

EVENTS OF BATTLE FRONTS
RESULTS OF GREAT GERMAN OFFENSIVE

One On the Allied Lines Near Armentieres, the Other to the North of Albert

BLOW LOOKED FOR ON OLD ARRAS-LENS FRONT

The Purpose of Such Attacks Would Be to Cut into the Allied Lines of the High Ground That Projects into the Territory Now Held By the Germans, and Where They Sustained Such Terrible Losses in Their Recent Two Frontal Attacks—Since the Savage Attack On the American Forces at Schicheprey On Saturday There Had Been No Fighting Out of the Ordinary.

Events along the battle line in France and in Belgium seem to be shaping themselves for a resumption of the great German offensive. Since the savage attack on the American forces at Schicheprey on Saturday there has been no fighting of an extraordinary nature along the front, but there have been indications that the Germans are almost ready to resume the sledge hammer blows they have been aiming at the allied armies.

Purpose of Enemy Movements. The purpose of these movements will be to cut deep into the allied lines on each side of the promontory that projects out into German-held territory and terminates on the old Arras-Lens front.

Successful attacks were to be launched by the Germans at Bethune and Messin. The British might be forced to withdraw from Arras without having a chance to defend their positions there.

Along the line of the Ypres, southwest of Ypres, on the northern front, there has not been any notable fighting, nor have the Germans made any attempt at breaking the Belgian line north of Ypres since King Albert's men smothered a great assault on that part of the front.

Continuous Artillery Duel. South of Albert at Villers-Bretonneux, there has been a continuous artillery duel for the past couple of days, and a German attack there may be expected soon.

The attack on the Americans at Schicheprey, which had as its object the piercing of the American lines, or perhaps the military of the American and French forces, which are holding adjacent positions there, it met with defeat, however, and the line, which was held by the old British attack, has again been restored.
