A Tribute to the Loyal Manufacturers of This Country

THIS STORE PAYS ITS TRIBUTE TO THE DOMINANT COURAGE, SKILL AND PROGRESS OF AMERICAN INDUSTRY

Until the war started Germany's business with this country, and with the whole world, was growing by leaps and bounds. Why? Because there was as vast and well organized propaganda advertising the trade mark "Made in Germany." It was a propaganda which conveyed the impression that German made goods were better than those made in the United States. Is that inglorious situation to again prevail when our victorious armies return? We hope not—and we are doing what we can to offset the Hun's insidious propaganda, already released, and to anticipate future moves in that direction.

In The Boston Store we are now making a display of goods which are "Made in the U. S. A."—a display which is significant of the astonishing progress American industry has made in the past few years. It demonstrates not only the progress of American industry, but its scope, skill and enterprise as well. "Made in the U. S. A." means the best you can get at the price. American manufacturers acknowledge no superiors. They now produce merchandise of the sort that far excels what we formerly thought only the European factories could create.
