers, agriculturists and members of professional men and all in the county into a league of community building and county-wide development. We plan to hold a series of lectures, interesting and fundamental fashion. The work has already developed to the point where more assistance is needed. We need a systematic means of reaching all the members of our league, a monthly bulletin to keep them posted on the work of which they are a part, and many other things. The new London County Improvement League where it belongs—leading the state in the work of developing co-operation along both these lines.

Friends, do you believe in this work for New London county? Are you a member of this great movement? Tell your neighbors. Each of us can do more for sustaining membership, $5 for contributing membership, or even $1 will make you an active member for a year in the county who will do for the people of the cities, villages, and farms together, thereby promoting closer relations and better understanding of the nature of your county and its baby growing? Watch us!

Prospects for New Industries. C. J. Isbister, chairman of the industrial committee, reported that his committee had been in touch with 12 concerns desiring to locate in the county during the year. Three were turned down because they wanted financial aid which the committee was unable to furnish. Three others were accepted because they could not find a suitable location. Four are now in active communication with the committee, and it is probable or at least hoped that two of these will locate in Norwich.

The following reported on the state convention held at Windsor: Frank G. Aubrey, second vice president, E. J. Hunt, secretary and treasurer, Charles W. Pearson, re-elected, directors for two years, C. J. Isbister, D. T. Shea, J. W. Semple, F. H. Smith, H. (Continued on Page Eight)
