

WILLIMANTIC CAR OWNERS PATRIOTIC SO CONSERVE GASOLINE Although many local people are not in favor of the way the government is trying to save gasoline by stopping pleasure riding Sundays, there were few local objectors. The streets were deserted in the automobile line, and what few cars passed through Willimantic were chiefly of some other state registration. The garage and gasoline man, for whom Sunday is the best day, had a real day of rest. Many dealers sold less than ten gallons of gas during the entire day. The antiquated horse was brought back into the limelight. One local transportation company used a two-seated wagon to carry passengers. Answer Country's Call. Three colored men left this city on Sunday morning for Camp Devens from exemption board Number 17. The men were Garold Grant, Willimantic, Walter J. Newport of Central Village and Henry L. Dorous of Hampton. This is the second group of colored men from this district to enter the national army. Joseph Butera, formerly of Willimantic, was arrested in Woonsocket, R. I., by the police of that place Saturday on a warrant made out in this city charging him with non-support. He has been away from his wife and children in this city for some time.

Repairing Fire Box. Box M of the local fire alarm system is being repaired by the fire department electricians. The box is located at the corner of Main and Jackson streets near the trolley line and for some time it has given trouble now and then by sounding one stroke when the trolley car passes. There was some trouble on the wires Saturday evening caused by the lightning and it was found that the box was the center of the trouble so it is now out of the circuit awaiting repairs. The nearest box to that location is on Lincoln square.

Cars Leave Siding Near Bolton. Trains running through this city on the Hartford branch are about half an hour late Sunday, because of a week at Vernon.

The week happened Sunday morning at four o'clock when eight cars on a siding near Bolton broke loose, and after traveling some distance on the main line, took the switch at Vernon, and crashed into a string of coal cars, demolishing the one outside. Field Day Programme at Park. The only public event in Willimantic today, Labor Day, will be the outing and field day at Recreation Park. The outing will open at two o'clock in the afternoon with an athletic meet. The events are divided into classes for men, women, boys, girls, and children under 12. These events are open to all, and prizes will be given the winner. At 3.30, or at the close of the meet, there will be a baseball game between the Sodom Stars of this city and the Tatville team. In the evening there will be a band concert and a war rally with two speakers.

Timothy Crowley pleaded guilty before the city court, Saturday morning to violation of the traffic rules by September the right of the silent policeman at the corner of Church and Main streets. He was fined $2 and costs, amounting to $3.50 which he paid.

Eddie Fay pleaded guilty to breach of the peace, through his attorney, Thomas J. Kelley. The breach of the peace consisted in Fay throwing his wife down, but she was not hurt. He was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $14.60, which he paid.

Death of Mrs. Annie Albertine Avery. Mrs. Annie A. Avery, 49, a former resident of this city, died at New Bedford, Mass., Saturday morning. She was born in Hanover, June 12, 1869, the daughter of Ernest L. and Annie C. Avery. Most of her life was spent in this part of the state, and up to about ten years ago, she resided in Willimantic. She is survived by her husband, a sister, Mrs. Marion McDougall of Mappa, Calif., and a brother, Edward B. Albertine of Westfield, Mass.

Rev. C. Harley Smith and family left this morning on their vacation, which is to last three weeks. They will visit with friends in New London where Mr. Smith preached before leaving to this city, and after going to Providence, R. I., they will spend the rest of their time at their cottage on Cape Cod. During Rev. Mr. Smith's absence, the pulpit will be supplied. Next Sunday, Rev. Mr. Batley will preach under the auspices of the Connecticut Temperance association, and on the following Sunday, Rev. G. Scribner of Norwich will occupy the pulpit.

Brief Mention. Miss Anna Dubay of Lawrence, Mass., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. William P. Dineen of Windham road.

Willimantic soldiers and sailors home over Sunday included Raymond Parker, Omer Paulhus, Raymond Fox, Clayton Taylor, Edward Foran, E. V. Rowan, John Moriarty, Charles Winterston.

Robert Fitzpatrick of Stafford Springs is being spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Squires of Union street.

John Howie, who drove an automobile truck from the factory in Leominster, Mich., arrived in this city Saturday.

Frank Carroll of Elm street was arrested on complaint of his wife, Saturday evening on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace.

Daniel Guineo of Plainfield, N. J., and Miss Annie Guineo of Cambridge, Mass., who have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foley have returned to their homes. Miss Guineo is a teacher in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. White have returned home after spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lafleur of Main street.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. White have returned from a visit to Maine, where the doctor remained while recovering from a recent operation for appendicitis.

Francis Loveland, eight years old, was run into by one of the Hartford automobiles Sunday afternoon at 2.45, on Main street, near the post office, and his leg was broken near the hip.

According to an eye witness, both parties were a little blame. This person says that just before the accident, two boys, including Loveland, started to cross the street. The first boy reached the other side, but Loveland was in the middle of the right hand side of the street, when the jitney, bound for Railroad street, ran into him. The driver of the car dodged the first boy, and immediately thought there was no other. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where he is now receiving attention. The injured child is being cared for by Mrs. O. S. Loveland of 66 Windham street. The driver of the car was Benjamin Apier of Hartford.

A benefit dance and concert for the Russian Orthodox church of this city was given at Labor Union hall Saturday evening. There was a good sized crowd in attendance, and music was furnished by an orchestra composed of members of the church. Arrangements were in charge of Thomas Lucas who was chairman of the committee.

The funeral of Helen, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Gunny, who died Friday afternoon of tubercular meningitis, was held Saturday afternoon at 1.30 at the home of her parents at 83 Jackson place. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

City water department men repaired the leak in the city water main near the pumping station Sunday. The pumps were shut off during that time, but the city was supplied with water from the reservoir.

MOOSUP In the casualty list from overseas announced Aug. 28th, appears the name of Fred C. Gunny, of this village, as severely wounded. He is the son of Joseph and Catherine Gravelin, is twenty-four years of age and enlisted in the regular army soon after war was declared. He has a brother, Joseph H. Gravelin, in the navy. His parents were notified from Washington of his being wounded several days ago. He is the second man from the town of Plainfield who has been severely wounded while in active service. The first was Joseph Goudreau of this village, who died of his wounds June 7, 1918. He was the son of Max and Delma Goudreau. They have a son, Joseph, now in France, and another son, Amere, goes to Camp Greentail this week. Joseph Vanasse of Plainfield village, also lost his life in the service, having contracted disease while in the trenches and dying after being returned to the United States.

Honorable Distinction. A patch on the pantaloons was once not far removed from disgrace, in public estimation. Now it is one of the most decorations of war—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

JEWETT CITY The piece of the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad that runs through Jewett City has been kept hot for the past two days. People who ride the locomotive whistles rushed to the depot four different times Saturday and as many Sunday to see the big train of empty Pullman bound north. Some said they were being routed to Camp Devens to carry troops, but inquiry proved they were deadhead sleepers bound for Portland, Me., to be used on the heavy western Bear Harbor express traffic. Several troop trains were moved both north and south Saturday and Sunday; in all more than a dozen specials.

A Meteoric Sunday. It was hardly believable, the great reduction in volume of the automobile traffic over the state road Sunday. On pleasant Sundays heretofore the summer passing through the borough has often been on the average of from 40 to 60 an hour. Sunday there were only four or five an hour. Local people walked to church and many accompanied by their families, but home. Nevertheless, the Jewett City automobile owners believe that the man who works all the week should be allowed more than a day's rest.

The Congregational Sunday school picnic will be held Sept. 14th. These committees were appointed Sunday: Place, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, refreshments, Mrs. A. Faust, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Miss Mabel Wilcox, Miss Sadie Thompson, Miss Ethel Thompson, Miss Gladys Jeffers, Miss Clara Adams, games, H. E. Paul, Jr., and a committee which may select transportation, Dr. G. H. Jennings; invitations, Rev. Albert Donnell.

Services were resumed at the Congregational church Sunday. The church was decorated with garlands of asters, the gift of Mrs. William McNeil.

Mrs. L. G. Buckingham and son Donald have returned from Madison Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Shea, Miss Frances Shea, Richard Shea of Pawtucket, R. I., Mrs. Michael Reardon of Greenfield, and Mrs. Murray of Norwichtown, Edward Murray of Potter Hill, R. I., spent Sunday at John Fitzgerald's.

Ernest Waters of Woonsocket is at the home of his brother, S. R. Waters. The postoffice is closed all day today.

Wounded Severely. Corporal William E. Cowley, 2 Silk St., Chelsea, Mass.

Makes a Perfect Picture. It is stated that the International Harvester trust has been "busted." Trusts before now have been separated into a great many parts, but they all seem to come together again like the broken pieces of glass in the kaleidoscope.—Sacramento Bee.

Looks Like a Rocket. If Senator J. Hamilton Lewis gets too near the fighting front in France he may be mistaken for a signal for a barrage. It is a danger the War Department should have taken into consideration.—Toledo Blade.

DANIELSON Dr. Garfield's very laudable ambition to conserve the nation's gasoline supply, by insulating motorists against Sunday joy riding, didn't do as universally on Sunday as some might have expected, and yet fully as much as others anticipated. It would, and it took betwixt the morning and the afternoon, at that.

One didn't have to strain an eye Sunday morning, nor wait long to see a dozen cars—insure cars—spinning through Danielson. Some of them were driven by Danielson people, others by drivers from nearby towns. They hadn't evidently been very much impressed by the national fuel administrator's request to abstain from Sunday running of their cars, as a patriotic move toward the winning of the war. That request of the administrator to save gas on Sunday was not being heeded in other states, no more than in Connecticut, was evidenced by the fact that the observer counted cars from Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania in Danielson, in service, on Sunday.

What happened Sunday was but a vindication of the judgment of many motorists that the Garfield method of conserving gas is far from the best. The chief reason for this is that motorists here are bitter against the order, considering it as discriminatory against the car owner who cannot be on his way days and little less than a job to the car drive, I can't find will" was about the way some decided the situation, and forthwith went to their garages and got out their cars. The drivers faced no trouble in getting gas. There was plenty for sale about town, at regular filling stations, and there was no order against Sunday driving.

Death of Alfred George Walters. Alfred George Walters, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Walters, died Sunday morning at his home on Barrett hill in the town of Brooklyn. The little boy had been ill only two days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Perry of River Street, Danielson, and their son, David Skedgell and son, Ralph, of New Bedford.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Daniels of Ayer, Mass., visited with relatives here on Sunday.

Earl F. Wood of Providence is spending the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Wood.

Miss Florence Hughes, a supervisor in the Providence central telephone office, visited here with Mrs. A. Hopkins. Miss Hughes will return to Providence today.

Thomas Grady, who is employed at Moosup temporarily, visited friends here Sunday.

Several cases await consideration at this morning's session of the town court. Three of the men held Sunday were locked up for having been intoxicated.

St. James' parochial school will open tomorrow morning for the fall term.

Monday, Labor day, manufacturing plants here will be closed and commercial business largely suspended. Banks are closed for the day and the mail service will be on a holiday.

A number of soldiers who are at Camp Devens were allowed leave to spend Sunday at their homes here.

The practice of soldiers desiring to get correspondence from their homes is still alive, as attested by a number of addresses that were tossed off a troop train that was run through this place.

Registrars to Be Sworn In. The registrars who are to work on registration day, Thursday, September 12, will be sworn in this week in the town of Killingly, and supplies for the work will be turned over to Town Clerk Frank T. Preston, who will have supervision over the registration in the town.

Connecticut Mills' Team Field Day. The public is bidden today to the field day arranged by the Connecticut Mills' team. The programme of sports is one of the most elaborate that has been arranged for Danielson for some time and is certain to develop a number of contests that should prove very interesting. This observance of Labor day will be the only one that has been arranged for this vicinity.

It is recommended that the returning tide of tourists who have been spending vacations at points in Maine and other parts of northern New England, and Pullman cars have been run northward since the week-end and have now begun to return to New York, over the local line.

It is stated that more than $150,000 of new issue of stock of the Connecticut Mills company has been subscribed for, this being the issue that employs have been invited to share in, which many of them have done.

Sunday proved an ideal day for the annual outing of the Rough and Ready Hose company, No. 3, which met at the Old Furnace. The shore meet was presided by King George Jacques of East Killingly and was pronounced excellent.

Killingly High school will reopen tomorrow for the fall term. Principal Ernest B. Warren will be in charge and the staff of teachers will be much the same as during the school year that closed in June.

The catching here of a quantity of pop corn at Ralph Shoales' place of business created a dangerous situation, but the prompt action of Mr. Shoales for the extinguishing of the fire, prevented a conflagration, if any material damage was done.

Once more the published suggestion is made that the voting of no-license in Killingly will mean the abolishing of the day night patrol. Danielson isn't going to be heaven even under no-license, as the bitter experience of many no-license years attest, but the breaking up of the present inefficient polling of the borough is one of the things suggested as the accompaniment of a possible period of no-license. Of course there wouldn't be any possible change under no-license of drunks drifting in here from places where liquor was being sold, legally, and starting something and, of course, the silent drunks would still be all other trouble-makers. Some may think that drunks will disappear and all trouble-makers cur up and die under no-license—but the majority of sensible people know better.

PUTNAM Travel at the railroad station was exceptionally heavy Saturday, many of the trains running in two sections to accommodate holiday traffic. Stanton Ballard, who with his mother, Mrs. Newton A. Ballard, and brother, Kenneth C. Ballard, has been spending two weeks at Vineyard Haven, Mass., will return to Putnam, Mass., Saturday and Kenneth Ballard will remain several days longer.

Trade School Convention. A meeting of unusual importance is to be held in this city September 13 and 14 at which time trade school men from all over Connecticut will gather for two days at the convention. Secretary C. J. Hine, his assistant, Secretary Morrison, and Mr. Trinder are to be present, as well as about 75 others. A speaker, not yet selected, will address one session of the gathering, and several papers upon trade school topics will be read by delegates. There will be a general discussion of trade school work, and an inspection of the local school work that is being done there.

After serving his customers in this city with butter for 33 consecutive years, J. H. Deane has retired from the business. During that time, he has not missed supplying his customers for a single week.

Putnam public schools open tomorrow (Tuesday) already teachers have returned to resume their duties. With the exception of the High School there are but few changes in the teaching staff.

Vacation Contest. A contest is to be held by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church in which the winning side is to receive two extra days at an outing the society is to have next summer. The society is divided into two divisions, boys opposing girls, and a captain chosen for each. Points of merit are to be awarded for attendance at meetings, for behavior, and for special service done and at the end of a stipulated period, the side with the largest number of merits to its credit will be declared the winner. The individual with the highest score will receive his vacation at a very small expense, the one with the next largest number at a cost a little in advance of the winner, and so on. Much interest is manifested in the contest.

Writing from France. Corporal Louis N. Girard states that recently he had the honor of seeing General Pershing, when the latter was in Bordeaux to inspect the American troops. Corporal P. Girard is enjoying the army work thoroughly and finds fault only with the French mud, which he describes as clay-like, and so sticky that it has to be scraped from the books with a knife.

Private Wilfred Therian, North Grovesendale, who was gassed while in action, and who has been returned to his home in the treatment, writes from a base hospital in New Haven that he is well on the road to recovery. He hopes to be able to return to France, and says that being in this country, doing nothing, makes him restless, especially when he thinks of his comrades overseas.

Master Gunner Gilbert F. Perry, son of C. E. Perry, and Mrs. George Perry, Providence street, at the home of his parents, Gunner Perry is stationed at Fortress Monroe, Va., where he is instructing in surveying.

Evening School Plans. According to Superintendent of Schools William L. MacDonald, the night school to be held at the high school building this fall will not begin until November. Mr. MacDonald announces that Miss Gladys Bard has been engaged to teach commercial subjects, and Louis F. Batley to have charge of the bookkeeping class. It is thought that it may be necessary to have an assistant in this department, as already there is indication that the enrollment will be large. At the trade school, the evening classes, which will have charge of the evening classes.

Pomfret Leads in Community Canning. Miss Charlotte Embleton, home economics demonstrator of the Windham County Farmers' association, for the past few days has been engaged in tabulating the reports from the various towns of the county showing how much canning has been done in each. Early in the spring each town was given an allotment of a certain number of quarts of produce to be canned by the women. The town of Pomfret, according to figures, Miss Embleton has at hand, is the leading town of the county. With a quota of 2,000 quarts, already has exceeded 6,000. Other towns that have done more than was required of them and the allotment in each case are: Ashford, 4,000 quarts; Brooklyn, 3,000; Charlton, 3,000; Thompson, 3,000; Woodstock, 2,000; Eastford, 3,500. At the Connecticut fair in Hartford this week a large map is to be on display, and each town in this county that has exceeded its allotment will be designated with gold stars. Putnam, Willimantic and Danielson will not be so honored, for each of these three towns has fallen below what had been expected. The town of Putnam has exceeded its allotment, but has not won one fourth of this amount has been done. Danielson women have done better and of an allotment of 50,000 not away 25,000 quarts of produce. Willimantic has the poorest record in the county. In that city out of an allotment of 50,000 only one-eighth has been completed. In speaking of these last three towns Miss Embleton states that the quotas were exceptionally heavy, and somewhat out of proportion to population, which may, in part, excuse their rather poor showing.

A train of cars passed through Putnam Saturday afternoon carrying nothing but trotting horses that for the past week have been at Redville, Mass., and are on their way to the Charles River track in Concord.

Friday evening Miss Charlotte Embleton of the Windham Farmers' association was in Moosup where a demonstration team that she had trained exhibited the proper method of preserving farm produce. Wednesday afternoon she will give a demonstration at the home of Mrs. Carl Eke, South Woodstock. The same evening Miss Embleton is to address Woodstock grange.

Dies at 95. Siril Paine, 95, a retired farmer died Friday night at his home in Woodstock. He was born in Burrillville, R. I., the son of Corril and Wally (Cooper) Paine. He is the uncle of Amos Paine, of South Woodstock. The body will be taken to Pascoag for burial.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold Barber, Danielson, are to be at the Congregational church next Sunday evening to tell of the work in Mexico which they are soon to take up.

The Y. P. S. C. E. held its meeting Sunday evening at the home of the pastor on Grove street.

Sunday evening a union service of Protestant churches was held at the Congregational church, at which time Mr. Newton described the work of the "Y" secretary. Mr. Newton has an interesting collection of war souvenir, including a piece of the outer covering of the German Zeppelin 1-9 that was shot down at Bourbone les Bains; pieces of aluminum frame of a Zeppelin that fell near London; a British gas mask of the type that was used at Verdun, and several types of hand grenades including a specimen of the famous Mills grenade. Of particular interest was a pennant captured from the Crown Prince's army. The flag is white, and has upon it a black death's head, with cross bones. Members of the Putnam Country club were in Pomfret Saturday afternoon where they played a golf match with the Stafford Springs team.

WAUREGAN Mrs. Bridget Doyle, who died suddenly Friday night from acute indigestion, had resided here many years and was much respected. There are two daughters, Mrs. William Penn and Miss Margaret Doyle, and one son, Jerry. There was a large gathering of friends at the funeral which was held from the Sacred Heart church on Monday morning. Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy of Moosup and Rev. U. O. Bellerose of Tatville, former priests here, assisted in the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leach and a party of friends enjoyed an automobile trip through the White Mountains the past week.

Four young men left here Tuesday for camp life in the south—Lionel Herder, Walter Quinlan, Wilfred La Rock and Arthur Benoit.

Rev. Wm. Fryling and his family have returned home, after a vacation in Brookline, Mass.

Harry Tracy of Providence spent a few days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Tracy.

Clarence Kies of Manchester, N. H., visited his mother, Mrs. Fred Kies the past week. Mr. Kies leaves for Camp Upton this week.
