POETRY

Two Soldiers' Poems. In the knapsack of both the Greek and Bulgarian soldiers little poems are often found.

Greek Soldier's Poem. I leave my lovely island home, Corfu, so lanes where I have strayed, The mother dear who bore me, The father old and gray, Are you not tired of washing clean Of bloodstains black and red The vestments and the vessels rich? Are you not yet weary of life?

Bulgarian Soldier's Poem. Mother, are you not content? Four cartloads I have brought, Four cartloads full of precious loot And one of silver, but I, Mother, are you not weary yet Of hiding in the woods, Of hiding under the damp earth The corpses I have killed? Are you not tired of washing clean Of bloodstains black and red The vestments and the vessels rich? Are you not yet weary of life?

A NEW SONG OF HATE. My Tuesdays are meatless, My Wednesdays are wheatless, I'm getting more eatless Each day.

My home it is heartless, My bed it is sheetless— They're at sea to the Y. M. C.

The bar rooms are treatless, My coffee is sweetless, Each day I get poorer

My stockings are feelless, My trousers are feelless, By gosh—but I do hate The Kaiser!

Humor of the Day. "How is the soil on your farm?" "The richest ever, raised onions as large as watermelons, I don't dare plant any pumpkins."—Judge.

"We started housekeeping on $15 a week." "If you were to try that now, Ma, you and Pa would starve to death before your honeymoon was over."—Detroit Free Press.

"My children are very polite." "His politeness was hard put to it today, however." "How was that?" "He tried to hold a revolving door open."—Kansas City Journal.

"You shouldn't worry about what the newspapers say about you." "I don't," replied Senator Sorghum. "What makes me so anxious is the fact that they are overlooking me as a topic."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Wigwag—it looks very much like rain. You had better take your umbrella.

My Wigwag—My own umbrella! What nonsense! Haven't we any borrowed ones?—Philadelphia Record.

"She married a man after an acquaintance of two weeks. Don't you think a girl foolish to marry a man who doesn't know her?" "It's the only way to get a husband sometimes."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"What makes me as anxious is the fact that they are overlooking me as a topic."—Washington Star.
