COMPLETE RIFLE CONTRACT

Hopkins and Allens Arms Company to Reopen Plant Within

Next Few Weeks—Loan From U. S. to Belgian Government Will Probably Be Used to Carry On Work

receivers or another organization, as section in it has not yet been handed down by the United States court.

The machinery at the plant has been packed in oil during the time that it has remained idle and it will take some time to set it up, as in all probability many changes will be made.

The barrel room of the shop has not been entirely closed with the other departments, as a few men have been employed there right along.

On Monday 25 toolmakers were hired at the plant and it is expected that other departments will soon be engaging men.

The completion of the rifle contract will be the momentary work, after which it is expected that the manufacture of the Berthier machine gun will be taken up at the factory.
