GOVERNOR HOLCOMB

The people of Connecticut are going to stand loyally by Governor Holcomb, who has no nobly led the state previous to and during the war, there can be no question. He has established a record which cannot be successfully assailed as is indicated by the manner in which efforts are being made in that direction.

Coming into office at a time when the state was carrying a huge debt, the voters of Connecticut are not going to overlook the mastery manner in which that has been reduced or the equally important fact that this state has been brought to the point today where it is able to meet its funded debt and at the same time show a balance of practically three-quarters of a million in the treasury, and that in spite of the increased expenses which have resulted from the war.

Governor Holcomb's administration and the administration of which the people of this commonwealth have reason to be proud and are proud. He represents a leadership which is safe, sound and efficient, but he likewise has shown himself to be a governor who has comprehended the part which Connecticut must loyally play in the great world war. No governor, regardless of his partisanship, has done more and as the result of his initiative and activity the Natmge state has not only been a leader in preparation for the war, but it has taken the lead in a most important part in the struggle across the sea.

THE ITALIAN OFFENSIVE

With the exception of the work which they have been doing in Albania in connection with the allied activities in Macedonia and Serbia, the Italians have been having a period of rest. Along the Austro-Hungarian front there has been no offensive attempted since the disastrous repulse of the forces of the dual monarchy in attempting to push their way further into Italy.

With the offensive in France and Belgium making such excellent headway and with the army of General Esperey moving so rapidly through Serbia to the Danube and crossing into Rumania as a serious menace to the southern door of the dual monarchy, the Italian army has now been called upon to do what it can as long as the weather will permit toward reclaiming the territory lost since the retreat from the Isonzo. And from the progress which has been made during the opening days it can not only be made important gains but it has inflicted serious losses upon the opposing forces.

This drive, which comes at a time when conditions in Austria-Hungary were never worse. There is serious disaffection among the peoples of the empire. This is fully appreciated not only by the government but by those who are directing the military forces. The spirit of rebellion is rife both in the army and among the non-combatants and General Poch has unquestionably taken the psychological moment in which to administer a telling blow which not only finds troops retreating to their homes but which is retarding the progress of the army. The German army in retreating would not be followed. In other words they are letting a murderer run away without giving chase.

Germany must realize that it must be reconciled to accepting the best possible peace it can get for it will not be able to gain any military advantages through such an armistice as it will be offered.

THE PRESIDENT AND POLITICS

One of the greatest mistakes which has been made by President Wilson has been the putting forth of the political appeal for the election of a democratic congress, after having only recently announced that politics had been adjourned. It is one of the many inconsistencies of his five and a half years and one which will revive politics as politics.

President Wilson claims that it is necessary to have a democratic congress in order to have his leadership upheld. The greatest thing before the country today is the war and the country knows that the republicans have not wavered in their loyalty, that they have not only stood firmly back of the president on the seven great war measures, but they have cast more actual votes thereon than the democratic majority. In addition to the record of the republican votes on the war measure roll calls was 72 per cent to the democratic 27. It is a well known fact that some of the strongest opponents of the president's measures have been congressmen and senators from his own party.

President Wilson says that "The peoples of the allied countries with whom we are associated against Germany are quite familiar with the significance of elections." As to that there can be no question, but it is perfectly evident that they not only know what support has been given to this country's part in the war by republicans before the step was taken in urging preparation, while the war measures were being considered and since that time, but Germany likewise knows what sympathy and encouragement it has gained from the attitude that has been taken by democrats, whose party he now declares is the only party that can give him proper support.

The president would have done better had he stuck to his previous announcement that "Politics is adjourned." The people are not going to select disloyal or unpatriotic representatives in congress, or obstructors of the national welfare, but they know that democrats are not the only ones who can be relied upon to stand by the country.

USING OUR NAVAL GUNS

The idea that the Americans have no big guns of their own for use in Europe, and that they are obliged to depend upon their allies for such artillery support, is rather brazenly upset by the announcement to the effect that American 15-inch guns manned by bluejackets are being used with excellent results in France for the destruction of important railway lines which are in possession of the enemy some distance back of their front.

This does not mean that these guns have been turned out by American plants for this purpose since the opening of the war, but being on hand as the result of changes in warships for which they were manufactured but could not be used as they are being transferred to the front and doing active duty which might not have been possible had they been placed upon the battle cruisers for which they were built.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Rarer even than a day in June is the same thing in the last week of October.

The man on the corner says: There is much about the "flu" which does not smell cheerful.

Of course everybody appreciated the extra hour of sleep which they received yesterday morning.

The railroad brotherhoods are asking that the wages be increased. They cannot get over the Oliver Twist habit.

The experiences in changing the clock are going to furnish topics for interesting conversation for some time to come.

And in the meantime the Ukrainian republic is seeing the stability of established relations with the allied nations.

President Wilson must have changed his mind about thinking that the elections would go in those who thought the least of politics.

Can anyone imagine the kaiser taking the advice of a Bavarian newspaper to the effect that if he must go he ought to go to Genoa?

The people in Berlin who called for the abdication of the kaiser have the right idea, but they are apparently not in control quite yet.

The fact that the Serbians and their supporters are already at the Danube must cause increased uneasiness among the Austro-Hungarians.

The Bolsheviks who are fighting in the northern part of Russia have undoubtedly reached the conclusion before this that they are not fighting against quitters.

In connection with the coming war work campaign it is a case of give, but such a gift that every one should be anxious to participate therein and participate heavily.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Flour should be kept in a cool, dry place. All meat should be wiped all over with a clean, wet cloth. Good flour is not pure white in color but a creamy white.

Corn meal griddle cakes are delicious served with sausage.

A tablespoonful of melted butter is measured after melting.

When putting down new carpet save the ravelings. They may be used later in mending the carpet.

Common salt is one of the best agents for cleaning sink fixtures and marble wash basins.

A teaspoonful of grated horseradish will keep milk sweet for many days.

A few grains of rice in the salt shaker will prevent salt from drawing dampness.

When your hot water bottle is not in use blow a little air in it then put in the screw cap and increase its years of usefulness.

Benzine rubbed on edges of carpet is a sure preventive of moths.

To renew old dry batteries take a nail and drive holes in all around the battery and seal in a pan containing water and about 15 drops of sulphuric acid.

Stick cinnamon placed inside a piano or organ will keep away moths.

If a table salt is sprinkled over dishes on which eggs have been served the dishes will wash easily.

"FIRST AID" BOOK

Attach to the medicine chest with a string and pencil, a small alphabetically arranged index book.

Under the letter P, for instance, write the antidotes for the different poisons, for, although one may know them, when the baby swallows the wrong thing, the doctor is not at hand.

Under F write Fainting Spells and under C, Cuts and Bruises list under their proper letter, and Sunstroke, Burns, and so on through the list of accidents and sudden illnesses.

All this in a regular first aid book, but added to this may be remedies for sickness to which one's special family is subject.

Every year to suggest what it was that proved so effective in that case of quinsy, but can easily refer to it in this manner.

MAKE BED LINEN LAST

Sheets grow thin in the middle. Let us return to the economical practices of our grandmothers and let them in two and turn them before they quite wear out. Stitch with a very long, tight, narrow hem on the raw edges, overlap very slightly the selvage edges and stitch together. Do not "over and over" them as our grandmothers did, time is too precious nowadays. If the middle of a sheet is very thin or worn, tear it out and make a narrow strip of wide one if the narrowest ones wear, make two pillow cases out of the four corners.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

A sick person should never be awakened out of a good sleep to be given medicine.

A few moments' attention in the morning and at night will keep the nails and hands in excellent condition and add a well groomed effect to the whole appearance.

The care of the skin is perhaps the most imperative task in this keeping up one's appearance. The only way to retain freshness and strength, especially when it is in the daily work, is by careful nourishment and rest.

Many persons drink too much coffee, especially those who work hard mentally and feel the need of a "stimulant" to get them through their day's work.

Milk and food are good substitutes and a little nourishment taken when one is tired will allow fatigue to pass as surely as coffee seems to do.

Bath soap, refreshing and healthy, can be made from the best of the bars of soap and will be found to make a big saving in the amount of pure soap used. Scrape a bar of pure castile soap into a powder, add one-half pound of oatmeal, one-half pound of almond meal and one and one-half pounds of oatmeal. Make cheese-cloth bags four inches square and put a heaping tablespoonful of the mixture in each—less if you wish. Use same as a wash cloth.

When one anoints the head with olive oil (and this softens the crust) the oil should be allowed to remain on the hair for two hours. Then the hair should be shampooed with a mixture of one raw egg to half a pint of lime water (cold). After having rubbed this into scalp the head should be thoroughly rinsed several times in clear warm water. The lime water must not be heated and if not too much oil has been rubbed into scalp the warm water rinse should remove it satisfactorily.

CARE FOR CLOTHES

Clothes are more expensive than they used to be and one does not have quite so many. And the summer resort laundress is one of the persons who have put their prices up, adding so much to one's wardrobe expenses. So the average woman is taking on her own shoulders a little more of the burden of keeping her costumes in order than she felt it necessary to do in seasons past.

A small electric iron which may be packed in the bottom of the vacation trunk will prove worth its weight in gold—trunks may be ironed out and ironed in a sunny window, but neckwear may be freshened and even blouses of the modern, soft sort done up satisfactorily in one's own room, by aid of the electric iron and a basin of water.

The pure soap flakes that dissolve in water easily will be best for dainty belongings, and such fabrics should not hang in a sunny window, but back in the room where they will have shade and breeze. Iron white still damp.

A little practice will tell you just when a material is damp enough, but not too damp for best results in ironing.

CLEANSING THE SPONGE

The sponge that has acquired a slimy feeling can be cleaned by washing it in warm water with a little tartaric acid. Dissolve about a level teaspoonful of the crystals in a pint of water. Repeat this washing from time to time, to keep the sponge in good condition.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Browns and reds are most in favor for fall.

A fur striped collar is excellent on any frock.

The closely fitted sweater blouse is coming.

Coat styles continue to dominate in most of the dresses.

As trimming, braids and cords will soon take the place of fringe.

Jet embroidery is used on frocks, handbags, hats and wide belts.

Even collars of some of the new suits could be fastened at the side.

ADAPTED TO THE USE OF SMALL WOMEN

Stations of fit, have no trouble in finding occupation at the present time. Some of the Parisian designs, show dresses with low waists and draped skirts.

At present no hat stands a ghost of a chance of success if it is practical as well as smart.

Military colorings are dull and one tone effects are favored.

Ornate and braided wool form one of the oddest combinations.

Embroidery is much used, especially in geometrical designs.

Very little jewelry should be worn, but pearls are still permissible.

It is always better to buy one cloak or hat with really beautiful lines and wear it for two or three seasons than to purchase a cheap, ordinary one and wear it for just one.

KEEPS NEEDLES SAFE

A pretty bag of cretonne in a soft, muted blue effect was long, rather than the more usual stiff, boxy design. The curious part of it was that the top was attached to a frame like that of a purse, fastening with a clasp. The bag was made of two good sized squares of the cretonne, and the frame, which was rather larger than that of most purses, was fastened to the bag across one corner. Or rather the corner of the bag was cut so that it would fit, when shrirred, upon the frame, perhaps that is a better way of describing it. It is very easily made and this top frame accomplishes one excellent thing—prevents needles from straying away, as they do sometimes, when one walks abroad with knitting. It really is a relief to know that one's needles are safe with one's work when they are needed.

A SLOVER BLOUSE

A pretty, slover blouse is of white, dotted Swiss, with deep circular yokes of white, dot cretonne, and the Swiss blouse and sleeves are attached. The organdie yoke is rounded out at the front and finished only by a cord of white, dot cretonne, and the long sleeves of dotted Swiss, white and organdie are joined throughout the blouse with lines of hemstitching.

LAUNDRY NOTES

Wool is as scarce as heating fuel, and therefore we shall have to be very careful of the serge frocks. We shall have to clean them and press them and make them do duty as long as possible.

It is not very difficult to clean serge. Plain soap and water will remove many sorts of stain. Alcohol will usually remove grease stains, and so will ether. Also, alcohol and ether, trying any spot remover, that it will not also remove the color. You can try it on a bit of the inside of the skirt or some other part of the frock that does not show.

Point can usually be taken off by repeated applications of ammonia.

A very good plan is to place several thicknesses of blotting paper under any stain that you are working over. The blotting paper will absorb the stain and keeps it from running over a large surface of the cloth.

When using soap and water use warm water and white soap. Make a little lather on a bit of clean cloth and rub it over the stain. Rub the spot with the clean cloth, and the soap seems to disappear. Rinse with a fresh bit of cloth wet in clear warm water. Remove all the soap in this way.

Never press a frock from which a stain has been removed, until the "remover" has evaporated. If you are using ammonia or any other inflammable fluid in the process (especially before pressing). Heat it in the dryer and the evaporation will take place quickly.

NEW FOR KNITTERS

For the knitting bag there is a flimsy, but very strong, material which is not only convenient to wear, but also a very good one. It is made of a material which is not only convenient to wear, but also a very good one. It is made of a material which is not only convenient to wear, but also a very good one.

Very easy for the knitter are the small tape measures which will hang from a spool, the moment the end is released. Ordinary tape measures are bulky, and for the knitter, they are likely to become snarled with the wool. Wooden measuring tapes, are even more bulky for a small knitting bag, but the tiny, self-winding tape, which takes up no more room than a pair of needles, is a most convenient one. It is a tiny, self-winding tape, which takes up no more room than a pair of needles, is a most convenient one.

VEIL LORE

Winter invariably brings in the small, close knit, that requires a veil. The hexagon and hairline meshes will lead, with a "novelty" how and how.

Chemists dotted villages are to be worn, and large furry dots form wide, separated motifs.

In the woven patterns there will be only a few ideas, and deep borders will be considered smart.

SETTING COLORS

Red and pink may be permanently set by dipping material into turpentine. This is particularly useful when using the method of setting colors.

A tablespoon of sugar of lead in one gallon of water will permanently set the color in any cloth if used before the cloth is washed.

CONCERNING WOMEN

The queen of Holland supplies from her dairy a considerable proportion of the milk consumed by buyers in the city of Amsterdam.

Miss Lillian G. Jones, recently appointed cashier of the Bank of Cuba, in New York City, is New York's first woman cashier.

The Women's Liberty Loan committee of which Mrs. William G. McAdoo is the chairman, is now operating in New York City, and has a membership of over 1,000,000.

In order that their muscles may be sufficiently strengthened, to enable them to throw the letters and "kick" the brakes on the traction power plant, the women of the Navy are being trained by the Jax-Bayker GHS Training Co. of Salina, Kas. has added military training to its repertoire.

SMOKED CROWN

Among the few turkeys is one of classed as a smoked in yellow in the center of the crown.

GAS LORE

You will get more heat from your gas if you will frequently take the burners and the detachable pipes from your stove and wash them for half an hour in a strong solution of soap and washing soda.

RECIPES

Date and its pudding: For four people, one cup of cups, one cup of wheat flour, one-half cup of sugar, and one-third cup of butter.
