PAUSE IN FIGHTING ON ALL WAR FRONTS

Nowhere Has There Been an Engagement of More Than Small Proportions

SPORADIC CLASHES OCCURRED IN MACEDONIA

Bombardments and Small Infantry Attacks Continue at Various Points in Belgium and France—On the Somme Front the British Have Carried Out Successful Night Raids—In the Eastern Zone Quiet Prevails Along the Russian and Rumanian Lines Except Southwest of Riga.

Comparative calm continues to prevail on all the battle fronts. Nowhere has there been an engagement which has risen above the proportions of a small encounter.

From the Black Sea along the Russian and Rumanian fronts quiet prevails, except southwest of Riga, where only sporadic clashes have occurred.

DEPORTATIONS OF BELGIAN WORKMEN CONTINUES

But at a Slightly Lower Rate Than Previously.

The Hague, Jan. 30, via London, 6:17 p. m.—The deportations of Belgian workmen continue, but at a slightly lower rate than previously, according to information from an unquestionable source. It is said that the deportations from Brussels are now being made at the rate of about 350 men daily.

Some provinces the Belgians, it is said, are adopting methods of passive resistance in efforts to escape deportation. This resistance takes the form of failing to appear at the appointed place for examination. Out of 1,700 men called in five communities near Malines, not more than one-half presented themselves.

About one thousand Belgians connected with the work of the American Relief Commission—members of provincial and communal committees or helpers in storerooms, mills or shops—have been deported to Germany over the strong protest of the commission.

SECRET INSTRUCTIONS TO ARMED MERCHANTMEN

Have Been Issued by the French Minister of Marine.

Berlin, Jan. 30, by Wireless to Sayville.—Secret instructions issued by the French minister of marine regarding the conduct of armed merchantmen were sent to the French minister of foreign affairs on Oct. 29, 1916, according to the semi-official Overseas News Agency today. In them, says the agency, the following occur:

Manoeuvres in case of attack: As soon as a submarine proceeding towards the merchantmen is sighted, the merchantmen should be alerted and the highest speed and then in the open sea, such a course must be taken as to force the submarine, in order for her to approach, to run aground, by which the submarine's speed is diminished and the efficiency of its gun destroyed. As soon as the submarine is within firing range fire must be opened. If the ship is being pursued and the submarine because of greater speed, drawing nearer, the ship, before the submarine is too near, must without hesitation turn about and overtake the submarine. If a submerged submarine is sighted at a near distance, the engines must be brought to a development of the highest speed. If the submarine is seen from the rear, the merchantmen should turn towards the submarine or away from the submarine, according to whether the submarine is seen less or more than six points from the forecastle ahead. If the bow is turned towards the submarine, one must try to run over the bow.

Indications That There Was a Leak

BROUGHT TO LIGHT IN HEARING AT NEW YORK YESTERDAY

SENSATIONAL MESSAGES

Accurate Forecast of President's Peace Note Was Sent to Brokers Three Hours Before Copies Were Handed to Newspaper Men—Baruch Made $476,168.

New York, Jan. 30.—From the files of a Wall Street broker, from congressional inquiries and reports brought to light private and confidential telegrams regarded in some quarters as "leak" on President Wilson's recent peace note.

The most sensational telegram, containing a brief but remarkably accurate forecast of the contents of the note, was sent by E. F. Hutton & Co., one of the largest brokerage houses in the street, over its private wires to scores of other brokers with whom it did business throughout the country, on the afternoon of December 20, more than three weeks before the first copies of the note were handed to newspaper men by Secretary of State Lansing.

At the time the Hutton message was sent, according to the testimony of Secretary Lansing before the committee in Washington, no one in this country save persons connected with the Hutton firm, was in possession of the note had as much information regarding its contents as the message revealed. The note previously had been sent to a few persons in New York by the Hutton message to various brokers by more than ten hours.

Message Missing

Information on which the message was based, Edward F. Hutton, head of the firm, testified, came in another message, now missing, from F. A. Connelly of F. A. Connelly & Co., a Washington broker, who is a partner in which R. W. Bolling, a brother-in-law of President Wilson, is a partner. Connelly was declared by Hutton to be a member of the committee tomorrow.

Information Based on Rumor

Hutton testified that his understanding was that Connelly's information regarding the note was based on rumor. Indicative that other brokers were in possession of similar information, Hutton said, was another message he produced which Cleverly & Company of Chicago, sent his brother-in-law, Connelly, first message referring to a statement to be issued by the state department against the provisions of the proposed new Mexican constitution, and intimating against foreigners and their interests.

Debate on World Peace in Senate

HALTED BY ACTION OF ADMINISTRATION LEADERS

TABLE CUMMINS MOTION

Senators Lodge, Borah and Other Republicans Have Served Notice That They Will Make Addresses on the Subject in the Near Future—President's Plan Defended.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Debate on President Wilson's world peace address enlivened the senate for several hours today before it was halted by certain action of administration leaders. Then Senator Cummins' motion to take up his resolution to set aside time for a general discussion of the subject was tabled by a vote of 33 to 20.

No Prolonged Discussion. Senators Hitchcock and Williams of the foreign relations committee engineered the movement to kill the Cummins resolution. Senator Martin of New Jersey being the only democrat refusing to support them in their contention that the resolution would destroy the sovereignty of nations and lead the United States inevitably either into constant world war or constant dependence upon the authority of the new world sovereignty which peace league would create.

Hitchcock Defends Peace Plan. Replying, Senator Hitchcock insisted that the president's address was based upon an erroneous assumption that the president proposed a new military world power to enforce peace, and utilizing much of his address, declared, advocated diminution of armaments, the rule of reason and the right of all nations to work out their own policy "unhindered, unthreatened and unafraid."

Praised President's Purpose. Praising the president's purpose in seeking to bring an end to the war, and utilizing much of his address, Senator Cummins confined his criticism to his own interpretation of conditions which Mr. Wilson would impose on America's joining a league to enforce peace.

"There is but one conclusion that can be drawn from the president's utterance," he said, "and that is that over all the nations of the earth that shall be a common and supreme power which will not permit government to decide all the controversies which may lead to international disturbance, but which, having entered judgment upon them, will suggest a principle of peace, but one way in which obedience can always be compelled. The protesting or rebellious nation must be overcome by force of arms."

Policy Calls for Force. "That I am right in the interpretation which I have put upon the message is further proven by the analogy which I have drawn from the Monroe doctrine and my doctrine of the world. I will not pause to point out that instead of analogy there is utter repugnance, but evidently there is a parallel in his mind, and that is sufficient for my present purposes. Those who think that the president does not intend that the declaration of duty and official misconduct.
