ADMITS ARRESTS IN NORWICH AND NEW LONDON William White, Caught by Proprietor While Robbing Milhoms Store.

William White, who gave his home as Pascoke, R. I., appeared before the police court Saturday morning and pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking and entering. He was bound over to the next term of the superior court under a $1,000 bond.

White broke into the house at 11 Elm street in which Rosalie Milhoms lives and conducts business. About 4 o'clock Saturday morning Mrs. Milhoms heard a noise in two houses and awoke her husband, who secured his revolver. After getting the weapon Milhoms hid behind a curtain from where he could see anyone who came from the front door to the living rooms in the rear.

White came through the door he was ordered to throw up his hands, which he did after some delay. In the meantime Mrs. Milhoms had notified some of the neighbors who telephoned the police. Officer Grady went to the house and arrested the man who had been covered by the revolver in the hands of Milhoms all the while.

Later in the day it was found that the man had gained entrance to the house through a window in the front of the store. White admitted to the police that he had been arrested in New London and Norwich. The local authorities are under the impression that the man was in this locality about two years ago.

LONGEST AND NARROWEST COUNTRY IN THE WORLD.

Chile is More Than One Vast Nitrate Mine.

Washington, Nov. 5.—So obsessed has the world become with thoughts of war and its weapons that the reader is prone to think of Chile as nothing more than a vast nitrate mine, contributing to munitions factories its millions of tons of this non-metallic mineral, an essential ingredient of high explosives. The nitrate fields of the South American republic have an area of less than 350 square miles, however, and they are located from 50 to 100 miles from the coast in a desolate, arid region. The real Chile, the Chile of the Chileans and not the mining region controlled by British nitrate companies, is described by Bailey Willis in a communication to the National Geographic society, a part of which has been issued as the following geography bulletin:

"Chile is the longest and narrowest of all the countries of the world. It stretches 2,700 miles, from Cape Horn to the deserts of Atacama, within the tropics. Its width is rarely more than 125 miles from the ocean to the Andean crest. If we were to place it upon a similar stretch of coast in North America it would cover Lower California, California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia to the St. Elias district of Alaska.

"Chile is divided into three sections by the natural features of the Pacific slope of the Andes. The northern is that of the semi-arid and desert region, which reaches from Peru southward to Valparaiso. It is an utter desert in the north and becomes less hospitable toward the south. It is traversed from the Andes to the coast by short, deep valleys, separated by high spurs of the mountains, and communication from north to south has always been exceedingly difficult. Nevertheless the Chilean engineers have found a route through which to extend the state railway which will link Santiago with the territories conquered from Peru.

"The central section, extending from the Pacific coast thirty years ago, other areas remain impenetrable forests, still unexplored after nearly 400 years of occupation of the country.

"The third section of Chile, extending southward from Puerto Montt to Cape Horn, is like our southern Alaska coast—a stretch of islands, of peninsulas broken by intricate channels and profound fjords that penetrate far into the land. Tumultuous rivers descend from the Andes and debouch into the fjords in swampy deltas which are covered with dense forests.

"Santiago is the chief city of Chile, but not in the same degree as Buenos Aires is of the Argentine Republic. Buenos Aires has become almost the republic itself, in the sense that Paris is France; but Santiago is only the capital of the country, which has other cities that may compare with it in local importance. Santiago contrasts with Buenos Aires as the conservative capital of a small country with the metropolis of the continent. You feel in the Chilean capital the conservative character of the country, which has ares the liberal spirit of the world city.

"The modern Chileans are descendants of warring Spanish invaders mingled with a warlike Indian race, the Araucanians. They are without question the most independent, the boldest, the most aggressive of South American peoples. The people of Argentina are the most enterprising, as they are the most cosmopolitan and progressive of the Spanish-American nations."

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.
