DANIELSON

In the town court Monday morning Henry Pray, of Artawagan, was charged with having engaged in trapping on land without the permission of the owner and with setting snares to catch animals. Mr. Pray did not enter any defence. Judge Woodward found him guilty and imposed a fine of $25 on each count, with costs, a total of $75. Mr. Pray appealed the case to the superior court. For the first time in many, many years, the board of the relief of the town of Killingly made no changes from the figures submitted by the assessors in making up the list of the town of Killingly. The board of relief did not make any reductions nor increases so the grand list is complete as made by the assessors and shows an increase of about $270,000 over the figures in the grand list for the preceding year. The Jonathan Smith, East Killingly, appeal from probate, the district of Killingly, is a case that is listed for trial today at the session of the superior court in Hartford. Mrs. Marinda C. Butler Robinson will be in Hartford today to attend a hearing, at the state capitol, on the presidential suffrage bill, in which many of the suffragists of the state are actively interested. Fabric Shop—Special for today and Wednesday only, 7 yards one-piece remnants, $1.25, 7 yards percale, from full piece, $1.50; you have your choice of our full stock of blue and gray shirtings and plaids—adv. In the typically March gale that swept over Danielson Monday, a part of the roofing was ripped off the Advent chapel on Academy street. All about town the gale caused more or less damage, though none of it was of really serious nature. The 24-hour a day working schedule with three shifts of help was smoothly inaugurated Sunday night, at the plant of the Grafton mills and during Monday the groups of workers were placed each other as regularly as clockwork, keeping the machines humming all the time. The plant now employs about 600 hands. On account of the growth of the manufacturing end of the business at Goodspeed it may be necessary to provide some additional work, Mr. Pray said Monday, but nothing definite has yet been decided upon. Work on the remodeling of the Davis block, formerly the Hutchins block, Main street, is progressing more rapidly. When this building is completed it will provide additional business places for Danielson, something there has been a shortage of in Danielson for the last few years. At the high school today some papers relative to the Indians that inhabited this section in the early days will have been prepared and passed in. These papers will show the tribes that lived hereabouts and tell something of their transactions with the early white settlers. A number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Barbeau, Deer street, Monday evening to greet Private Adelard Barbeau, returned from more than a year and a half of service in France. Otis Wood, of Plymouth, Mass., motored to Danielson Monday. Mr. Wood is interested in one of the mills at Elmville. A place has been wanted Frank J. G. Kelley, at Elmville. William W. Whately, who is employed on government work at New London, visited with friends in Danielson. One of the sure signs of approaching spring—the marble games that are being played at the school—were given by John Bourke, who has been living at Elmville, was held at the Danielson village station Monday for observation. Mrs. Sabina S. Russell will return to Hartford today to take up his duties for the week at the state capitol, where he is the executive clerk. Homer Brown has purchased of Walter E. Shippee a property on Oak street and is to occupy it with his family. Mr. Brown is employed at the power station, south of Danielson, by the Shore Line Electric Railway company. Game Warden Harry Battey of East Killingly has caused to be made a photograph that clearly shows the torture to which a dog is subjected that happens to be caught in one of the wire fox snares that he frequently finds in the woods hereabouts this winter. The picture shows a dog with a badly lacerated neck. A movement has been started in western Connecticut towns for workmen's petitions against the enforcement of the war-time prohibition act, which is to become effective July 1. A committee of the Bohemian club is engaged in making up the teams that will participate in the series of what pool and billiard matches to be played with teams representing the farm lodge of Elks, the first games to be played here on Thursday evening. A considerable number of Danielson people have found employment at the mill in Groton, the local employer of the mill, making the trip by jitney every day. Herbert Keach was in Worcester Monday making an effort to secure an iron supply for the mill. Mr. Keach is on an option on 1,200 tons which without shrinkage would be nearly enough to carry Danielson through a season. The iron contract has been made and sold profitably however for much less than $100 per 100 pounds. Mr. Keach also has arranged to ship a supply of artificial ice sufficient in quantity to take care of Danielson's needs during the spring months. Mr. Keach is considering establishing an artificial ice plant in Danielson but will not decide until he has investigated more thoroughly. Mrs. Mary Ross Munyan of Thompson installed the officers of Killingly grange at their meeting Monday evening. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of members. Idle wishes are apt to enfeeble the mind.

PUTNAM

Earle, 36, of this city, and Charles Weatherbee, 33, of Webster, were married here by Justice Howard C. Bradford. Funeral services for Donald Paul Jacques, 12, son of Mrs. Charles F. Jacques of Putnam Heights were conducted Monday by Rev. S. J. A. Rock of the Methodist church. Burial was in Putnam Heights cemetery. Indications are that liberal amounts of money will be made available during the present year for road construction by the state in towns in this vicinity. Sarah C. Gage, 22, widow of Moses Gage, died Sunday night at her home in Woodstock, in which town she was born, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Chamberlain. Charles Fletcher, who has just been mustered out of the service after having been overseas for eleven months, was a visitor here Monday from his home in Central Village. Mr. Fletcher is to re-enter the employ of L. E. Smith, of this city. Mr. Fletcher was assigned to an infantry regiment of the 2nd division, made up for the most part of Michigan troops. Later he was transferred to the medical corps and served at the evacuation hospital at Dijon, France. There he saw many of the thousands of wounded American soldiers arriving directly from the fighting lines. During a long period of his service he was in the surgical dressing hospitals department of the big hospital at Dijon and saw what hosts of brave youths suffered for their country. Terribly maimed, though some of them were, they were almost universally cheerful. Mr. Fletcher says. Four men who were not strangers in a strange land faced Judge M. H. Geissler at Monday morning's session of the city court. They all been there before. The men were John Clehrist, John McNally, Charles McKenna and Oliver Langsven. Each faced a charge of having been intoxicated. All were found to have been guilty and light refreshments were ordered. In view of the fact that all of the men had previously faced him to answer to similar charges, to state reasons why they should not be sent to jail. No satisfactory reasons were forthcoming so the men are at the county jail in Brooklyn this morning, ready for the beginning of the spring term of the city court on March 20 days and work out the costs of $8.00. This city's woolen and worsted industries are in the midst of a slack period this week. Less than 100 operatives are employed in the two plants, but it is felt that this condition will be only temporary, as there are indications of plenty of new business in the not distant future. A number who went to the railroad station Monday morning to see the suffragists' prison special were disappointed for the car bearing the campaigners in the interest of the suffrage amendment was attached to the regular morning train leaving here for Hartford at about 10.30, almost half an hour before the announced time for the special to pass through. Mrs. W. J. Barsett and daughters, Misses Ruth and Dorcas joined the party here and went to Hartford.
