X-RAY PICTURE TAKEN. Of Plaintiff in Case of St. Martin vs. New Haven Road—Question at Issue Solely One of Damages.

The case of Frank St. Martin against the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. for injuries sustained in a wreck near this city November 30, 1912, and in which the plaintiff claims ten thousand dollars damages, is on trial before the superior court in this city, with Judge Gardner Greene on the bench. The case was originally tried here in the fall term a year ago, when the plaintiff obtained a substantial verdict, but on appeal to the supreme court a new trial was ordered because the trial judge allowed evidence of worry relating to the condition of the plaintiff's wife and family.

The plaintiff claims two fractures of the ribs, a puncture of the lung, and other bruises and injuries, with mental worry and anguish. The only question at issue is that of damages, as the defendant company admitted their negligence in the pleadings. The case last year was noted for the expert testimony introduced, that on the plaintiff's part tending to show a splinter or specula of bone piercing the lung, and causing pain and spitting of blood, while the defense contended the symptoms arose from cirrhosis of the liver. At that time an X-ray picture which it was claimed was taken, by the plaintiff, and never used, as it failed to substantiate his case, was the subject of considerable controversy in the examination.

New X-Ray Picture Taken.

At the close of Tuesday's session at the present trial, Attorney Barnett for the defense made formal demands on Attorney C. A. Capen, the plaintiff's attorney, for the production of that X-ray picture, and Mr. Capen disclaimed all knowledge of where it was, and did not know what had become of it. Thereupon Mr. Barnett asked permission of the court to take an X-ray photograph of the plaintiff, and as Mr. Capen offered no objections, the request was granted. The photograph was taken on the machine owned by Dr. Owen O'Neill of this city Tuesday night in the presence of the attorneys and doctors on each side and will undoubtedly be produced during the trial.

The first witness heard Tuesday, the testimony at the trial being substantially the case as on the former occasion, in all instances, was John S. Daley, the conductor of the train on which St. Martin was traveling when injured. He told of the collision, as did Napoleon Lambert, who was shoveling coal at the roundhouse at the time, and saw the collision.

Dr. T. R. Parker of this city told of going to the station in answer to a call by telephone, and of seeing the plaintiff and later examining him at the hospital. He also treated St. Martin in 1914, when he complained of pain in the side and spitting of blood.

The plaintiff took the stand next, and told his story substantially as before, outlining the accident, and claiming that whereas before it he could do a "good day's work" on the farm, since that time he had been unable to do heavy work. He described his symptoms, and told of his endeavors to get work of various kinds, but he had to give up on account of the pain and spitting of blood.

Mabel Alfred, who at one time worked for the St. Martin family, and Mrs. Lisa St. Martin, mother of the plaintiff, also testified in corroboration of the plaintiff's symptoms and the spitting of blood.

John Potvin, the barber, Henry Potvin, a laborer, and William W. Palmer of Chestnut Hill, for whom St. Martin worked since the accident, told of the accident.

He suffered and corroborated his statements in other regards. Medical Testimony.

The beginning of the line of medical testimony was heard, given by Dr. Robert M. Yergason of Hartford, who stood first to explain a drawing of part of the human anatomy, the same one which was shown in the former trial, and a cross-section of the same, made by him. Dr. E. K. Root of Hartford told at length of the conditions of the examination of the plaintiff about three weeks ago. He said there was no question but that there was a speckle sticking into the lung tissue on the right side. There was no consumption, and no trouble with the liver. The injury to the lung resulting from a break ordinarily are cured in from four to six weeks, but the injuries to the surrounding tissue, muscles, etc., take much longer. In this case he did not think an operation would be beneficial, and the plaintiff was in poor shape. The examination was long-drawn out, the putting the answers in a form so that the jury and spectators could clearly understand what he meant, as well as the attorneys and the other physicians present, and he was subjected to a searching cross-examination by the attorneys, which was very thorough. The present condition was caused by the fracture sustained in the accident was not materially broken down. Following his testimony Attorney Barnett made his demand for the production of the old X-ray, and his request for a new one, and court then adjourned until this morning.

To Take X-Ray Photograph Today. It was not found convenient to take the X-ray photograph of Frank St. Martin, plaintiff in the case now on trial in the superior court, Tuesday evening, as originally intended, and it will be taken this morning instead, in the presence of the attorneys and physicians in the case. JEWETT CITY. Congregational Church Votes to Incorporate—Trinity Sophs to Play Here—Brickey Family, Starting for Norwich, Finds House Afire.

The Congregational church voted Monday evening to become a corporation under the name of the Second Congregational church of Griswold. F. E. Robinson, Alex. McNeil and G. A. Haskell were appointed a committee to draw up new by-laws.

At the joint meeting of the church and society it was deemed wise to hear more candidates for the supply of the pulpit. This is not because of the people being difficult to suit, or because the candidates are all unsatisfactory. But it is desired that the consensus of opinion be more unanimous.

Trinity Sophs to Play Local Five. There is considerable interest shown in the basketball game Thursday night. The Trinity Sophs of Hartford, of which William L'Heureux of this place is right guard, are to play here, and they have quite a record. Wooley and Jackson are two huskies and have played on the varsity football team during the past season.
