garden it has been found necessary to divide Grade I into two divisions. Grade I has approximately 60 pupils this year. Thirty of these, the first division, will attend morning sessions only. Schools to Open Today. Everything is ready for the opening of schools this morning. The town school year begins. All of the teachers have returned from their vacations and students from outside who will live in the boarding school days began to arrive Tuesday afternoon. About three thousand children are expected to be enrolled.

Miss Lily Haines of Worcester, Miss Eva Mack, from New London, were guests of Mrs. J. E. Reed and Mrs. Mary D. Taylor at Gem cottage. Frederick Smith of New York visited his family on New York street last week. Rev. Ernest Wesley of Providence conference, superintendent of the Portuguese mission, was the guest last week of his daughter, Mrs. R. L. Blanchard at the Eldridge.

Mr. and Mrs. James Armstrong have moved their household effects, which have been in storage at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Charles Chapel, to New Haven, where Mr. Armstrong is employed. Mrs. Elizabeth Steward of Waterford and Miss Josephine Rice of New York have been visiting at Adelbert Sharpe's.

Electric Headlights on Norwich Branch Locomotives. Persons who have a peculiar interest for things pertaining to railroads have noted during the past few days that locomotives equipped with electric headlights have made their appearance on the Norwich branch of the New Haven system. The lights are in general use on many roads in the country.

Mr. Warren noted a shrinkage of only one member in the senior class. The junior and sophomore classes will show heavier losses. There will be an offset to this, however, in that perhaps as many as ten students who were not at the fall term have been in during the week. It is possible that the maximum registration for the term at the high school will be just over 1000.

Refrigerators Refrigerators A good Refrigerator will more than pay its way these days, but care should be used in the selection of one. We carry

Death of Charles A. Henry. Charles A. Henry, who died in Worcester, Mass., Monday, was born in this city in December, 1850. In his early days he was employed by the old Lincoln company. Later he was employed by local shoe stores and after working at that trade for several years, went to Boston. Later he returned to Willimantic and engaged here up to six years ago when he went to Worcester. Two years ago he suffered a shock but had apparently recovered. Later he returned from his vacation in North Windham. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Ruth Henry, two sisters, Mrs. James J. Williams and Mrs. George Strong, Mrs. Alice N. Monton of Boston, and two brothers, William and Richard Henry of Brooklyn.

Private Francis E. Shea of the 56th Heavy Artillery has arrived safely from the front. Lieutenant Howard W. Moran has also arrived "over there." Sergeant Albert Green has landed in England. He was one of those to receive the letter of welcome from the king of England. The 30 mule team left Willimantic Tuesday morning on its trip to Hartford which will take about a week. The team has been here 10 days. The silent policeman at the corner of Main and Windham streets was smashed to pieces Tuesday evening when it was struck by an automobile truck. It is believed that the truck belonged to the Burr Lumber company of Hingham, which corresponds with the number given by a person who saw the collision. The driver did not stop his car or notify the police-department of the accident. A hearing was held in the council chamber Tuesday evening on the proposed changes in grades in Chestnut street and of abutting property owners on Lebanon avenue for a sewer off that street. Daniel Connell was examined and passed for the National Army at the local exemption board headquarters, Tuesday. He will be one of the alternates in the group of men who leave today.

It is not put in the ears, but is "Rubbed in Back of Ears" and inserted in the nostrils, and "Common Sense Directions for Care of Hearing" which accompanies each bottle, tells you exactly how to take care of your own case. Putnam Joseph Flagg, son of Town Clerk and Mrs. David Flagg, and in the town of Putnam, has been transferred from Raritan, N. J., where he has been established for months, to Danbury, near Baltimore. The body of J. Edw. W. Greene, who died in Brookline, Mass., arrived in this city Monday and was taken to Woodstock for burial. James J. Rogers of Norwich was a visitor with friends in Putnam on Tuesday. The regular monthly meeting of the common council was held on Tuesday evening. Putnam students who are pursuing courses in institutions in Canada are leaving for their homes Tuesday. Leonard H. Healey, Woodstock, secretary of the state board of agriculture, will be in Putnam Tuesday. Miss Viola Cain, assistant clerk at the office of the local board, has returned from her home in Millbury, Mass. Evidence that Putnam people passed a quiet holiday was that there was no session of the city court Tuesday morning. Cook Clifford Trahan of divisional headquarters at Camp Devens, will return to his home after a leave spent at his home in this city. Registrars are again informed that no enlistments are being permitted at present, and no forms to list are being issued by the local board. Judge E. M. Warner will again organize the legal advisory board, the members of which have been registrants in filing out questionnaires. South Meadow Street Man Assaulted. Two Poles went to the home of another man of their nationality, who lives on South Meadow street, called him to the door and, after a brief conversation, one of the men, who was armed with a knife, according to reports made to the police, inflicted a wound on the head of the other man. The injured man will leave here for camp today. REGISTRATION STATIONS ANNOUNCED FOR SEPTEMBER 12 The local board for this district has practically completed its plans for registration, and on Tuesday afternoon announced the following lists of registration places in the towns of Putnam, Killingly, Thompson, Woodstock, Eastford and Ashford. Registrars will be on duty at the following places, from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.: Putnam, Putnam, Putnam court; Danielson, Town hall; Dayville, Columbia hall; Goodyear, supply room at Goodyear mills; East Killingly, postoffice; Wrenville, Wrenville hall; North Ashford, parsonage; Hartford, Congregational chapel; North Woodstock, town clerk's office; Thompson, postoffice; Woodstock, Woodstock Valley, postoffice; South Woodstock, Agricultural hall, fairgrounds; Rensselaerville, Wheaton's store; Middlebury, postoffice; North Woodstock, Congregational church. Registration stations will also be established at Fabyans, East Thompson and at Putnam. The superintendent of the kindergarten will be retained. Schools of Putnam opened the fall term Tuesday. Superintendent William Macdonald said in the afternoon that the organization of the schools was smoothly and quickly accomplished and the pupils will be well engaged with their work today. All schools are open except the San Putnam school, for which it was impossible to obtain a teacher in time for this week's session. Supt. Macdonald said that he expects the school will open next Monday. The registration at the high school was remarkably being 223 in the morning. This figure probably will be increased by 10 as late arrivals come in. The increase now, Superintendent Macdonald said, was from 10 to 15 over the figures for last year. In its increased registration at the high school, Putnam is fortunate for some towns are showing a falling off. It is possible that the combination high school-trade school courses, which Putnam has to offer, are probably the reason for the number of students in the school, and the prospect is that it will grow steadily. Supt. Macdonald announced that, in meeting a popular demand, it has been decided to retain the kindergarten this year. A few months ago the town school committee decided to discontinue with this branch of the school system during the present school year, but this decision is being reversed. The kindergarten will be at the Israel Putnam school, and families having children to enter the kindergarten may send them there. On account of the crowded condition of this school with the kinder-
