Clarence King, of Danielson, on Trial Charged With Theft of Diamond Rings—Criminal Cases Disposed of, Judge Reed Scoring Town's Rum Business—Filling Red Cross Orders—County Corn Show to be Held in November.

The case of the state vs. Clarence King, Danielson, charged with theft, was commenced Tuesday in the superior court before Judge Joel H. Reed. The trial was completed when court adjourned for the day.

The defendant is charged with being implicated in the disappearance of diamond rings from the jewelry store of McEwen and Chapin in Danielson, the loss of the gems discovered July 13 last.

The jury in the case is as follows: Olin D. Farrow, Clarence W. Chase, Freeman A. Libby, Francis M. Wright, W. Ives, Windham; Charles Butler, Ashford; Oliver F. Downs, Brookline; Edward Barrows, Canterbury; George S. Gracie, Chapin; C. G. Eastford; Austin E. Pear, Hampton; John Ash, Pomfret; Chauncey F. Gaster, Scotland.

The defence denies that King is guilty of theft in connection with the disappearance of jewelry mentioned in the indictment.

Henry A. McEwen of the firm that lost the rings testified that in July last the firm had on hand about 40 diamond rings, which were kept in a safe. This safe stood in the main alleyway of the store and was easy of access. The safe, however, was left unlocked. The diamonds were missing July 13, a Friday.

Mr. McEwen gave a description of articles later discovered missing, including a wrist watch, necklace, pendant, etc. Some of the articles, since missing, have been recovered, were displayed in court.

Recovered From Loan Shops—Mr. McEwen testified as to where rings and other valuables were recovered—from loan shops in New Haven, Providence, New York, and Springfield, Mass., and told of the amount of money the firm paid to recover the valuables, in each case the amount being the same as loaned on them. Some of the valuables, it was later charged by different witnesses, were pawned by Albert Talnoe, Danielson, who is also to face a charge similar to that for which King is standing trial.

Mr. Talnoe testified that he had known King about a year and that King was in the habit of coming to his store to buy phonograph records. Witness said Talnoe was in the habit of coming to the store, sometimes with King, at other times alone. The rings had not been on the shelves, but put away in the safe, for ten days before they were missed. Mr. McEwen told of going about to different cities in the vicinity of New Haven, J. Grimshaw of Danielson and recovering missing jewelry.

Witness From Fort Terry—Lucien Lambert, member of the 28th company, L. I. S., now stationed at Fort Terry, but early in July clerk in the McEwen and Chapin store, was called as a witness. Said he was ordered to display the safe in the store show window and upon going to the safe discovered that they were missing. He is acquainted, he said, with King and King, he said, frequently came to the store. He remembered seeing Talnoe near the safe at one time, but not on the photograph records that were being played in the store.

Loan Men Testify—Late in the afternoon the case had progressed to the point where loan men were called to the stand as witnesses.

The first of these was Jacob Aranson, Newport, R. I. He said that he is quite certain that King came to his store on Friday, July 13, in company with Talnoe. King didn't stay in the place two minutes. Aranson said Talnoe, of course, was the man in which he wanted a loan, but Aranson said he would not give the amount desired, so the men went out. Within a few minutes Talnoe came back and pawned a diamond ring, signing as Albert Papers.

Under cross-examination by Attorney E. L. Douglas, formerly prosecuting King, Mr. Aranson said "I certainly do remember that these men came to my store on Friday, July 13. Aranson said he had difficulty in recognizing King in the soldier's uniform he is now wearing."

Pawned New Rings—Samuel Komroff, New Haven, jeweler and loan merchant, identified King as having been in his place of business on State street, in July.

This witness testified that King came into his place of business one morning at about 10 o'clock and pawned a lady's small bachelier set diamond ring, a ring which Komroff said King told him he was from Ansonia. King came in with Talnoe, who also pawned a ring similar to the one put up by King, he said. The circumstances made him suspicious, the witness testified. He gave a total of $12 on the two rings, Komroff said, and later turned them over to Chief Grimshaw and Mr. McEwen.

Recognized by Providence Witness—Samuel Kaplan, a clerk for the New Bedford Diamond company and the Narragansett Loan company, forwarded and those to whom they are addressed will have to pay the postage due, as is now done with mail matter that does not carry a sufficient amount of stamps.

The two cent rate on first class mail matter will apply to letters posted at the local office for points on the R. F. D. route out of the Danielson office, but not for points on other R. F. D. routes.
