ARMY COOKS AT WESTERLY

Preparedness Camp Busy in Lincoln's Woods—Aunt Betsey Champlin Ninety-ninth Birthday Today—Two Men go to State Workhouse as Common Drunkards—Red Cross Subscriptions Already Over $13,500—Death of William Holston, Former Quonocontaug Hotel Keeper.

Dominic Miglino, cook of the Fifth company, Westery, Coast Artillery corps, now federalized, is chief instructor for camp instruction for mess sergeants and cooks, established in Lincoln's woods. There is a company in the work, which is assigned to afford mess sergeants and cooks of the Rhode Island National Guard opportunity for receiving from experts instruction in company and battalion cooking, the operation of field kitchens and sanitation. The camp will continue until July 10 when the men will return to their respective commands.

The camp is under command of Captain Henry W. Stoness of the quartermaster's department, with Lieutenant Raymond H. Huxford as medical officer. Chief Instructor Miglino of the Fifth company is assisted by L. T. K. Stowell, steward of the Rhode Island State college, and Frederick J. Wilson, of the Eighteenth company, formerly a cook in the regular army. The camp instructions will be supplemented by lectures each evening after mess. A speaker Friday night was Major T. A. Roberts, United States cavalry. Tonight the lecture will be Dr. George E. Crooker, who was captain of the sanitary detachment from Rhode Island in the Spanish-American war. It is expected that fifteen men will be added to the camp next week. Meals will be provided in the camp for cooks to the soldiers who make peck end hikes to Lincoln's woods. Fifty per cent of the men in the camp of instruction have had scarcely any experience in cooking, and the remainder is about equally divided between men who have had slight experience and those who are fairly expert in camp cooking.

Miss Elizabeth H. Champlin, familiarly known in Westery as "Aunt Betsey," will observe her ninety-ninth birthday today, and will hold a reception from 2 to 5 at her home in Maple avenue. Miss Champlin was born in Milltown, North Stonington, not far from the Westery boundary line, on June 23, 1818, her parents being Mrs. and Hagar Champlin. Her father was a Ninigret Indian resident of Charlestown, and her grandmother was an African slave named Violet. Aunt Betsey's grandmother, Mrs. George E. Worden, and set free. Miss Champlin is quite active and is engaged almost daily knitting for the Red Cross. She has been in the service of some of the older families in Westery and vicinity and several years ago no swell marriage was complete without Aunt Betsey's wedding cake.

Another rare volume has been added to the big collection of this class in the Westery Public Library, which was printed for private circulation. The title page reads: "Some Records of Persons by the Name of Worden, particularly of over 1000 of the Ancestors, Kin and descendants of John and Elizabeth Worden, of Washington county, Rhode Island, from 1630 to 1800, and of their descendants, and comprising twelve generations in America, by O. N. Worden, Lewisburg, Pa., 1888." The dedication is to My Loving Cousins of the Worden Lineage, and to the Posterity of Those Deceased, The Tribute of Affection, Compiled During Months of Study of the Records of the Worden and Every Type Set by My Own Hand, is Respectfully Submitted by Oliver Norton Worden.

For the benefit of future compilers I name in their turn, as far as memory serves, the records I somewhat investigated: Norfolk, Providence, Warren, New London, Lyme, Old Lyme, Westery, Hopkinton, Richmond, South Kingstown, Stonington, Groton, Charlestown, North Stonington, Warwick, Farmington, Tuckert, Bristol, Fairfield, Stamford, Greenwich, Waterbury, Westchester county, Dutchess county, Orange county, Westchester, Portsmouth and North Stonington.

To qualify as a common drunkard in the Rhode Island, it is necessary to be arrested a specified number of times within a limited period, as is the case over the border in the United States. It is therefore possible for an alleged moderate drinker to be arrested several times, and to be charged with being a common drunkard. As a rule, however, in Westery, the conditions justify the charge. In the case of Charles Murray and John Walker Opie, both were adjudged guilty and sentenced to six months in the state workhouse at Cranston.

The Stonington Grammar school graduating exercises were held Friday evening in Borough hall and there was large attendance of friends of the school. The graduating class is composed of John Avery, Frederick Cushman, Alice Donohue, Frederick Cushman, Mary Garity, Ross Gilmore, Howard Koehl, John Krizanek, James La Grana, Mary Lewis, Frank Maria, Thomas McCormick, John McDowell, Marion Pendleton, Mildred Perry, Elton Powers, Elizabeth Robinson, Jacob Rosen, Annie Sylvia and John Tanner.

The program of exercises comprised the reading of exercises, the presentation of a June Song, by the class, salutatory by Mary Lewis; violin solo, by Frederick Cushman, and reading of the order of exercises by Howard Koehl. The playlet "Beyond the Gate," was then rendered by the following cast of characters: Child Corinna, Marion Pendleton; Day Dream, Mary Lewis; Work, John Krizanek; Idleness, Elton Powers; Clowns, Elton Powers, Thomas McCormick; Poppies, Madeline Wood, Margaret Monjo; Brownies, Peter Innis, James Holland; Snug Abernethy, Frank Maria; Sleepy Head, Frederick Cushman; Pleasure, Mary Garity; Failure, James La Grana; Discontent, Jacob Rosen; Joy, Annie Sylvia; Love, Hilda Frank; Francis Rose Gilmore; Alice Donohue; Harvesters, Rose Gilmore, Alice Donohue, Elton Powers, Thomas McCormick.

The program included: original reading, Americanism, John Avery; song, Spirit of Peace, class; Oath of the Athenian Youth, by Elton Powers; John Krizanek; valedictory, John Cushman; presentation of diplomas, Superintendent William H. Snyder.

The annual banquet of the Stonington High School Athletic association, was held at the Ocean house, Watch Hill, Friday night.

of the diocese of Providence, will administer the sacrament of confirmation to the members of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Sunday morning.

Town Clerk Elias B. Hinckley of Stonington has sent his report of expenses for the recent registration to the governor, which amounted to $100.25, and which was cheerfully donated.

John J. Dunn, of Westery has been re-elected secretary of the state board of agriculture for the thirteenth successive year. Tristram D. Babcock was re-elected cattle commissioner of Washington county.

William Holston, 65, was operated upon in a hospital at Providence, Monday, and died Friday. He lived in his section for a century and was proprietor of the Kenyon house at Quonocontaug. He leaves his widow. The body arrived in Westery Friday afternoon.

Miss Sadie Fitzpatrick and Frederick Kennerson were married at the home of the bride, in Pawcatuck, on Thursday afternoon. The bride is Miss Elizabeth Riddell, cousin of the bride, and the best man was William Saunders of Norwich.

Mrs. Herbert S. Owens, formerly of New London, national chairman of Women's Service, will lecture this afternoon in Borough hall, Stonington, on the topic: "Woman's Place in the War; What She Can Do and What She Has Done in the Countries of Our Allies."
