LOCAL ITALIAN PEOPLE

Parade in Afternoon Followed by Concert and Dance in Evening.

Columbus day was fittingly celebrated by the Italian people of the city on Friday with a parade in the afternoon and a concert and dance in the evening.

The Italian band, which was represented in their new uniforms of blue with brass buttons and red trimmings, made their first public appearance, heading the parade in its trip about the principal streets in the business district of the city.

There were about three hundred in line, including the band, the common council and Mayor Allyn L. Brown and other city officials. The members of the Garibaldi band, who were dressed in white and carried flags. Heading the little girls, who were dressed in white and carried flags. Heading the little girls were two who were dressed in white and carried flags.

Shortly before the organization of the parade, Bruno Pedace, president of the Italian society, addressed the members of the society and the band, and then introduced John Ruggero of New London, who extended the congratulations of the New London band to the local band. After this address the parade formed.

At the conclusion of the parade there was a concert in Froehlichkeit hall given by the band under the direction of the conductor, Prof. N. D. Louie. The program consisted of Il Traviatore, Cavalleria Rusticana, waltzes and other popular music.

Following the concert, the floor of the hall was cleared for dancing and an elaborate program of dance music was played by the band. Some of the music played was composed by the leader, Prof. D. Louie. At the intermediate intervals of the dancing, the waltzes and soda were served. There were about 600 present at the concert and dance.

The band, which numbers 35 members, was presented many gifts from the ladies who have taken much interest in its welfare. The New London band presented the local band with a valuable gift. Michael D'Attili, a member of the band, presented a scarfpin by a number of his friends. Seven new musicians were enrolled in the band, bringing the number of players up to 42. A large delegation from the Sons of Italy, the Italian American society, were present and extended their congratulations.

The band, which is a great credit to the Italian population of this city, was organized through the efforts of the following: R. Attili, Alexander Alexander, E. Pedace, C. Leone and L. Quintillani.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS HEARS ROUTINE REPORTS

Officers Will Take Sofa Pillows to Soldiers at Noroton Home.

Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps No. 16, held their regular meeting Friday afternoon in the Buckingham Memorial at 8 o'clock. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted.

The first delegate, Mrs. Gertrude B. Toobill, reported on the meeting of the school, the Old Fellows and President Josephine E. Hiscocq and Secretary Josephine E. Hiscocq, who took the home, taking with them the sofa pillows which the corps sends to the soldiers each year.

The meeting closed in the usual form with singing of America and the song to which was the topic.

Mrs. Mabel E. George, patriotic instructor for the local corps, has received the following circular from Maude E. Baker, department patriotic instructor:

Let it be our aim to bring this great work of patriotism before the younger generation, striving to promote patriotic education, distribute our literature through the schools, teach them how to display the flag properly, how to wear red, white and blue bands, and how to make the most of the flag as an article of dress.

See that each school room has a flag. If all are supplied in your community will receive the same attention to other schools in places where they have no corps?

Observe all holidays by having entertainments and debates, inviting school children to take part and have them as possible so that the people may know that we stand first in patriotic work.

Display the flag on holidays at full staff, except on days when the flag should fly at half staff from sunrise to noon and full staff from noon to sunset. It should be lowered to full staff, then lowered for forenoon and evening.

When the flag is passing, on parade or in review, the spectator should, if walking, rise, stand at attention, if on horseback, salute.

In decorating, the flag should never be festooned or draped. Always hung straight up. It should be raised to the top of the pole in upper right hand corner.

The flag is used as a banner in the streets running east and west, and to the east in streets running north and south.

The flag should never be used as a cover over a table, desk or box, and where any can be set or placed upon the flag.

The circular also contains the text of the laws in regard to the misuse of national and state flags and in regard to schoolhouse flags.
