BIG THREE TO DROP SMALLER COLLEGES

Boston, Feb. 14.—The intercollegiate athletic world is in the throes of a veritable revolution. Alliances of long standing have been terminated and alignments are in the process of organization. The reason for the general upheaval lies in the policy of Big Three institutions, promulgated by Harvard, Yale and Princeton in the conference of their faculty sport representatives in this city some days ago. The Big Three determined that they were to make their alliance stronger than ever, and that even secondary rivalries would not be tolerated.

In consequence of this decision Princeton has dropped Dartmouth in football, Harvard has terminated its long track and football alliance with Cornell, and Yale is understood to have withdrawn an invitation to Brown to play football next season. Even the tertiary relation which Yale had with Colgate in football has been eliminated, as it was found that Colgate had become a rival of Princeton, and that the Yale-Colgate game was being regarded as an annual fixture.

Princeton did not send the usual invitation to Dartmouth this year, and filled the usual Dartmouth slot on the Saturday in October, with Colgate. Dartmouth has not asked about the game, but it feels the treatment keenly, especially as it is said to be due to pressure exerted by Harvard, which dropped Dartmouth in football after the game of 1912, which Harvard won by 2 to 0.

Princeton men here yesterday regretted greatly the passing of Dartmouth as a football rival. For the Princeton-Dartmouth contest had come to be recognized as one of the "Tiger" home classics. Dartmouth and Princeton played their first football game in 1897 and their last contest was that of 1916, which the Tigers won by 7 to 3. Dartmouth's last victory was scored in 1912, by 6 to 0. There were no games between 1898 and 1902, following the Spanish-American war, so it may be that Princeton will give Dartmouth another war vacation of several years.

Harvard and Cornell opened football relations in 1896, and with several lapses continued through 1916. With the resumption ofarsity football this year Harvard was expected to invite Cornell back to Cambridge. Brown and Yale played every year from 1882 through 1916, when Brown won by 21 to 6.

Having been shut out of football relations with the Big Three, Cornell and Dartmouth some time ago looked about for new alliances and caught on readily with Pennsylvania which has

THAT $900,000 SUIT STILL A LIVE FACTOR
 The troubles of the major leagues apparently are to go on forever. Unfortunately trouble is the middle name of sports organizations. To the fan on the outside who sees only the vicious parts of the game everything is rosy with romance emanating all over the scenery. The men who direct or try to direct the affairs of professional organizations such as the American League and National League and all other branches of professional sport see little of the glamour of sentiment and romance; to them it is stern reality with all the sun knocked out of it. Having disposed of the result of the minors by giving them complete home rule, the majors must now renew the $900,000 suit instituted by the Baltimore Federal League club. This suit was supposed to have been settled a long time ago as it was withdrawn from court, but old "Trouble" is on the job again and the case will be reopened in a United States District court shortly.

The Baltimore stockholders claim they were victims of a conspiracy when the treaty of peace between the Federal League and organized ball was signed three years ago. The defense of this suit is just now taking the time of Dan Johnson and John H. Heyler, at a time when preparations for the coming season require all the time and the reconstruction period is on. Several of the promoters of the Federal League, owners of clubs or clubs, are made co-defendants with the two big leagues and it can be depended on that the fight will be a bitter one if permitted to go to trial.

COMPLETE UNDERSTANDING ON TERMS OF ARMISTICE
 Paris, Feb. 14.—(Havas.)—The newspaper men usually approve the decision of the Supreme Council regarding Germany and rejoice that the allies and their associated governments reached a complete understanding as to the terms to be submitted to Germany on February 17.

The Paris Press says that Germany must take a decisive attitude with in the next few days, because she will have to realize that despite apparent differences of opinion the alliance among her conquerors remains intact.

11 MORE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDALS AWARDED
 Washington, Feb. 14.—General Pershing has awarded the Distinguished Service Medal to 11 additional officers "for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services rendered to the American Expeditionary Forces and to the cause in which we have been engaged." The list announced today by the war department contains the names of 22 French, 21 British, 4 Italian and 2 Belgian officers.

BRAVES' OWNER CUTS PRICES OF GRAND STAND SEATS
 Boston, Feb. 14.—President G. W. Grant of the Boston National League club has adopted a scheme of price cutting at Braves field. After studying the situation at the huge park, he came to a decision and announced last night the entire grandstand for all championship games played there during the Federal League season will be reserved, excepting on the afternoon of holidays.

This means an abolition of the rule formerly in effect that the first 10 rows of boxes will be in the front row at $1.50 each, plus the war tax, but the second and third rows, formerly sold at the same price, will be reserved at only $1.00 plus the customary war tax, thus giving those who have been accustomed to secure reservations to the purchaser his old opportunity to do so. On holiday afternoons the same prices for boxes will prevail as during the rest of the season, the only change being that the first ten rows of the grandstand will also be reserved for the convenience of patrons.

This action on the part of President Grant is in line with his policy announced when he purchased control of the club, namely, that he intended doing everything possible to popularize
