

WEAK KIDNEYS MEAN A WEAK BODY

When you're fifty, your body begins to break a little at the hinges. Motion is more slow and deliberate. You're no longer as you used to be. It is a frequent and unwelcome thought. Certain bodily functions upon which good health and good spirit so much depend, are impaired. The weak spot is generally the bladder. The important symptoms show themselves. Painful and annoying complications in other organs. This is the true, the original, the deadly people. If you only know how, this trouble can be cured.

Chauffeur John Olsen, Driver of Car Which Fractured Walter Keegan's Leg, Has Case Nolle—Accident Unavoidable—Blaze in Gas House—Matters in Superior Court—Auto Truck Smashes Through Closed Railroad Gates—Weddings.

Soon after the automobile owned by T. C. Deveau, of 111 Broadway, New York, struck Walter Keegan, when near his home in Solomonsville, and fractured the boy's leg, as reported in Wednesday's Bulletin, Patrolman Fred N. Wheeler of Pawcatuck appeared and was satisfied that the chauffeur, John Olsen, was not wholly at fault. The tracks of the automobile were plainly discernible on the highway, and indicated that the brakes had been applied in an endeavor to avoid the accident. Olsen said he was driving along the highway at a rate of from 20 to 25 miles an hour. As he approached the team from which the boy alighted and crossed directly in front of the automobile he had slowed down to ten miles an hour and was at that speed when the boy was struck.

years, and who took appeal to the superior court, was not put to plea, in the superior court, as he was without counsel. The court assigned Attorney Lodge to defend, and the case was continued to the November term. Just before court came in at Kingston, Yanello was released on bond of $1,500 to appear in court, the freedom covering two days. He failed to appear and was taken back to court on a capias. It is said that a Providence attorney secured the bond for Yanello, that he paid $150 for the bond, and received $40 for the service, a brother of Yanello furnishing the funds. The jury disagreed in the case of Isaac Ellis, in which he appealed from the judgment of the Third district court, where he was found guilty, and ordered to pay a fine of $5 and costs of $20 for driving an automobile past a trolley car that was at a standstill discharging passengers. The jury stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal. The counsel fees and appeal greatly exceeds the penalty of the lower court. In the event of the case being tried again, it will mean added expense to Mr. Ellis. He would have been financially better off had he abided by the decision of the lower court, but he has the satisfaction of an acquittal of the charge.

Mrs. Augusta G. Hazard, widow of John Newfield Hazard, died Monday at White Sulphur Springs, Va., after several weeks' illness. Among the best reminders of Mrs. Hazard's welfare work is the Neighborhood Guild building, which she erected in Peace Dale as a memorial to her husband, and which was dedicated seventeen years ago. Under a competent director, engaged by Mrs. Hazard, various activities for betterment of the community including the working class, are carried on at the Guild. She also contributed liberally to the outfitting of the new high school building, and established a fund to provide for the park at the Wakefield Grammar school.

Hundreds of delegates from different parts of the state assembled at the First Baptist church at Warren Wednesday morning for the 150th anniversary and the 151st annual session of the Warren association. There were morning, afternoon and evening sessions, the morning session beginning at 10 a. m. in the main auditorium of the Warren church. The Rev. H. W. Johnson, pastor, presided. The opening of the first session was at the call of the moderator, Rev. Joseph L. Pease, of Westfield. The program was sung by the congregation, after which there was scripture reading by Rev. J. Lucas of Newport; prayer by Rev. A. A. G. Davis, of Providence; invitation to visiting brethren; report to the session of the church letter; annual sermon by Rev. John J. McKeever, D. D., of Newport; prayer and adjournment. Luncheon was served at noon. The program of the afternoon session was as follows: 2 p. m.—Devotional service; hymn, "Come, Thou Almighty King, 61; scripture readings, Deuteronomy 1, 2, 3; prayer; Rev. Elmer E. Fox, of Providence; anniversary address, "A Changing World and an Eternal Kingdom," by Rev. D. W. Brown, of French, New Haven; address, "What Your Contributions Are Accomplishing in the Orient," by Rev. H. Rose, of Hilo, Philippine Islands; address, "The Church and the World's Outlook," by Rev. Robert L. Webb, Ph. D., of New York; address, "The Rev. Edwin Simpson, superintendent of Anti-Saloon League; report of the committee on the appointment of delegates to report at the annual meeting in 1918, etc.

Wednesday morning an attempt was made to set off a gas alarm, but a blaze in the gas house. After one stroke of the bell a section of the fire alarm system went out of commission. Chief Cottrell soon located the trouble and within half an hour the service was back in condition. Telephone call to the station, and the Cyclones responded, but the fire had been extinguished without loss of consequence before the fire apparatus arrived. The alarm system of the whistle were made in connection with the search for the trouble. Now the fire alarm system is back in first class working condition.

James Southwick, driver of one of the Charles H. G. trucks, had a close call at about 11.30 Wednesday morning. As he approached the Palmer street crossing the tracks were down and a freight train was passing. He attempted to bring the auto truck to a standstill, but did not succeed in doing so. The truck was run over, smashed through the gate and against the moving train. The truck was crushed and the driver, James Southwick, escaped serious injury. He was shaken up by the impact and his nervous system was temporarily considerably disarranged.

Dr. Frank S. Norrick of New London was in Westery Wednesday. Paul Reitzel has purchased the Emory Rhode property on Moss Hill. Wednesday and Thursday were "wheatless days" in Rhode Island, but were not observed in Westery.

William J. Marshall of Providence and Doris Idamale Palmer of Westery were married in Providence Sept. 15, 1917. The post office and general store at Kenyon was feloniously entered on Tuesday night and $100 in cash and a lot of tobacco and cigarettes taken. Miss Margaret Slattery, the retired district nurse, who is on a month's vacation and during that period is not permitted to practice, is to continue her residence in Westery and take up her post office at Kenyon.

Local Laconics. Dr. Frank S. Norrick of New London was in Westery Wednesday. Paul Reitzel has purchased the Emory Rhode property on Moss Hill. Wednesday and Thursday were "wheatless days" in Rhode Island, but were not observed in Westery.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache, nervousness, etc., are probably in probably nine cases out of ten, the result of excessive secretion of acid in the stomach. This acid causes the formation of gas and acid indigestion. Gas distends the stomach and causes that full oppressive burning feeling sometimes known as "heartburn." The acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excessive development or secretion of acid. To stop or prevent this souring of the food coming to the stomach, and to neutralize the acid and make it less irritating, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach should be taken in the form of a natural, pure, or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This weakens the stomach, neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfect and harmless remedy. An antidote, such as bicarbonate of soda, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial stimulants. Magnesia comes in many forms, but the best is that which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

LIBERTY BONDS DELAY. Making Many Local People Impatient—Can't Understand Government Tardiness.

While there is a prospect that some of the liberty bonds sold last June to the people of Danielson, a quantity may be received here within a few days, there is no disguising the fact that scores of people who subscribed for the bonds are disappointed over the delay in making deliveries. This unfortunate effect is taken in various well informed quarters to indicate a new difficulty in placing the forthcoming issue of bonds. It is going to be a mighty difficult thing to sell to persons who never in their lives until June last year had paid for a bond another bond and get their money for it. As a matter of fact, some of these people are under the impression that they have lost their money.

This may seem exceedingly strange to those who are well informed about the bonds and the government's difficulties in getting them issued; nevertheless, it is a fact. To counteract such a fear in one case a Danielson man had to go so far as to offer to refund the money to a young woman in his employ who had purchased and paid for a bond and had nothing but a receipt to show for it.

Some of these, in fact many of those, in Danielson who subscribed to the bonds and who have paid in their hands have never set eyes on a bond of any kind, so it is not surprising that they are doubtful as to just what has become of their money and they certainly, while in such a state of mind, are not good prospects as future buyers of the government's bonds. The government can do anything better to help the sale of the forthcoming issue of bonds to people in this section than make prompt delivery of the bonds subscribed and in many cases paid for last June.

DEAD AT 92. Samuel J. Goldsmith, Native of Volantown, Had Retained Remarkable Strength and Health.

Samuel J. Goldsmith, 92, died late Tuesday night at the famous old Brown place in the town of Foster. Mr. Goldsmith was born in Volantown but for many years made his home in Providence, where he was a foreman in the plant of the American Screw Co. Thirty years ago he resigned, came to Foster, where he had purchased a farm and had since made his home in that neighboring town.

Mr. Goldsmith was a veteran of the Civil war, in which he served as a member of Battery B, First Rhode Island Light Artillery, and he saw four years of service, during which he was of the hard-fought battles of the great struggle between the north and the south.

He was a man of extraordinary health and strength and up to the time that he was 90 years of age it was his custom to go into the woods and cut down trees for the exercise as well as for the material benefit that would accrue from such work.

Mr. Goldsmith leaves two daughters, Mrs. William Birdwell, Providence, Mrs. Walter R. Brown, North Providence, two brothers, James H. Foster, Mass., and David R. Central Falls, R. I., and a sister, Mrs. Mary L. Kline, Hartford. Mr. Goldsmith died three years ago last winter.

Auto Truck Driven by David Favreau Runs on Track in Front of Express—Driver and F. M. Bruce Jump and With Leo Pomminville, 5, Escape Injury—Auto Collision Case—Teachers Assessed Under Pension Act—Superior Court Session Friday—Sale of Talking Machine Needle Business.

F. M. Bruce, David Favreau, who was driving, and Leo Pomminville, 5, of Livery street, had a narrow escape from death Wednesday afternoon when the automobile truck in which they were riding was struck at the May street crossing by the Boston-New York express due here about 3:20.

As the truck approached the tracks, from the easterly side, the gates of the crossing were raised and Favreau had no idea that the express was rushing at him until his machine was well out onto Track No. 1. He attempted to reverse a near-wild ride, but in so doing stalled it, the truck stopping with its forward wheels on Track No. 2, on which the train was running.

The driver was quick to size up the situation, as was Mr. Bruce. Mr. Bruce, who owned a near-wild ride, had no idea that the express was rushing at him until his machine was well out onto Track No. 1. He attempted to reverse a near-wild ride, but in so doing stalled it, the truck stopping with its forward wheels on Track No. 2, on which the train was running.

The train was stopped and a crowd quickly gathered. All the occupants of the truck escaped without a scratch though the child was badly frightened by the crash of the train.

Cub W. Shippee, a veteran employee of the New Haven road, was on duty at the crossing at the time of the accident.

The damage to the truck was chiefly confined to the forward part. The chassis was bent in and the engine smashed to bits. The damage to the car is quite considerable.

Earlier Wednesday at this same crossing there was a near-wild ride when a team tried to rush across while the gates were being lowered for an approaching train.

CUT IN AHEAD. Charles Lucas Before Court Charged With Collision With Car of Edgar Smith—Latter Seriously Injured.

Charles Lucas, Danielson, and employed by H. Starkist, of that place, was before a justice's court in the town of Woodstock Wednesday to answer to a charge of having caused the collision between an automobile and a touring car in which Edgar Smith of Woodstock street, this city, was killed with his son and other passengers.

Lucas denied being responsible for the Sunday afternoon accident, but the hearing was asked for that he might have an opportunity to procure counsel. The case was taken up Saturday of this week.

According to the story as told by representatives of the plaintiff, he was riding in his car last Sunday afternoon, one of his sons driving, and he had gone out of this city on the Pomfret road to the Gary school house, this city, on the highway from there into the town of Woodstock to avoid the heavy auto-traffic in the city.

Following the collision in Putnam, coming down the Woodstock highway a Ford truck went by the Smith car and cut across its wheels, cut in ahead of him, a rear wheel on the Ford truck hooked into a forward wheel on the Smith car, causing the plaintiff's car to swerve and tip over, the occupants being pinned beneath the machine. It is also claimed that the Ford truck driver who was driving the car at the time of the accident did not stop to halt his machine, but went on and away.

Mr. Smith has been ill at home since last fall and Thursday was his first trip out. It is thought he was internally injured in Thursday's accident.

Attention is called to the fact that the criminal term will open in Putnam on the first Tuesday in October, Oct. 2.

Big Games Promised. Manager Thomas McDermott of the Putnam baseball team promises some big games to wind up the 1917 season. Following the policy of the Putnam management for the past few seasons Manager McDermott will give out the best talent he has in the big league talent between now and the end of the season.

When Southbridge comes here for next Sunday's game the visitors will have a number of league players in the lineup, men who have been in the International and other circuits during the 1917 season. The Putnam team will be strengthened also, insuring a great contest.

DEAN BUSINESS SOLD. Announcement was made of the sale of the John M. Dean corporation, manufacturers of talking machine needles, to Otto Heineken, of New York, John M. Dean, Sr., is to retire from the business, but Charles E. Dean and John M. Dean, Jr., are to remain.

It is said that the Heineken company has plans for practically doubling the output of this plant, which supplies the country with talking machine needles in the country and which are sold the world over. The business was established here about seven years ago.

MAKING JELLY "JELL". Advice Given by Miss Embleton, Home Economics Demonstrator for the County.

Miss Charlotte Embleton, home economics demonstrator, has given the following advice to housewives relative to jelly making: The process of jelly-making appears simple enough, yet many housewives hesitate to make it, fearing the jelly will not "jell". A good jelly is a sparkling, transparent product that will retain the shape of the mold after being removed. The texture is so tender it cuts easily with a spoon, yet so firm that the angles retain their shape in order to obtain such a product the fruit juice must contain some acid and a substance called "pectin." Pectin is the substance that causes the jelly to become firm. In order to determine whether pectin is present, take an equal measure of cold fruit juice and grain alcohol, about one tablespoon of each, and mix together in a glass. A thick clot in the bottom of the glass indicates that pectin is present.

Amount of Sugar. The amount of sugar used is determined by the amount of pectin. After testing the juice with alcohol, pour the pectin into another glass. If the pectin comes out in one solid mass, the juice contains enough pectin to make a good amount of pectin use about half the measure of sugar to each measure of juice.

Approved Method. The method for making all jellies is the same. Cook the fruit rather than the juice with alcohol, pour the pectin into another glass. If the pectin comes out in one solid mass, the juice contains enough pectin to make a good amount of pectin use about half the measure of sugar to each measure of juice.
