CHARLES F. RAYNES APPEALS

Charles F. Raynes was before the local police court Friday morning, charged with violating the traffic ordinance of this city by driving a motor vehicle northerly on Railroad street on the left hand side. Traffic Officer Hurley noticed the man on the wrong side of the street and told him to appear in court Friday morning. Raynes pleaded not guilty. He was inclined to argue the matter by telling what the custom was in other cities. He was fined $3 and costs amounting to $7.50, which he refused to pay, taking an appeal to the superior court. He was released on $1000 bond.
