GREENEVILLE George Ferguson is spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson of Prospect street. Mr. Ferguson has been across to France several times and the sub didn't bother them at all. He was first stationed at Newport Training Station and then transferred to the transport. Samuel Kearns is spending a few days furlough at the home of his father on Boston avenue. The Jolly Four club members enjoyed a straw ride to Preston City on Saturday evening. They enjoyed all the old fashioned dances. Music was furnished by members of the club. The hunters in the village returned Sunday evening after hunting the week end in the Preston City woods and had a fine string to show for their work. Sargent Nicholas Spellman is spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Spellman of Prospect street. Edward Bellinger has returned to Providence after spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bellefleur of Prospect street. William Semple and Herbert Prodd spent Sunday in Preston City. John Ryan spent the week end in Jewett City. Mrs. William Pitcher has returned after spending a few days in New Haven. Mrs. John W. Hill has returned after spending a few days in New Haven. While there she called on relatives. The Ladies' Community Sewing society will not meet this week for Red Cross work on account of the Thanksgiving holiday.

TAFTVILLE Friday evening the Right Rev. J. J. Nolan confirmed over two hundred children and ten sailors of the U. S. Navy in the Sacred Heart church. NOVEL QUESTIONS IN COMPENSATION CASE

What a multiplicity of complex and perplexing questions may arise in the application of the workmen's compensation law is shown in the publisher of the second volume of Compensation Decisions, just issued by the state under the general supervision of the comptroller. At his request the editorial work was done by the members of the compensation commission, which includes Fred N. Williams, chairman, New Milford; George B. Chandler, Rocky Hill; Dr. J. J. Depue, Norwich; George E. Boers, Guilford; and Edward T. Buckingham, Bridgeport. The book comprises nearly 900 pages of closely printed matter, embracing all the decisions of the supreme court for the whole time the compensation act has been in effect, and gives also, for the two years covered by the book, all of the decisions of the superior court, and such decisions of the commission as are of general interest. Herewith follow some of the novel points which have come up for decision in compensation cases: Does the Act apply to injuries due to the state? Is one who works for a partnership and who lives in the family of his father, who is a partner, an employee of the partnership in view of the provision of the act stating that a member of the employee's household is excluded? When the claim is made that the employee is intoxicated, must the employer establish that fact, or the employee show that he was sober? Under what circumstances may an employer discharge the physician provided by the employer and get his own doctor at the expense of the employer? Where an employee momentarily turns aside from his work to do a favor, and is injured in the course of doing it, is he protected? When misconduct is urged as a defense, who has the burden of proof? What is the status of a chauffeur for a corporation who is injured while doing an errand for a member of the family of the president of the corporation? Is an employee who leaves his work to go across the street to get his coat, protected while he is so doing? What is the effect of a weakness on the part of an employee, or a predisposition to disease? Is a partner who draws a certain amount weekly from the firm, an employee of the firm? What rights, if any, has an employee who is injured in the course of a quarrel with a fellow employee, or while at play? If a youthful employee is playing while waiting for work to be ready for him, does that circumstance affect his rights? What is an outworker? Is a mother who receives the wages of a daughter for the joint support of both of them, a dependent of the daughter? To what extent must one be affected by liquor in order to be intoxicated? Is kicking off a belt without shutting off the power willful and serious misconduct? Is mastoiditis contracted through exposure an injury? Is heart disease from strain an injury? When does failure to give notice of a hernia affect the amount of compensation? When has an employee a right to go into a private room in a hospital, instead of into a ward? May a commissioner amend his findings after the case has been appealed? Is hernia which comes on gradually a result of hard work, instead of all at once, an injury? Can one recover compensation for an injury while on the way to a boat when he is to work his annual duties not to begin until the boat sails? Can one recover compensation for a stroke? If so, is it enough that he be exposed more than the general mass of the community, or must he be subject to a greater exposure than those in his general line of work? What is the effect upon the right to compensation of a settlement with an outside party, as, for instance, one who has run an employee down with an automobile? Is a carbuncle an injury? Is being struck by lightning a compensable injury? What are the rights of an illegitimate child, and the mother of that child, in case of death of the father? By what rule is the compensation in the case of a partial dependent figured? Is nervous prostration an injury? Are nerves to be opened up by a commissioner after an award? Is tuberculosis an injury? What are the rights of a man who gets a blister which subsequently becomes infected? To what extent is a voluntary agreement, made in accordance with the act and approved by the commissioner, an adjudication, and under what circumstances can it be modified? If an employee hears loud talking, which he wrongly confuses with the call of the telephone, and goes to the telephone and is injured on the way, is he entitled to compensation? Under what circumstances will the commissioner approve an agreement for a lump sum? What is the effect of a divorce upon the claim of a child for compensation for the injury and death of his parent? When is the employee justified in applying home remedies instead of calling a doctor? When must an employee submit to an operation, and what is the effect upon his compensation when he refuses to have an operation? If an employee leaves a widow, and a child by a former marriage, who gets the compensation? Is one who is hit cranking his employer's automobile and gets a blood clot from the blow, entitled to compensation? What are the proper fees to be allowed interpreters? Is a sister-in-law who keeps house for an employee, a dependent? Is pneumonia compensable? What is the effect of breaking the rules laid down by the employer? Are musicians who play for dances at a pleasure resort, employees? Where an employee is injured and receives compensation, and subsequently dies, is the amount paid him during life to be subtracted from the amount which his family is to receive? Are employees injured on the way to and from work, where their transportation is paid for by the employer, within the act? Is an employee who goes to sleep while waiting for an elevator to be free so that he can use it, entitled to compensation for an injury sustained while asleep? What are the rights growing out of the shooting of a night watchman? Can an employee who is injured falling down stairs on the way to a cloak room, recover compensation? Are waiters who work for their employers, employees? Does the compensation act apply to employees engaged in interstate commerce? If the city hires a man and team from a contractor, and the man is injured, who pays the compensation? What are the obligations of contractors and sub-contractors? If a man has been injured and during his period of incapacity gets an independent disease which incapacitates him, does he get compensation for the whole period? Is a daughter who earns substantial wages, which are supplemented by her father in order to enable her to live more comfortably, a dependent? If a worker crosses the road, crosses the street to talk to a friend, and is struck by an automobile, does he get compensation? Is rheumatism a disease? Is the failure of a lineman to test a pole, misconduct? What is the effect of the failure to file a written claim within one year after an injury? How much should a physician receive per visit? If a man injures his eye under such circumstances that his vision can be restored by glasses, but the glasses cannot be fitted so as to give him full vision in his other eye, what is the effect upon the compensation? Can a sister be allowed for services as a trained nurse? What are the rights growing out of the striking of an employee in a quarry by a stone thrown by a blast set off by an injury, and while he is on the way home? Is delirium tremens an injury? When may a policeman off his beat get compensation from the city? Should the commissioner allow interest on compensation payments? Can he allow damages for medical malpractice? Is kindling a fire with grease willful misconduct? Can the allowance for an injury to an arm be greater than that for the loss of the arm, or does the greater always prevail? When are the declarations of the deceased admissible? What is the effect of taking a guard off from a machine? Can a physician get his regular fees when treating a member of the lodge? Where a member is amputated, can there be an allowance for incapacity up to the date of amputation, and after the amputation? Is a motorman, injured while turning on heat in a cold car, contrary to the rules of the company, entitled to compensation? Does the act apply to a minor, and if so does it affect the right of the father to recover for the loss of the minor's services? If a sturgeon is an injury is freezing also an injury? If so, must the exposure be greater than that of other outdoor workers? Can the employer be obliged to furnish an artificial limb when one is needed? Is a teacher, riding with a friend in an automobile from a teachers' meeting to school, in the course of her employment? Can one who is not legally married to the employee, but who thought that she was so married, receive compensation as a wife? If a boy who is sent on an errand catches a ride and is injured, does he get compensation? If a young man is able to support himself, but is in fact supported by his father, is he a dependent? Is the family of a sheriff entitled to compensation when he is killed in the course of his duty by being struck by a train? Is erysipelas an injury? Is lead poisoning an injury? If a shipping clerk, whose duties do not include his lifting barrels, is injured while lifting a heavy barrel, is his injury compensable? Where a plumber, a carpenter and a mason all agree to work on a certain job and divide the profits, are the mason and the carpenter liable in case of an injury to the plumber's helper?

FOCH and BENSON EXEMPLARS FOR NORWICH CATHOLICS Reviewing the reasons for gratitude at the end of the four years' war, Rev. Peter J. Cuny, in his sermon at the high mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday, reviewed the reasons for the responsibility of the individual in helping continue the present condition of world-wide peace. Who will deny that the people of this country have done their part in the history of the world? The people of old will discover that when they kept to God's laws they had peace. Israel before the Kings had democracy, with laws given by God Himself interpreted by men who were his best safeguard of order and liberty; how many consider this? Too many laws may mean tyranny. While the larger common sense has led us to settle the terms of peace, each individual has the obligation which Christ Himself has defined, i. e. of rendering unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, of doing his best to further and improve the civic conditions in which he may be placed. It is good to live in these stirring times, especially since war has left a people more united and doing it with the same after their four years of sacrifice, brotherhood, true co-operation. And the practical lesson is that God demands the same acts of obedience, worship, now as in earlier times, the rendering unto God the things which are God's coming in the form of the sacraments, prayer — which is the Catholic religion in a nutshell. There are men who protest impatiently that there is too frequent urging of the sacraments—that religion should be principally for women, who have more time for its obligations than do men. The preacher said that about as busy a man as could be found during the past year had been General Foch, leader of the allied forces. The deduction is that no business man can be more important than the business of saving one's own soul. At the offertory, Wiegand's Ave Maria was sung in beautiful accord. The mass was an excellent method, by Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle, of Norwich.

HOW A SALESMAN SUFFERED. R. J. Porter, Sterling, Col., writes: "For six months I suffered with a painful weak back. As a traveling salesman I had to stop frequently to pick up my grips, which I grew to dread, as the pain was so bad. I tried many awful. Numerous remedies failed to reach my case. I was induced to try Foley Kidney Pills. Relief was immediate. See they are great! Anyone afflicted as I was should try a bottle or two of Foley Kidney Pills. It cured my back, rheumatic pains, aching joints, sore muscles. The Lee & Osprey Co."

Butter's Equal at 32c a Pound Suppose you could buy the finest creamery butter at 32c a pound, wouldn't you lay in a big reserve stock? Well, here's a new scientific product—Benefit Brand "Sweet Nut" Margarine, which when served cannot be distinguished from the best butter by the most particular butter cranks. No wonder, Benefit Brand "Sweet Nut" Margarine is made from the nutritious parts of the tender white meat of coconuts, churned with pasteurized milk from New England's finest dairy farms. It has the same flavor, the same golden color when served, the same nutritive and energy value as butter, but it costs only 32c a pound, while butter sells at from 40c to 45c. Isn't that a worthwhile saving? Best for cooking and table use, too. For sale only at the direct importing Co's. yellow front store, 157 Main St., Norwich, where Benefit Brand Teas, Coffees and Groceries specialties are retained at wholesale prices. Look for our store in your town.

FOUR UNDER ARREST ON BOOTLEGGING CHARGE Four Norwich men, each of whom claimed that it was the first time he had ever aided a man in uniform to get liquor, were arrested on Saturday night by the naval patrol which was detailed to this city from the submarine base. The four are charged with "bootlegging." Evidence in the form of bottles of liquor was obtained in each case. John Rouse, 45, was the first to be caught. He was in the Water street neighborhood. William Whitford, 20, colored, was arrested on the West Side, Louis Lawton, 52, in the Water street neighborhood, and John Shea, 28, near Franklin square.

FOUND IN GUTTER WITH FACE BATTERED With his face battered as badly as any man who has recently been seen in the police station, Samuel Michalovich of this city was found in the gutter near the doctor's home on Saturday night by Dr. E. J. Brophy. The doctor took care of the man's injuries and the police later arrested Stephen Istiny of Greenville, whom Michalovich accused of giving him the beating and leaving him in the gutter. Both men were locked up charged with breach of the peace. Sergeant John H. Kane and Officer Patrick Murphy made the arrests.

FIRE STARTED SPRINKLERS AT GORDON CO. PLACE Just before midnight Saturday, the chemical company from the West Side station and Deputy Chief C. J. Connell from the Central station responded to a call for help at the Max Gordon & Son corporation place in the so-called elevator building on West Main street, where a fire on the top floor had started the sprinkler system going. The fire was extinguished on the outside of the building was ringing. The fire came from the heating up of a motor used for the elevator and the blaze had spread to a partition. The water from the sprinkler system wet the place down thoroughly and the firemen completed the work with the use of two tanks of chemical. All the damage that was done was by the work of the sprinkler system that wet down a quantity of baled up goods.
