Westerly's Ex-Postmaster Honored

Charles J. Butler Tendered Banquet and Presented Handsome Gift by Mailmen—Will of Charles Dennison Chapman, a Peculiar Document, Probated—John W. Hungerford, Hadlyme, Leaves Estate to Adopted Daughter—Public Requests in Harriet E. Crandall's Will.

A regular session of the Westerly probate court, Judge Edward M. Burke, presiding, was held Tuesday afternoon, when the will of Charles Dennison Chapman was admitted to probate. Mr. Chapman's will is in a way, a peculiar document, inasmuch as the document is of no legal account with the exception of the nomination of the executor. Under this exception the estate would be distributed by law just as Mr. Chapman directs in his will. After the introductory clauses stating that he was of sound mind, etc., the will reads as follows:

First: I hereby order and direct that all my just debts, and funeral expenses be paid out of any portion of my property and estate which may be found most available for the purpose within a reasonable time after my decease.

Second: Subject to the foregoing provision of my will, I give, devise and bequeath all my property and estate, both real and personal, and all interests therein, to my next of kin and heirs-at-law, to be divided and distributed among them in the same proportions and shares as provided by law, and disposition of interstate estates of deceased persons under the laws of Rhode Island.

Lastly: I hereby nominate, constitute and appoint Nathan B. Lewis sole executor of this, my last will and testament, and revoking all other and former wills by me made, and do establish this only as my last will and testament.

The will was executed December 9, 1915, and was witnessed by Nathan B. Lewis and Bertha M. Brown. Mr. Chapman died January 26, 1916.

Under the law one-half of the personal estate goes to the widow, Mrs. M. Chapman, who also has one-third life interest in the real estate. The balance goes to the heirs-at-law of whom there is quite a number of whom Mr. and Mrs. Chapman have lived apart for several years, and perhaps for that reason her name is not given in the will, and the document was drawn to provide for the executor, rather than for disposition of the property of the deceased. Judge Lewis was executor of the estates of Mr. Chapman's father and mother and was therefore familiar with the property conditions. He was confirmed as executor, bond being fixed at $25,000, by Judge Burke.

Former Governor James H. Higgins, of the law firm of Fitzgerald and Higgins, Pawtucket, was at the court session as counsel for Mrs. Chapman. In response to queries by the ex-governor, Judge Lewis said that he did not know the value of the personal estate but would say it would amount to perhaps $15,000, and perhaps more. He said that $1025 was found in the Chapman saloon and at his home and that there was a $1000 bank note in the safety deposit box at the Washington Trust company. Later it was learned that Mr. Chapman had $9000 on deposit in that institution. He understood that $25,000 was received from the sale of the Canal street property to the Crandall brothers and added that Mr. Chapman had been spending money freely since then until he died. Before the execution of the will Mr. Chapman made no mention of any special relatives, and his heirs-at-law (besides his wife), and an aunt on his mother's side and quite a number of cousins. Mr. Chapman never said who those relatives were, and never expressed any like or dislike for any of them.

The present will was intended as a temporary will, and another was to have been substituted but the late Lewis said that the present will is the only one he ever prepared for Mr. Chapman. When this will was executed Mr. Chapman owned real estate in the real estate, but had since sold the Canal street property to the Crandall brothers.

Upon further inquiry by ex-Governor Higgins, Judge Lewis said that Mr. Chapman owned real estate in Pawtucket, valued at perhaps $5000; and at the time of his death he owned the Chapman place in High street, in Westerly, valued at $16,000. He also owned a farm, with dwelling, and granite quarry property, but the judge had no knowledge of the valuation so far as he knew, but he had not as yet made personal investigation. The personal property consisted of the saloon and contents, about $2,000; a car, household furniture and two automobiles, all perhaps valued at $15,000. No stocks or bonds have been located.

Judge Lewis asked for the appointment of Eugene B. Pendleton, Everett A. Kirzney and John E. Tidmore as appraisers. The ex-governor suggested that the widow be represented on the board of appraisers, and asked for the appointment of Joseph T. Murphy as one of the appraisers. After some little discussion, Mr. Murphy was substituted for Mr. Edmond. Ex-Governor Higgins filed with the court an application for first allowance for the widow from the estate.

quashed $500 to the First Hopkinton Seventh Day Baptist church in memory of her mother. She gives $5000 in trust to the Hopkinton Trust company, for aid in support of the work of the People's Mission. The real estate of the estate goes to the corporation of the First Baptist church, Westerly, the interest to be applied for the care of the poor of the church, and for home and foreign missionary work. If the estate should not warrant the payment of these bequests, they are to be given priority to the order named.

The will was executed in 1910. The Washington Trust company was confirmed as receiver and bond was fixed at $25,000. The appraisers are Thomas P. Nichols, Everett Barnes and Edward B. Coy.

Ernest E. Cottrell was appointed administrator of the estate of Albert C. Crandall, Bond $1500, Oliver C. Crandall, appraiser.

The first and final account of Charles D. Wilcox, administrator of the estate of Albert R. Wilcox, was approved for record.

Barbara Francis, widow of John T. Francis, who died recently in Waterbury, petitioned for appointment as guardian of the estate of her minor daughter, Jomina Francis. Continued with order of notice.

The inventory of the estate of Abby L. Champlin was received and ordered recorded.

The twenty-six employees of the Westerly post office gave a farewell banquet to Charles J. Butler, the retiring postmaster, at Segar's Saloon on Tuesday night, when the new postmaster, John A. Farrell, was the speaker. John Allen, the oldest employee of the local office, and one of the first appointed letter carriers, stated before chairs were taken that when he was a boy he worked for mailmen who were to bid farewell to Postmaster Butler and to welcome his successor. At the conclusion of the feast, Mr. Allen, who served as toastmaster, presented Mr. Butler, in behalf of his associates, a superb Westminster chimes clock in solid mahogany case, as a token of their esteem for their retiring chief.

Mr. Butler made a response in cordial appreciation of the gift and referred to the good work accomplished by all connected with the office, and he knew their loyalty and support would be given to his successor. Short talks were made by Postmaster Farrell, Assistant Postmaster Thomas F. Lenihan and several others.

Local Laconics.

James W. Booth, of New London, with business interests in Westerly, was elected to the board of directors of the National Association of Granite Manufacturers of the United States.

The funeral services of Mary S. Wheeler York, widow of William York, were held at the family home in the Anguilla farm Tuesday afternoon and conducted by Rev. F. Stewart Kinley. The burial was at the West Hill cemetery. The bearers were Robert Hazard, Hermon Wilner, Elbert Potter and Frank E. Wilcox.

John T. Francis, who died from asphyxiation in Waterbury, Saturday, was buried at River Bend Tuesday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. F. Stewart Kinley. The bearers were George McKenzle, James McKenzle, Jr., William Francis and Harry Francis.

Rev. Clayton A. Burdick conducted the funeral services of Mrs. Thomas A. Barber, at her home in Pleasant street. There were many friends present and beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery, Anahway. The bearers were Dr. J. Kenyon Barber, Dr. Harold D. Kenyon, James N. Lewis and Howard M. Barber.

MANDEVILLE HALL AGAIN.

Watch Hill Gay Deceiver Tries to Shake Off Judgment for $10,119.

Mandeville de Martigny Hall, known for his escapades at Watch Hill who says he is a descendant of the Marquis de Martigny and the Duc de Vallambrosa, and who has been in prison various times for offenses committed under different aliases, asked Justice Cochran, in New York Monday, through his counsel, to vacate an order of arrest issued against him at the instance of Miss Florence G. Finch. The plaintiff is the daughter of the late President of the Finch Manufacturing company of Scranton, Penn., and a prominent member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In her complaint against Hall Miss Finch said that she was the owner of 190 shares of the Finch Manufacturing company, that were worth $100 at par and which paid dividends ranging from 6 per cent. to 1 per cent. This stock was given to Wesley M. Gardner as collateral for a loan of $9,500, which was made by the Traders' National Bank of Scranton. Later, she said, she gave Hall the money to pay the loan and take up the stock, but that he sold the stock for $12,350 and gave her only $500.

Miss Finch sued Hall, and got a judgment against him last December for $10,119. The judgment was returned unsatisfied. Lemuel Ely Quigg, who appeared in court for Hall Monday, said that Hall was in California when the suit was tried. He appeared later, and was sent to Ludlow Street Jail in default of $9,000 bail. Justice Weeks reduced the bail to $3,000, which was furnished, and Hall was let go. Charles S. Blandy, counsel for Miss Finch, said that he had applied to Hall's mother, Mrs. Susette T. Hall, the widow of William C. Hall, but she refused to pay the judgment.

INCIDENTS BY THE WAY

Of a recent evening a social set were having an agreeable chat when one of the persons present said:

"My physician tells me that pneumonia is an old folks' disease, a natural and merciful way of taking the aged to their reward, as they suffer little pain."

"Mattie," said an aged man present, to his wife, "Let's catch it and go."

"Not I," said his devoted and devoted spouse, "Norwich is good enough for me."

"Then it seems to me," said he, "I would cut out that every Sunday morning song, 'I Want to be With Jesus, for a lie regularly sung is just as bad as a lie stuck to."

A progressive teacher of a school in a nearby village gave her pupils a little talk on Lincoln's day upon the upright character of the country's saviour, and to promote the interests of morality she remarked: "Lincoln, children, never told a lie. He was in this like Washington."

A bright little pupil upon this raised her hand and began to wiggle her fingers to attract attention. She, noticing her, said:

"Well, Ediza, what is it?"

Ediza rose to her feet and eyeing the teacher earnestly said:

"Please, ma'am, the Bible says: 'All men are liars.' I've heard my ma say this lots of times."

The teacher after slight confusion said: "The Bible says: 'The Psalmist said in his haste 'all men are liars.' If he had taken a moment to have thought he would not have said it."
