Exhibit to Create Interest in Fifth Company to Open Today. Landlord Will Rent Due—Fine For Flourishing Revolver—Motorists Pay to $2.50 For Tail Lights Dark—Hope Valley Store Burglarized.

An exhibit will be opened in the former quarters of the Industrial Trust company in the Rhode Island house this afternoon to create interest in the work of the fifth company in Westley. Those interested pictures demonstrating the work of the company in summer camp will be shown with the paraphernalia of the movement. The work will be supervised by Major Arthur N. Nash, and Lieutenant Harold Merrill. Private Elliott Thorne and other members of the company will assist. It is hoped that as the result of the exhibit the enrollment of the company will be increased. Several new members have been added.

Alleging that $15 rent is due him and that he could not collect it, Angelo Gladstone brought suit against Natale Fusaro. The action was tried before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Third District court yesterday. Judgment was given to the plaintiff in the sum of $15 and costs. The defense, through Attorney John J. Dunn, admitted that $15 was owed and asked that the defendant be willing to pay that amount. Several witnesses were heard. Attorney A. T. L. Ledwith represented the plaintiff. Three autolets were before the court charged with operating machines without the rear light burning. They were Amos S. Burdick, Edward Sullivan of Hopkinton and Andrew J. Hawkins of Hopkinton. Each was sentenced to pay costs of $2.50.

Chief Thomas E. Brown of the Westley police was informed Friday of a break during the preceding night in the store of Chester Sherman of Farm Valley. Sixteen pairs of women's shoes and some novelty jewelry were stolen. It is supposed that entrance was effected between two and three o'clock in the morning as two tramps who were spending the night in the lockup next to the store reported that they heard a disturbance at that time. The goods taken were valued at $30. Sheriff John R. Wilcox of Washington county has been notified of the break and is working on it.

In the past three years four robberies have taken place in this store one only three weeks ago. It is

The course this year has been exceptionally good and well attended.

Factory Hill Fire. Thursday night the alarm for fire was rung on the Baptist bell at 10 o'clock one of the tenement houses on Factory Hill being afire. The hose company and everybody else responded, as people had scarcely reached home after the concert. The fire started from some unknown cause in the Malek store in the basement. Prompt use of the water extinguished the fire. The bystanders also received their share of the water. The principal damage by fire was done in the store, and by water and smoke in the tenements. The storekeeper carried an insurance.

SPECIAL SENATE SESSION ADJOURNED SINE DIE

Confirmed Nominations, but Failed to Ratify Colombian Treaty. Washington, March 16.—The special senate session which began March 15 adjourned sine die today with democratic leaders had secured confirmation of most of the 1,400 nominations which failed at the last session, and had disposed of retaining ratification of the $25,000,000 Colombian treaty.

The treaty, despite repeated urgent requests from President Wilson that it be ratified, was unexpectedly withdrawn on motion of Chairman Stone of the foreign relations committee. Its provisions for payment of indemnity to Colombia for the partition of Panama, and its expression of regret for the ill-feeling arising out of that incident had encountered stubborn republican opposition which apparently convinced the democrats there was no chance of ratification. It is expected a substitute pact will be negotiated and submitted for the senate's approval during the extra session of congress beginning April 16.

First Session of Kind in Many Years. The session just closed was the first of its kind in many years which was not called upon to confirm a cabinet. The nomination of cabinet officials for the new administration President Wilson decided, however, that all the members of his official family could be retained without the formality of renomination. Hundreds of Nominations Confirmed. Among the hundreds of nominations confirmed only one met with pronounced opposition. It was that of Dr. Carl T. Grayson, the president's naval aide and physician, to be a rear admiral. All the other most prominent names, judges and customs officials, failed in the last session only because they were backed behind the troublesome Grayson nomination, which the democrats insisted on keeping at the head of the list. After it was disposed of favorably yesterday, action on the others followed quickly.

ONE GUN MIGHT HAVE SAVED THE ALGONQUIN

Captain Nordberg Gives His Reasons For So Believing. London, March 16.—S. B. Nordberg, who had been armed I do not believe the submarine would have got us," said Captain Nordberg, of the American steamship Algonquin, sunk by a German submarine on March 12, in an interview with The Associated Press today. Explaining his reasons for this opinion he continued: "You must remember that we sighted the submarine when she was three miles away, before she opened fire. She was not submerged and made a good target. If we had carried but one gun at the stern of the Algonquin, I firmly believe we would have been able to give a good account of ourselves in other words, I believe that if we had had a gun, we would have been able to sink her at least once. As it was we were unable to do so. If the submarine commander was not able to get to see through his glasses that we were unarmed, he could not account of the fact that he came empty-handed and saw that we did not fire in return. "I am convinced, from the cautiousness displayed by the submarine in our case that she was not carrying any other weapons. The fact that when the submarine came near the Algonquin it showed only the bottom gun, until it was absolutely settled that we had no guns mounted aboard is an additional reason for my holding the belief that they do not attack armed vessels with the same freedom as in the case of unarmed ships. "Another point worth mentioning is that I am certain that if we had been armed and able to hold our fire until the raider appeared alongside the Algonquin we could have sent the submarine to the bottom once. The commander of the submarine displayed cautionness throughout the business of sinking the Algonquin." Waterbury.—Classes numbering 222 young men and women will be graduated from the city's evening schools on Friday, March 23. This is the largest class ever, last year's class of 205 being the largest up to that time.
