

Resinol Soap

a friend to tender skins

Any soap will clean your skin—a bar of laundry soap will do if you do not care what becomes of your complexion. But you know that laundry soap contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it for your toilet.

Many ill-made toilet soaps contain this same injurious alkali. Resinol Soap contains absolutely no free alkali, and to it is added the soothing, healing Resinol medication, which doctors have used for over 20 years in treating skin troubles. Thus it comforts tender skins, and helps nature clear the complexion and keep the hair rich, lustrous and free from dandruff. Sold by all druggists.

Resinol Shaving Stick also contains the Resinol medication, making it most soothing to razor-irritated faces.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT

STICKS TO BLOCKADE POLICY

House of Lords Crowded When Debate on That Subject Started.

London, Jan. 26, 11.25 p. m.—The result of the anxiously-awaited debate in the house of commons on the blockade question is that the British government adheres to its existing policy.

A resolution introduced by Arthur Shirley Benn, Unionist member for Plymouth, that the entire over-oceanic traffic with Germany should be prevented by a blockade, was talked out and the subject dropped, thus leaving the position exactly as before the debate, except that parliament seemed more converted to the government policy.

Interesting figures published by the war department partly demolished the elaborate structure raised by the newspapers and Sir Edward Gray's effective speech appeared to finish the work thus begun.

After the foreign secretary had spoken Commander Bellairs said he had anticipated that nine-tenths of the house would be against Sir Edward Gray, but since his speech he had to admit nine-tenths were with him. In fact, after the foreign secretary sat down, the house seemed emptied and at one time during the debate only a half dozen members were present.

At the opening of the debate the house was crowded, all the business section being very conspicuous and the galleries also were filled, notable visitors being the American ambassador, the Swedish and Danish ministers, Lord Fisher and Lord Stamfordham, private secretary to the king.

After Sir Edward Gray had concluded the discussion lost interest.

OYSTER GROWERS IN NEW ENGLAND ORGANIZE

Are to Protest on Account of the Pollution of Water by Sewage.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 26.—Leading oyster growers in New England states and New York, representing an invested capital of $15,000,000, organized here today with the object of bringing to the attention of the federal government "the threatened termination of the oyster industry on account of the pollution of waters by sewage."

The organization is to be known as the Eastern Oyster Growers' Alliance and it will request the government to make a scientific study of the sewage disposal problem. Members of the alliance own 200,000 acres of oyster beds. F. L. Homan of this city was elected president.

HOW WAR AFFECTS SOUTH AMERICA

Exodus of Italian Reservists Has Caused a Shortage of Laborers in the Harvest Fields—Freighting Vessels are Few and Rates are Exceedingly High.

Buenos Aires, Jan. 26.—The influence of the war in Europe are being felt acutely in South America. The routine of life, as fixed by the seasons and their phenomena, is thrown out of gear. Immigration returns for the first time in many years, show a balance of emigration. This is attributed to the exodus of Italian reservists who have rallied to the colors with enthusiasm and spontaneity. In normal times the Italian and Spanish immigrants flock in about equal numbers to the harvest fields of Argentina. The exodus has gone on in the same proportion, for it is a peculiar fact, one which no one seeks to explain, that the Spaniards if acted upon by some sympathetic influence are leaving by every passenger steamer. It cannot be said that they are going in greater numbers, for the simple reason that all those who are not radicated in the republic already have drifted away.

Shifting of Labor.

This shifting of labor is not strange; but, occurring at a period, when hands are most needed and wages are highest, it causes a certain feeling of uneasiness among the good people of the National and Provincial authorities have been induced to think more seriously of their natural sources of human energy and how to organize them. The country is so large that with ample railroad facilities the unemployed hands in the North, for example, could be shifted to the South where, at a given period of the year, extreme difference of climatic conditions prevail. This organization, so far has not made itself apparent by results.

Unemployed Causing Trouble.

At the present moment there is a considerable number of unemployed hands in the North, for example, could be shifted to the South where, at a given period of the year, extreme difference of climatic conditions prevail. This organization, so far has not made itself apparent by results.

Having drifted there, these elements are causing considerable trouble by their truculent and menacing attitude. As the territories are, of course, under national administration fifty men of the Metropolitan police armed with rifles and well supplied with ammunition have been sent down to reinforce the local police and maintain order. The department of labor is endeavoring to control these elements but they are not amenable to control they would not have drifted, at the precise moment when they were wanted elsewhere, to a point at which they were not required. It is, however, difficult to organize elements so illiterate that they cannot read.

Freighting Vessels Few.

Another serious effect of the war is that freighting vessels are few and rates exceedingly high. The amount of Argentine produce held up for lack of transport is very large. An idea of its magnitude can be gathered from the following facts which, relating to a few zones, may be regarded as common to all. The great Central Argentine railroad system, ramifying through the Central, Northern and northern provinces report that over 200,000 tons of wheat and linseed of the last harvest are still waiting to be moved.

Corn Awaiting Export.

In Rosario, the depot of the north, there is at least the same quantity of corn of the same harvest stored and waiting for export. In addition there are 600,000 tons stored in outlying stations ready to be forwarded to the port of Rosario en route for the consuming markets. There is, therefore, a plethora of grain already, and the stock is being rapidly increased as operations upon the new harvest proceed. The time of writing about 40 per cent. of the season's wheat and linseed has been collected, the quality and yield being very satisfactory. The good plantations, favored by adequate precipitation and warmth, look very promising, too.

Scarcity of Labor.

The great Southern railroad system which ramifies through the arable and pasture lands of the South and West, report identical conditions. There is a decided scarcity of labor where labor is wanted, there are the same plethora of grain in the granaries and abundance in the fields now being harvested. Doubtless the Western railroad, which serves as a connecting line between the two great systems already named, have the same general conditions and phenomena to deal with. It all means congestion, loss and losses for the farmers who are always in need of ready money. In the meantime the freighters which should be carrying the harvests of South America to the ports of Europe and feeding the industries of the Old Continent, are acting as transports, carrying troops and stores to the war.

Difficult to Measure Loss.

Locally it is difficult to measure the possible loss direct and collateral, caused by this dislocation of commercial currents when the war is over. The consequences of the war will persist. It will be long time before the ports of the republic are again full of shipping from the seven seas, as they were a few years ago when, to relieve the pressure, the port of Buenos Aires extension works were decided upon and pushed forward. That great undertaking, by the way, is now paralyzed, nothing in the nature of an amicable arrangement or compromise having been reported.

Germans Created Corner on Wool.

The Germans resident in Argentina, where they form a very influential and well organized community, acting up on instructions from Berlin, or upon their own initiative, have created a corner in wool. They have, in fact, bought up the whole available clip which is destined for shipment to Germany when the war is over, and the German mercantile flag is once more rampant in the wool waters. Naturally this bulk in store occupies a good deal of the not unlimited space for storage in Argentina. But the Germans are happy about the matter, since, in addition to having secured the goods they have prevented the British and French from replenishing their supplies from the River Plate sources.

No Candidate For President.

Within ten months will occur the periodical (six years) change of national administration. The election of president and vice president should occur within the next three months, but up to the present there are no candidates before the country. Rumors are floated almost daily only to enjoy a very precarious period of languid life and die a natural death. There are no candidates and apparently no real interest shown by the public.

STATISTICS OF PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CLERGYMEN

There are 4420 Active in Ministry—Average Pay is $1,200 a Year.

New York, Jan. 26.—The average pay of clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States is $1,200 a year, according to Bishop William Lawrence of Massachusetts, who announced tonight at the annual dinner of the Church Club here the result of a careful census of salaries paid ministers of his denomination in this country.

There are 4420 clergymen actively devoting their lives to the service of the Episcopal Church—sometimes called the richest church in America," said Bishop Lawrence. "Yet 2,522, of our clergy, more than one-half, are paid less than $1,500 a year; 727 receive less than $1,000, and only 119 earn $5,000, or more. Even this is not all cash, but includes the value of a house, when supplied.

"The highest average salary is earned at 47 years of age. There is a distinct falling off in the salaries earned by the older men, especially those over sixty.

Bishop Lawrence stated that on the basis of the facts he recited the Episcopal church had determined to develop a self-supporting pension system which would adequately take care of clergymen more than 68 years old.

In order to put the plan into immediate effect Bishop Lawrence stated he would temporarily give up his active duties as bishop of Massachusetts and devote his entire time to the work of raising a fund of $5,000,000 which actuaries estimate must be in hand before the plan can take care of itself.
