OBITUARY

Stephen H. Hall. The death of Stephen H. Hall, former postmaster of this city, occurred at his home in Beverly, Mass., Friday morning after having been ill a poor health for several months. Mr. Hall was born in Waterford Jan. 3, 1848, the son of Henry M. Hall and Betsey Van Voorhis. He was one of three children. At the age of 14 his father died and he was brought up himself. He went to Springfield, where he found employment in a saw mill. He later was employed in the plant of Smith & Wesson. He continued there for four years and then went west, where he spent some time in Chicago, Omaha, Canada and Texas.

In 1873 he came to Norwich, where he was employed in the plant that is now the site of the Norwich factory. As a leader in the Knights of Labor he entered the field of politics and was elected mayor in 1887, defeating H. H. Osgood. For a period of 16 months he was in the railway mail service. From 1892 to 1894 he served as postmaster of this city, being appointed by President Grover Cleveland. In 1898 he moved to Winchester, Mass., and later to Beverly, where he was inspector for the Shoe Machinery company. During his residence in this city he was a member of the town school board, the Odd Fellows, Waitegan Steam Fire Engine company, Veterans Firemen's association and other local fraternal bodies. In a contest in which he was the most popular man in the state Mr. Hall was second, being beaten by Governor Charles F. Johnson.

He was united in marriage with Miss Caroline E. Blackwell of East Wareham, Mass., in 1873. His wife survives him, with a daughter, Mrs. Albert D. Rogers, of Winchester, Mass. One of Mr. Hall's brothers is dead. James G. Miller, who for the past 15 years has conducted a general grocery store in Sterling, died Saturday. Alonso Huntington was born in Boral in 1828, the son of Silvanus C. and Julia Ann Huntington. He married Francis E. Strickland of Poquonock in 1854 and became a resident of that village in 1860, and for a number of years was employed in Hartford shops at his trade of tool-maker. He later opened a blacksmith shop in Poquonock, which business he later conducted with his son, Henry Huntington. LOCAL POLICE CAPTURED FUGITIVES

Two Fleeing Fugitives From Westerly Placed Under Arrest Near Preston Silk Mill—Four Italians Pitched Into Officer Curtain. Through quick work of the local police two Italian fugitives, fleeing from Westerly, where they were implicated in an assault on a policeman, were arrested Sunday night about 9:30 o'clock near the Preston silk mill. Captain Twomey of the local headquarters received word from Chief Brown of Westerly relative to the arrested fugitives. He was advised that he learned that two of the wanted men got on a Norwich and Westerly train at White Hook and were coming to this city. Captain Twomey sent Police Sergeant Kane and Officers Delaney and Maloney to Preston silk mill in an automobile where they boarded the trolley and placed the two men under arrest. They made no effort to talk with the fugitives, who were dressed and nice looking countrymen who hail from Willimantic. The two men told the Thread City countryman that they fled and are away in their company he was taken to local headquarters where he was delayed for a few moments.

At the same time attempted to arrest one and immediately when he attempted to make the arrest the other threatened to strike him. On the head, face and bit his hand and also his face. All four escaped but the Western police succeeded in capturing two while the other two were lost track of.

One of the fugitives was identified by a scar on his head and blood spots on his collar. He has been implicated in several other affairs and at one time he was a member of the Italian Brotherhood. He succeeded in escaping to New York but on his return he was captured by the Western police.

It appears that on the trip to Norwich Gingerelli and Corfom formed an acquaintance of another well known and nice looking countryman who hails from Willimantic. The two men told the Thread City countryman that they fled and are away in their company he was taken to local headquarters where he was delayed for a few moments.

FAMOUS NEW ENGLAND MEDIUM AT SPIRITUAL ACADEMY

Wellman C. Whitney of Springfield Spoke on Haunted Houses. Many attended the services at the First Spiritual Academy Sunday night and heard Wellman C. Whitney of Springfield, one of New England's best known mediums, speak on things spiritual. Mr. Whitney's topic of the evening was Haunted Houses, and he presented a paper on the subject. The poem of the same name by Mr. Whitney said that we are continually hearing of some houses being haunted, but in the majority of cases there was always some trivial cause such as rats running in the walls which led to the belief that the house was haunted. That there are haunted houses there is no doubt. Occasionally there is a house in which startling and grotesque things happen which are unexplained. It is impossible to explain these happenings other than by the theory of spirits. One who lived in it are attracted to the house by some dreadful experience which occurred during their lives there. As a rule the evil spirits who haunt these occasions such as rattling, stone throwing and other things were never indulged in by the spirits of enlightened individuals who passed through the change of death.

Mr. Whitney gave psychic messages accompanied by names and the relationship that the spirit bore to the people in the audience. Some of the messages were readily recognized. EUROPE SALTED WITH FIRE. New London Pastor Delivered Forceful Address at Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

A good sized audience of men assembled at the Y. M. C. A. meeting at 8:30 yesterday afternoon. A. A. Squires at 8:30 yesterday afternoon. The musical part of the programme was greatly enjoyed and consisted of selections by Swann's orchestra and solo solos by Hugh Kinder. The choir was well enjoyed and appreciated and was delivered by Dr. P. H. Adams of New London. The text selected was Mark 9:49, "For every one shall be salted with fire."

"All things worth while must pass through the hard experience, and this is true of individuals as well as nations. This chair was first a tree and it had to be chopped and sawed and made into a useful piece of furniture. The tiny spring in my watch has been subjected to the severe test in order to become a useful part of my timepiece. Our nation was salted with fire in the Civil War and the result was slavery was abolished. The nations of Europe are being salted with fire—Austria was a nation of intolerance and religious wars, the Austrian prisoners of war are many, and the Y. M. C. A. workers are teaching them the word of God, and they will emerge from the war with a new vision of freedom. Russia persecuted any man dared to promulgate his free and independent belief, but this great nation is, by the trial of fire, coming out into a larger life. France went so far as to tear down the empire of Napoleon, but she is under the awful experience of war and bloodshed being made into a new nation. Germany, under the immortal Luther, was led to a belief in the blessed Bible, but she had gone beyond Luther and had become a nation of intolerance and much of the destructive criticism which is so rampant today. She came from this nation, she like the other nations needed to be salted with fire. England had become proud and arrogant and she had to be salted with fire. In the end the result will be beneficial and through the bitterness of war she will become cleansed. In all of these nations the churches were being filled with men and women praying to God for relief. There is great significance in the fact that the Young Men's Christian Association workers are welcomed to the prison camps and hospitals of the warring nations. No church demonstration is permitted to go, but with this message and call to men to live true lives, goes with the sanction and welcome of all the nations and many of the men to whom it ministers will be filled with the vision of life and duty, and they will under God, help to transform conditions and God will thus be glorified.

The thawing out of frozen water pipes was the cause of a fire in a dwelling house on High street Saturday when the occupants tried to thaw the pipes by burning rags around them which set fire to the wood work. On Friday there were two small fires in the Main street which were quickly extinguished by the use of chemicals from the West Side company. RENEWAL OF BRITISH ACTIVITY IN MESOPOTAMIA

After Seven Months of Inactivity—Are Nearing Kut-el-Amara. Like everything else, the price for cigars is going up. A local cigar manufacturer says that the advance has been made from about $2 to $3 per thousand. This is the first time in the history of this country, with the possible exception of the Civil War period, retail prices of cigars are going up. That cigar smokers have enjoyed a half century of respite from price fluctuation is not because the cost of production remained stationary during all these years. Operating expenses and the prices of raw materials have gone up and down, mostly up, in the past few years. There are two things which have tended to keep the retail prices of cigars uniform; first because of the habit of paying a nickel, six or a quarter, three-for-a-quarter, ten cents straight, and so on up for cigars, without any attention to the price; second because tobacco is generally classified as a luxury and not a necessity.

These two circumstances have made both manufacturers and cigar store keepers loath to disturb the equilibrium of the market. There have been many occasions when the cigar manufacturing trade generally has found its yearly balance to be on the wrong side of the ledger. As far back as ten years ago the profit in cigar manufacturing had been reduced to such an extent that only the most sagacious operators found the business profitable. These conditions continued progressively, and when the European war began, two and one-half years ago, the situation became even more acute. It is true that the great war has not materially increased the exportation of either Cuban or American leaf tobacco to Europe, but it has advanced the price of leaf tobacco, and many entering into cigar manufacturing.
