COURT UPHOLDS COMMON COUNCIL

SAYS HUGHES MADE GOOD WITH LABOR

John F. Gunshanan Addressed Republican Rally in Jewett City.

(Special to The Bulletin.)
Jewett City, Nov. 4.—Charles E.
Hughes has made good with labor," said John F. Gunshanan, former tuberculosis commissioner, in addressing a republican rally here this evening.

"The accounts in newspapers, which I have read, said the speaker, 'of labor union meetings addressed by Frank Morrison, of Washington, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, reveals the fact that not one word of criticism is directed against the attitude toward labor of Charles E. Hughes during his public career.'

"The position of the American Federation of Labor in regard to legislation is clearly defined in the passage of a resolution in a recent convention which reads as follows:

"Resolved, that the American Federation of Labor, as in the past, declares that the regulation, wages and hours of labor should be undertaken through trades union activity and not by legislative means, as an interference with the employment of women and children, health and morals, and the employees of the national, state and municipal governments are affected."

"Now," said Mr. Gunshanan, "here is the position taken by Charles E.
Hughes during his public life, and see how it compares with the above resolution."

Child Labor
During Governor Hughes' term not only were adequate and specific laws passed for the protection of children of industry, but careful provision was made for the enforcement of them.

An act providing an eight hour day for children under 16 in factories, in factories, and in other places of employment certificates to children 14 to 16 years of age.

An act regulating the employment of children in street trades. Known as the newsboy law.

An act improving the compulsory education law for the benefit of children in cities of the first and second class.

An act providing for the proper enforcement of the child labor law in mercantile establishments by placing in fact the authority of department of labor.

An act prohibiting the employment of children in dangerous occupations in fact and in law.

An act regulating the employment of children in bowling alleys and other places of amusement.

Hours of Labor.
A number of laws limiting hours of labor were enacted during Governor Hughes' term of office:

A law limiting the hours of labor to 10 for signmen and railroad telegraphers in signal towers.

A law bringing young women of from 13 to 21 years of age within the protected class. (A law prohibiting night work for women had been held invalid by the court of appeals, so far as it concerned the rights of adult women to determine their own hours of labor.)

Workmen's Compensation.
In his message to the legislature of 1909 Governor Hughes asked for a commission to inquire "into the questions relating to employers' liability and compensation for workmen's injuries." That recommendation was the beginning of state workmen's compensation laws in America.

Three laws relating to this subject were passed and approved by Governor Hughes:

A law providing for automatic compensation by mutual agreement of employer and employee.

A law providing automatic compulsory compensation for injuries. This was the first legislation of this kind enacted in the United States.

Mr. Gunshanan in closing dwelled upon the fact that the weakness of the weakness of the civil service law as it applied to the state tuberculosis sanatoriums.

Incidents in Society
Frank Edward Johnson of Washington is in town for over election.

Miss Isabel Mitchell entertains the Sewing club this afternoon at the Golf club.

Mrs. Thomas Harland of SENTRY Hill has as guest Mrs. Brockway, from New York.

Miss Ida Post of Essex, who has been in town for several days, is leaving for her home.
