ALLIES CONTINUE NEGOTIATIONS WITH GREECE

New Proposals Are Said to Have Been Made by France and Great Britain in the Hope of Reaching an Agreement—Belief Prevails That Rumania is Awaiting the Concentration of Sufficient Entente Troops to Make Victory Certain Before Joining Allies—Unusual Calm Prevails on the Battlefields—The Check Suffered by General Trunshend in Mesopotamia is a Severe Disappointment to the British.

London, Dec. 5, 10 p. m.—The negotiations between the allied powers still drag on at Athens, new hitches seemingly arising as the old ones are smoothed out. One day it is reported a settlement has been reached, only to be followed the next day by denial or announcement of difficulties confronting the diplomats. Allies impatient over Greece's delay. The people of the allied countries, particularly those of France and Italy, are becoming impatient over the continual delays and the press is demanding that stern action be taken to demonstrate to King Constantine and his ministers the determination of the quadruple entente to secure the assurances demanded. New proposals are said to have been made by France and Great Britain in the hope of reaching an agreement.

Attitude of Rumania undecided. The attitude of Rumania also remains undecided. Since the despatch announcing the closing of Rumanian ports to foreign trade was received, silence has descended upon Bucharest and Europe is awaiting anxiously the next move which will give a meaning to this order. The general belief here is that the Rumanian government is waiting anxiously the concentration of a sufficient Russian force in Bessarabia and a large enough Anglo-French army in southern Serbia, to make victory certain for the allies.

Unusual calm prevails on the various battle fronts, even the Italians apparently slackening their offensive, probably in the hope of reaching a phase, which they hope will place Jortzia in their hands, with other commanding positions in which the Austrians have been weakened during the past weeks of heavy fighting.
