ISADORE NAGOLMAN KILLED IN DRIVE IN ARGONNE Louis Nagolman of 13 Hill street has received word through a letter from a soldier in France of the way his brother, Isadore Nagolman met his death in action during the Argonne forest drive.

The letter follows: Genevieve sous Coude, France, February 15th, 1919. Dear Friend, I just received your registered letter and was glad to hear from you. I also thank you for the regards you sent me.

When in regard to your brother's death I have nothing to add. I know you are on the first morning of the Argonne drive, September 25th, we were under all kinds of the artillery, machine guns, and rifle fire, and I quite sure a bullet which went through one of my fellows' eyes must have struck some one in the back, near his neck. We were very close to the German lines, therefore that was the last I heard of him.

This occurred before we took Montauban. I was wounded in the chest, and I am sure you were buried not far from that place with a few more of our lads. As a soldier, he always did what was right and was a true soldier who loved his country, our country, a hero, too, and you would be proud of him. He was in good spirits before the drive, always jolly with all the boys and also very kind to the nurses and doctors. I saw his brother, quite a while later in the casual column as Isadore Nagolman of New York.

ROAD WORK IN STATE WILL FURNISH EMPLOYMENT

The state highway commissioner will have a busy season this year, for the appropriations committee of the legislature plans to put as much money as possible into his hands for road work next year, the New Haven Times-Leader. It is hoped not only to put all the roads of the state into the best condition, but to furnish work for hundreds of men who otherwise might be idle.

One of the biggest jobs of the year and one of perhaps the most important to the state will be the rebuilding of the railroad bridge at New London into a highway bridge. This bridge was a gift to the state first offered by the New Haven and finally turned over by President Buckland after the new bridge was finished and in working order. The bridge will be ready for the public early next fall.

First of the work at New London will be the construction of approaches to the new bridge. For this job the highway commissioner has asked for a special appropriation of $20,000. He will get it. Another task will be the construction of separate sidewalks on bridges so that the public may have a chance to escape the dangers of automobile traffic. These walks probably will take the form of a separate structure.

The bridge is to be self-supporting, and will be paid for eventually by the public. A toll gate is to be established on this bridge as on those at Saybrook and Groton. The bridge is considered by the appropriations committee as an asset to the state and something that is needed more than any other one thing now under consideration.

PLANT'S WILL LEAVES $250,000 TO COLLEGE

A bequest of $250,000 is left the Connecticut College for Women by the will of Morton F. Plant, financier and vocationist, filed in New York Monday. The value of the estate was not given.

After setting aside $100,000 for Francis D. Sullivan for "faithful and efficient service" in his business interests, and smaller bequests to relatives and employes, the will directs that the residue of the estate be divided among the testator's widow, Mrs. Sarah Mae Plant, and his two sons.

Executors of the will are authorized to supply funds to the Shore Line Electric Railway for consummation of an option to purchase the Connecticut Company.

New Haven, Conn., March 10.—Lucius S. Storrs, president of the Connecticut Company, tonight stated that the provision in the Morton F. Plant will authorizing funds for purchase of the Connecticut Company by the Shore Line Electric Railway related only to a few titles of track belonging to the Connecticut Company located in and around New London and Norwich. These tracks are leased and operated by the Shore Line corporation. There has been no proposal for acquiring the Connecticut system by the Shore Line, Mr. Storrs stated.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—good clear skin, natural, ruddy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning liniment, what a gratifying change would take place.

Inside a bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, gas fermentations and poisons before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasal breath, rheumatism, colds, and pertussis, those who have a pallid, ashen complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate in a glass of hot water which will cost but a trifle but sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation.
