LEON GILMAN'S EFFECTS IN NORWICH EXAMINED

Chief Richmond Visits Boarding House, but Finds Nothing of Importance Bearing on Sunday's Shooting—Grandfather Still Alive—Edward Gilman's Funeral Today.

Chief E. H. Richmond of the local police force was in Norwich Monday and called at the boarding house on Church street where Leon Gilman had been staying before his arrest for the murder in this city Sunday. The chief looked through the personal effects of the young man but nothing was learned further than that which the police already knew.

Monday Mrs. Albert M. Gilman, the mother of the accused, stated that she thought her son must have been crazy at the time he did the shooting. The boy had acted strangely for some time, which she thinks was due to his ambitions and his attention to his work.

Of late the young man had been very melancholy, although he was recently promoted to foreman of the department in which he was employed in the munition plant in Norwich. The parents of the boy are at odds as to his motive for the crime, although he wrote a letter to his mother in which it is understood, he made some mention of the fact that he was unbalanced mentally. This letter is now in the hands of Coroner A. G. Bill of Putnam who refuses to make public the contents.

Albert Gilman, father of the boy, has retained Attorney P. J. Danahey to look after the interests of the boy in the case.

The members of the afflicted families state that they knew of no motive that would have tempted the boy to commit such deeds. They stated that the boy had no cause to be jealous, as was reported Sunday, as his grandfather and the accused were on friendly terms. The young man hinted, at the coroner's inquest, that he might have been jealous of Edward Gilman.

For some time there had been talk of the elder Gilman changing his will, but it is not known whether this had anything to do with the motive for the crime or not. Sunday afternoon an attorney was summoned to the bedside of Nelson Gilman, who was in the hospital, and a new will was executed. Dr. Mason stated Monday afternoon that the injured man might live possibly two weeks in the condition in which he now rests, which is the same as Sunday, his body being paralyzed from the neck down. There was no doubt in the mind of the doctor that the man would die from the results of his wound, although he could not state just how long he would linger in a paralyzed condition. The funeral of Edward Gilman will be held from the home of his parents this afternoon. He was born in this city Dec. 10, 1894, the son of John N. and Lottie Shepman Gilman. He was the only son and was educated in the local schools.

The report of the standing committee on salaries of the city officials was next read. Alderman Graves stated that he thought that more money should be appropriated for the purpose of motorizing the fire department. After some discussion it was decided to have the list increased $10,000 for this work. The report of the committee on the city debt was also read. The report of the committee on the city debt was also read.

The Southern New England Telephone company was granted a petition for the construction of sidewalks on the northeast corner of Oak street. These petitions were turned over to the light committee with power.

Wood McCarty petitioned the board for a drain license. He has his petition he sent in his bond, which, after being looked over by the corporation counsel, was found to be wrongly made out. It was decided that when he should produce a bond satisfactory to the counsel he could have his license.

After the list of the salaries of the officials was read it was voted that it should stand as read. This list shows that the salary of the superintendent of the pumping station was increased $100.

After the resolution of Alderman Case, which was adopted, it was decided that the city should borrow $500, or a part, which would go to pay the city's debt.

The Southern New England Telephone company was granted a petition for the construction of sidewalks on the northeast corner of Oak street. These petitions were turned over to the light committee with power.

The report of the standing committee on salaries of the city officials was next given, and it was referred back to the street committee, as nothing definite had been obtained in the matter. City Engineer Robert E. Mitchell was present at the meeting and he told his investigation in the matter. He found that when Willimantic was a borough it was decided to have this street as a city street, but no grant of land by the city was made in 1907 the records show that the street and land cost the city $15,000.

Corporation Counsel T. J. Kelley stated that the records of the sales could not be found in the records in the office of the town clerk. This matter will be looked into further and a report will be made at the next meeting of the board.

The United Charities association held its regular monthly meeting in the rooms of the association Monday evening. The reports of the various committees were read and accepted. After the regular business had been transacted the meeting was adjourned.

Lights Out Again. Again Monday evening, as well as Sunday evening, the electric lights of the city were out for some time. Sunday evening the lights were out during the evening, making it very disagreeable for those who rely wholly on the electric system to furnish light. South Coventry seems to have suffered more than Willimantic and many kicks were heard from that locality on both occasions. The strange thing about the lights was that the street lights remained lighted throughout the trouble while the house lights were out nearly an hour Sunday evening and nearly as long Monday evening. As this is not an uncommon occurrence, something ought to be done in the matter.

Elks Close Successful Carnival. Many attended the closing night of the Elks' carnival at the Pleasant street armory Monday evening. In view of the fact that the affair had been such a success from a financial standpoint, it was decided that the closing night of the admission and the dancing should be free. A large number took advantage of the opportunity and the dancing space was crowded throughout the evening.

Hearing in Auto Case Continued. The case of John M. Ryan of Putnam and Theodore Marrotte of this city, who figured in an automobile accident in Willimantic Saturday evening, was continued at a hearing in the police court Monday morning. Mr. Ryan has retained Attorney John F. Carpenter of Putnam to look out for his interests in the case. The cases will be heard next Saturday.

Fined for Intoxication. Frank Dixon was before the police court Monday morning and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of intoxication. He was arrested Saturday afternoon causing the disturbance. He had nothing to say in his own behalf, although he admitted that he had been arrested for the same offense a short time before. He was fined $5 and costs.

Fines and Jail Sentences. Manlie Coleman and Annie Daman colored, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of lascivious carriage. They were fined $7 and costs and jailed for 30 days.

MEXICO'S ATTITUDE IS CONTINENTAL SOLIDARITY

In the Event of War Between the United States and Any Other Nation Outside of America.

Philadelphia, Penn., Nov. 13.—In the event of war between the United States and any other nation outside of America, Mexico understands that her attitude must be one of complete continental solidarity, said Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican section of the American Joint Commission and the Pennsylvania Arbitration and Peace Society, who had as their guests of honor the members of the American and Mexican Joint Commission.

Dr. L. S. Rowe, president of the Academy, and secretary of the commission, opened the meeting, declaring in his welcoming address that in the conduct of international relations the United States must stand for new and higher standards, with jealousy and distrust giving way to frankness, helpfulness and cooperation. "If there is any one mission," he said, "which the privileged position of the United States calls upon her to perform, it is to sound a new note in international intercourse."

Mr. Cabrera who, in addition to being chairman of the Mexican section of the Commission, is the minister of finance under the Carranza government, discussed the ideals and purposes of the Mexican revolution from a purely scientific viewpoint, but in conclusion he referred to the international situation. He said:

"The main political international problem of Mexico consists of her relations with the United States. Mexico has not been able to regain the confidence in regard to the imperialistic tendency that the Latin-American countries attribute to the United States. During the Mexican revolution after the secret treaty of Vera Cruz and the Columbus expedition, the fears of Mexicans of a conflict with the United States have been constantly revived, chiefly since it is known that one of the political parties of the United States frankly advocates intervention."

ments of non-intervention made by the democratic government of the United States, have not been sufficient to allay the fears of the Mexicans. "As a neighbor of the United States Mexico will also have as an international problem the danger of a conflict between the United States and some other European or Asiatic power. The foes of the United States, that are always foes of the whole American continent, will certainly assume to be friends of Mexico, and will try to take advantage of any sort of resentment, feeling or distrust that Mexico may have against the United States."

"Mexico, nevertheless, understands that in case of a conflict between the United States and any other nation outside of America, her attitude must be one of complete continental solidarity."

"From this viewpoint the Revolutionary government has followed a policy of frankness and consistency in her relations with the United States, putting always her deeds in accordance with her words, and sincerely trying to reach an understanding with the people and the government of the United States."

"Within Mexico, the real international problem means the protection of foreign life and property and the condition of foreigners in regard to natives. On account of the non-enforcement of the political and civil laws in favor of Mexicans and on account of the always watchful diplomatic protection that foreigners have enjoyed, a sort of privileged condition has arisen little by little in favor of foreigners. Mexico has the problem of equating the conditions of Mexicans and foreigners, not by lowering foreigners, but by raising the condition of natives."

"The privileged condition of foreigners that has existed in Mexico for a long time, has produced a certain jealousy and distrust with which Mexicans look upon the increase of immigration and foreign investments in Mexico, since such increase would be considered as the strengthening of a privileged class."

"The problem for Mexico is to find the way in which foreign money and immigration can freely come to Mexico and contribute to her progress without becoming a privileged class, that is to say, that instead of becoming a growing menace to the sovereignty of Mexico, will contribute to the consolidation of her sovereignty an independence as a nation."
