PARALYSIS CONTINUES TO SPREAD

Colchester and Brooklyn Children Brought Here Sunday Died on Monday—Westerly Children Will be Excluded from Norwich Following Outbreak There and in Pawcatuck.

Mollie Berman, the five-year-old Colchester girl found with infantile paralysis Sunday by Dr. Edward J. Howland, died at the Backus hospital at 5.30 o'clock Monday morning, 18 hours after her arrival at the hospital.

Nadal Barvitch, the 18-months-old child from Brooklyn, brought to the hospital at 10.10 o'clock Sunday evening, passed away at 1.30 o'clock on Monday afternoon. The doctors knew that both children presented severe attacks of infantile paralysis and little hope was held out from the first.

These deaths were the latest developments Monday in the paralysis situation here. They have led to a tightening of the quarantine in both the respective towns from which the children came and the Berman house in Colchester, where there are a dozen other children, ten from New York and two from Brooklyn is under close surveillance. But all these children have been in the town for three weeks past with no signs of the disease and the outlook there is good. The Berman child herself was a native of Colchester.

The outbreak in Westerly and in Pawcatuck led Health Officer Brophy on Monday to include children under 18 years from these places in the list of those who will be excluded from Norwich from now on.

He said Monday night that it would be a good idea if real estate owners or people who rent houses would call attention of prospective occupants from other cities of the state of affairs here, but because of cases of paralysis in New Jersey they had to be denied admission. Another preventive measure that he suggested was that adults if possible keep away from New York for while they have perfect liberty to visit that city, or other infected cities, they are given a chance of bringing back the infection.

Starting today Dr. Brophy announced Monday that he has made arrangements for health certificates to be issued in his office in the Shannon building from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. These regular scheduled hours he hopes will solve one of the difficulties under which he has been laboring, that of having people calling him up at all sorts of hours to get these permits for their children. He has issued four hundred of them so far, about a hundred Sunday morning when he remained at the Block Island sailed that the Westerly authorities would not permit children without certificates to land at Watch Hill. Dr. Brophy went to the dock and made the children happy.

There was little change in the New London situation Monday except that the health department was kept busy issuing traveling cards. Inspectors of what might be termed considerable difficulty Sunday in keeping children who came to New London on the steamer Plymouth on an excursion from Providence on board the boat. When the boat landed Inspector Frank Savage and Policeman Hyde were on hand and immediately ordered the children to remain on the boat. The inspector and policeman were made weary of considerable abuse, but they refused to let the children come ashore.

A Polish woman with a babe in arms somehow slipped the blockade at Norwich and arrived at New London Sunday morning on the 9 o'clock train. She was seriously ill and Health Officer Chipman was called. He told the woman that the child was very sick and ordered her to return to Norwich and she was placed on board a trolley after the child had been taken to the hospital. The child did not have infantile paralysis.

As a precaution against the spread of the disease in Huntington and in Westerly, Health Officers Congdon of Mystic and Stanton of Westerly have instructed managers of theatres to exclude children under 18 years of age from their theatres. Health Officer Congdon has also caused two families who had been in Huntington and in Westerly several children, who have been exposed to the disease, to be quarantined and an officer stationed there to guard the premises. Both the Stanton and Westerly health officers have advised parents to keep their children in the house until the chances of an epidemic are eliminated.

North Stonington is also taking precautionary measures.

The health guards continue to be occupied at the various points of entrance to the town and have found it necessary in a number of cases to turn visitors with children back, and in most cases it was because these prospective visitors had not been notified by the people they were coming to see of the conditions here and the local rules. Dr. Brophy thinks that people do not give the matter the attention it deserves.

DEUTSCHLAND'S TUG COMING TO NEW LONDON.

Captain of the Neckar has Leased Neptune Park Cottage.

Capt. Frederick Hinrich of the German steamship Neckar, interned at Baltimore, Md., has taken a lease on the cottage of Rudolph H. Schuler at Neptune Park for a period understood to be one year and has already moved there from his apartment at the Atlantic hotel. During his stay of the past week Captain Hinrich has inspected the work at the state pier, where a portion of his cargo is to be stored in the Eastern Forwarding company. The completion of the two warehouses, 32x45 and 48x75, was made late Monday afternoon by the A. Scott company. The Scott company will receive $12,000 for the erection of the buildings, which was the understanding of the contract. From a number of sources the second German merchantman submarine is due to arrive at any hour. Prominent men of New London who are in close touch with the situation left calls at 2.45 a. m. Monday.

A railroad official stated that the 102 Thomas P. Timmins, which acted as the Deutschland's tender, is on its way, probably with supplies for the much expected submarine. The official said that the Timmins has changed its name to that of Hansa.

The Board of Agriculture, at its quarterly meeting in the capital on Thursday, considered the features of the National Dairy Show, that is to be held at Springfield, Sept. 20, N. H. Brewer, Windham County, accepted the invitation of the managers of the show for Connecticut to have a special exhibit in the building out of the 15 members of the board were present, including Secretary L. H. Brown of Woodstock and Everett Brown of Pomfret.

M. E. Skinner of Springfield, Mass., manager of the dairy show was also present. In the afternoon, the executive committee of the board appointed inspectors to visit the agricultural fairs to be held in the state this fall. The board is particularly interested in the dairy show this year, not only because it is the first time that the show has been held east of Chicago, but because it is expected to be the largest dairy show that has ever been held in the country. A dozen large buildings have been built and a score of smaller ones. The scope of the enterprise is shown by the size of the main exhibition building, which will be 350 feet long and 240 feet wide. The coliseum will have the largest seating capacity of any building used for a similar purpose in any city in the United States. At the show there will be exhibited cattle of the leading dairy breeds, dairy products of all sorts and agricultural machinery. A special train will bring several herds of Guernsey cattle from the Pacific coast. A prominent English breeder will be

NORWICH BOY HOLDER OF ADAMS MALLET.

Gerald Brassill Won Trophy From President S. B. Prentice and Defends It From All Comers.

Gerald Brassill, holder of the Adams Prize Mallet, is the youngest player in the first division of the National Quoits association. This is the first year that Gerald has played in the first division and throughout the week he kept a number of the first string players guessing. He made a most creditable showing in this year's tournament and bids fair to puzzle some of the experienced players.

GERALD BRASSILL, champion, if not National Champion Eddie Clark himself, next year.

When it was announced that E. J. Adams had decided to offer his prize mallet to the player who won two out of three, Gerald decided to enter the contest. Mr. Adams named Prentice President Prentice lost the mallet to Louie Stockwell, another Norwich player, who challenged. Stockwell in turn was challenged by Brassill. Two games played by the contestants tied and then Gerald broke the tie and took possession of the mallet.

E. F. Penton of Willimantic then appeared on the horizon and challenged the young Norwich player. Penton was defeated and Brassill still held the mallet. W. F. Sullivan, Norwich, was the next challenger and Gerald took two straight from him. As he received no more challenges, Brassill is entitled to hold the mallet until next year when he must again defend its possession.

There were about 350 passengers on board and much commotion ensued, but panic was prevented by the officers who quickly secured the passengers that they were in no danger. Assistance was summoned and the passengers were taken off on the steamers Alice and Isabella.

The Yantic was formerly operated between this city, New London and Ocean Beach.

NORWICH TOWN

Vacation Visitors and Travelers—Announcements of Boeck-Smith Wedding Received—Outing Notes.

An uptown observer staying at East Beach, R. I., noted Aug. 15, thousands of swallows in migration, the telegraph poles stretching for a long distance by the shore of the ocean were black with them at sunset, giving the wires the appearance of heavy cables. Aug. 18 towards evening near a shining cloud in the sky was a darker cloud composed entirely of swallows.

Earlier in the season hundreds of sea gulls, those leading forming the letter V in flying, were seen passing over the ocean bearing to west in their flight, those bringing up the rear were distinctly tired beating the

No sharks were seen, but fish were in the waters in greater numbers than in seasons before.
