JOHN CUNNINGHAM IN DURAZZO FIGHT The first attack of American ships and American small craft in the Adriatic sea is graphically described in a letter written by John H. Cunningham to his mother, Mrs. Annie C. Cunningham, of 52 Otis street. Although Mr. Cunningham does not mention the port attacked on the Austrian coast, from his description of the location it is probably the port of Durazzo where was destroyed in a raid by the Allied fleets about the first of October. Mr. Cunningham enlisted in the navy about eighteen months ago, being one of the first from Norwich to enter the service. The description of the battles as written by Mr. Cunningham follows: On Sept. 29 our chaser and several others left our home base under sealed orders and we were all in the highest of spirits because we knew something was going to be pulled off. The arrival of the following afternoon at some place in Italy. On the following morning, accompanied by a number of English and Italian cruisers, destroyers and airplanes, we headed north for some place in Austria. About 10 a. m. we sighted land and began to take our positions. Our unit of three chasers and a few English destroyers left the others and headed toward the back entrance. We had no sooner taken our positions than the cruisers started in the bombardment being answered at once by the Austrian shore batteries, but the cruisers could lay away out of range of the shore and still shell the batteries and town. Our duty was the most dangerous of all, having to get in close to the back entrance, bringing our small chasers into range of all their forts, and to sink the submarines that would sneak out the back way to sink the large Italian and English cruisers. Well, in a few minutes we were in the thick of it. Someone sighted a periscope and the fun began. I was stationed on the stern of our chaser to drop depth bombs (ash-bombs as we call them) and they are sure an effective weapon. When the signal was given I dropped the water and saw a great splash to hold on. In a few seconds a mighty roar and a splash of water nearly 100 feet was thrown into the air. You can tell how effective a bomb dropped at a depth of 50 feet when a boat that sits only five or six feet in the water like ours is raised into the air like a leaf, stops the motors, knocks the crew tanks off the side and leaves in the cook stove, you can easily see what it will do to a submarine. Soon we could see periscopes all around us and we were kept busy dropping bombs and seeing them headed directly into the entrance to a ship that was coming out. She was hitting all around us but on we kept and shortly we came alongside an Austrian Red Cross ship that was supposed to be smuggling war material. The ship was returned, however, and none could be found. After the battle we were officially notified that it was a most successful raid, having sunk all the important ships in the harbor, destroyed nearly three-quarters of the city, and our little unit was given particular honor for destroying three submarines and a possible fourth and for saving the English cruisers. When the report was turned in the Italian admiral notified the American chasers. We looked up larger than their battleships and the Italian admiral is going to present us with honor ribbons. We received yesterday from Admiral Sims a one hundred word message of congratulation also we are going to receive medals with honor ribbons. We were the first to represent our unit was the first battle that took place in European waters that American ships participated in since the war began.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY HAS FIRST MEET OF SEASON The first full meeting of the Y. M. C. A. auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alice L. Brown. The opening prayer was offered by General Secretary Edwin Hill, who also spoke briefly upon the work of the local organization and the work which the auxiliary should do. Bible classes were progressing. The work that calls for our special attention these days is that for the sailors from the submarine base at centers in Norwich in ever increasing numbers, and who never fail to express their thanks and appreciation for their reception here, especially on the popular Sunday afternoons. Mr. Hill spoke of the splendid co-operation in this work of the churches which have all entered into their share of entertainment with enthusiasm. An interesting and inspiring brief talk on the coming united war work drive was then given by James L. Case, with a resume of what the Red Triangle has been accomplishing at home and abroad. Following the secretary's and treasurer's reports, Mrs. Leonard O. Smith made an earnest plea for more workers on surgical dressings at the Red Cross rooms. It is true that the end of the war may be in sight, but there are thousands of wounded soldiers to be cared for, perhaps some of them boys from Norwich, some of us recognize fully how vitally necessary our personal assistance is. Each of us must see to it that our local chapter does not fall down on its allotment of surgical dressings. The Red Cross calls for our individual help and needs every one of us. It was announced that Mrs. Charles Saxton has been elected to fill the place of the late Mrs. Fitch L. Allen, who has left town. The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held at the home of the Misses Osgood, Rockwell terrace. Attended Private Woodmansee's Funeral.

48 Republican, 40 Democratic. Of the 80 soldier votes that were sent to Norwich from the men in camps at the front, two were thrown out at the election on Tuesday. The remaining forty-eight were republican and forty were democratic. The soldiers voted only on the state ticket as the local officers were not on the ballots sent them. TAFTVILLE A very pretty wedding took place in the Methodist church here on the end morning at 8 o'clock when Arthur Letequer of Norwich and Miss Annie Lambert were united in marriage by Rev. E. O. Beilrose. The couple were attended by Albert Lambert, brother of the bride, and Miss Annie Letequer of New Bedford, niece of the groom. The bride wore a blue tailored suit, black picture hat and black furs. She carried bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore a taupe suit, black hat and furs. She carried white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Letequer left for a wedding trip to Boston, Providence and New Bedford. Upon their return they will live in Taftville. Up to 5 o'clock Wednesday evening the pupils of the Wagonwheel and Sacred Heart schools collected $168.33 for the village for the Belgian war French orphan. The members of the St. Veronica A. B. society held their monthly meeting in their assembly rooms on Providence street Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance. CLAIMS DANDRUFF WILL CAUSE BALDNESS If you have dandruff you must get rid of it quick—it's positively dangerous and will surely ruin your hair if you don't. Dandruff means mean faded, brittle, gray, scraggly hair that finally dies and falls out—new hair will not grow unless you are bald and nothing can help you. The only sure way to abolish dandruff for good is to destroy the germ that causes it. Do this quickly, surely and safely, and at little expense, there is nothing so effective as Parisian sage, which you can get from Lee & Osgood Co. and good druggists everywhere. It is guaranteed to banish dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair, and promote a new growth, or the cost, small as it is, will be refunded. Parisian sage is a scientific preparation that supplies all hair needs—antidote liquid neither sticky or greasy, easy to apply, and delicately perfumed. If you want beautiful soft, thick, lustrous hair, and lots of it, by all means use Parisian sage. Don't delay—begin tonight—a little attention now means abundant hair for years to come.—Adv.
