Advocate Purchase of MAHAN-MORGAN PROPERTY

Interest in Proposition to Provide an Athletic Field in New London.

Much interest is manifested in the proposition presented at the special meeting of the New London court of common council Monday evening for the acquisition by the city of New London of the tract of land in Cedar Grove avenue, owned by the Morgan estate to be used as an athletic field.

The property is ideally located for the purpose, being within easy access of the center of the city and at the same time sufficiently remote to cause annoyance to adjacent residents.

There is an urgent appeal for the securing of such a tract from institutions like the Vocational school, Buckley school, the Y. M. C. A., the Civic league and the Playground association. There is at present no suitable field available for athletic sports in New London and the lack of it has been keenly felt.

The property could be procured for the moderate figure of $6,000 and such a field as is required could be done by the highway department at nominal cost. The character of the soil is such that after the heaviest rain the surface would be dry in an extremely brief interval. The room for two full size baseball diamonds, a football gridiron and a quarter mile running track.

A second proposition, which meets with equal popular favor is that of acquiring a tract bounded by Broad, Vanhook and Cedar streets, owned by Postmaster Bryan F. Mahan, to be utilized as a public park. The spot is most beautiful and its development as an attractive breathing place would add much to the appearance of the city and to the enjoyment of its citizens.

The park commission has the funds available for the purchase of such tracts and has recommended that the transfer be made. All that remains to be done is to secure the approval of the council. The matter is now in the hands of the public property committee, which will report at the next meeting.

AN ANCIENT PRACTICE

Has a Lesson for Us in These Days of Profanity, Says Mission Preacher—Father Matthew at St. Patrick's Church.

At 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning a large congregation of women assembled in St. Patrick's church for the second week day exercises of the mission being given by Missionary Fathers from New York. The preacher was Father Chrysostron of the Second Commandment.

At 9 o'clock low mass was read by Rev. Myles P. Galvin of the parish and the preacher was Father Matthew, leader of the mission here. His topic was The Second Commandment: Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

Under the old law, the preacher said, so revered was the name of Jehovah, the Creator, that among all the tribes of Israel only once was it permitted to be spoken, and then solely by the high priest. With what reverence did the people assemble, prostrating themselves, while the high priest, in even greater reverence, entered the tabernacle and before the Ark of the Covenant invoked this name of might and power!

Even in our day, men and women reverence the name of their parents, are hurt if these names are spoken slightly. How much more so, then, should they revere the name of their God, the Creator of the universe, the Father, the Holy Spirit, the Divine Redeemer, Jesus Christ!

Three Classes of Sins.

Sins against the second commandment are divided into three classes—swearing, cursing and blasphemy.

Swearing is the calling of God to witness anything we do or promise to perform. The commonest expressions are "So help me God," "I call God to witness," and the like. There are times when to swear is not only permissible but honorable. For instance, one of the most solemn acts of a president of the United States is the taking of his inauguration, to swear, his hand on the holy Bible, to perform his duties as chief magistrate of this nation faithfully, to the best of his ability, and this is a worthy action since it shows to the world that America is a nation recognized and acknowledging dependence upon His power.

Again, in courts, there are times when swearing is a legal and proper act; and to swear falsely, a sin against God and the law of the land, known as perjury, and severely punished.

It is not to be done also without speaking a word; if a witness merely places his hand upon the Bible, it is calling God to witness that he is speaking the truth to the truth of the testimony given.

Deplored Prevalence of Perjury.

The preacher deplored the prevalence of perjury in American courts, inasmuch that a certain leading judge has recently declared that it would be a benefit to cease having witnesses swear before giving testimony, since fully one-half the oaths taken are perjury.

The seriousness of this invoking the name of the Almighty as a witness to what is virtually a lie was pointed out by Father Matthew.

Unchristian Parents.

The second sin against the second commandment, cursing, is the calling upon God to work harm to some creature. Such terrible demands as "May God strike you blind!" and the like were cited as horrible examples of this sin.

In their thoughtlessness and anger even parents sometimes curse their children, something one can scarcely credit. The blessing of a parent means so much; a parent's curse is so terrible. The malice of this sin was condemned at length.

The Prayer of Repentance.

Then there is the too common fault of taking the name of God in vain in so many trivial matters; in speaking irreverently that holy name of the Father, Son and Redeemer. The preacher exhorted his hearers to be all in their power to discourage this terrible sin, to protest against it; when, as a person hears one's ears are offended by cursing, one's ears once when on the street, to seek to make reparation for such profanity by saying a little prayer in the heart, the only the three words "My Jesus, mercy!" in atonement for such vile speech and to take, in some measure, for the terrible offense, so that at the hour of death, when there will be but brief time for uttering prayers, when the mind is wandering, one may have a lifetime the dying lips will pronounce with love and confidence that only one name under heaven whereby men may be saved.

Evening Services.

The evening services were Father Matthew, whose subject was Death.

At the evening services the choir, directed by the pastor, sang several hymns, singing also during the time of the benediction of the blessed sacrament, which ends each evening's exercises.

Children's Mission.

Father Seraphim is conducting the mission for children at 4 o'clock each afternoon, many boys and girls attending.
