Norwich Bulletin Willimantic Office, 23 Church St. Telephone 705.

Principal J. L. Harrois of the Natchaug school this week received from Thomas F. Somers of New York a check for $100 to be added to the fund for the Natchaug school. The fund was started by Mr. Somers in honor of Miss Julia M. Peck who for years was a teacher in the old Natchaug school, which school Mr. Somers attended. Pupils at the present school making the best record are entitled to an award from this fund. It has been deemed advisable to allow the fund to accumulate somewhat before making any awards and it is hoped that former pupils of Miss Peck may sometime add to this worthy fund. In connection with this fund, it is recalled that another fund was started in 1905, known as the John B. Welch fund, which has increased materially with the passing of the years. Julia M. Peck was the daughter of Porter B. Peck of North Windham, who for years was principal of the school in that town.

According to the records of the local U. S. employment service office, about 115 are out of steady employment in this city. A majority of this number are young men. However, the local industrial situation is very good as compared with many other cities. According to reports of the community labor board for this district, there are about 400 more men and women employed in local industries than in December of last year. The service of the government office is at the disposal of any and all employers of labor.

At the opening of the 79th annual conference of the New England Southern church at the First Methodist church in Taunton, Mass., Thursday evening, Mrs. C. Harley Smith of Willimantic were present, as were a number of former local ministers. Bishop Frederick D. Lee of Atlanta.

Ga. is the presiding officer of the conference and delivered his address Thursday night. Louis N. Ayer and Louis A. Giguere of this city attended the meeting of the New England Southern association held in Hartford Thursday. Reports on the supply of ice for the coming season throughout New England and a position of New York state showed that less than one-half of what will be needed has been stored. Locally, the ice situation is far better than in some other cities about a two-thirds supply having been harvested; but by conserving and using the ice only when absolutely necessary, this city may get by the season with its present supply.

The silent policeman on Main street at the foot of Jackson street was run over by an automobile Thursday night and completely demolished. The police have been unable to ascertain who did the deed, as no one apparently saw when it happened.

At the adjourned meeting of A. C. Tyler camp, No. 8, United American War Veterans, held this week, local and vicinity soldiers who have been or are at present in the active service of the United States army, were elected as honorary members. This was done in compliance with an order issued by the commander-in-chief of the organization to call on these merchants and committee was appointed to make arrangements for the returned soldiers at some date to be announced.

Excellent results have been obtained during the week by the various committees appointed at the meeting of the Willimantic Clerks' Protective association to call on these merchants in this city who have not been closing their stores Friday night, to urge them to do so. A number assented to the request, as well they might, in view of the stormy conditions.

Dr. John T. Black, secretary of the state board of health, will be the speaker at the April meeting of the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday evening. The subject on which he will speak is Public Health as a Municipal Asset, and should prove most interesting. As usual, a supper will be served previous to the meeting by the women's society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Mrs. Katherine B. Spaulding and Miss Myra Smith are visiting over Sunday at the home of the latter in Wallingford.

Mrs. Mary Grady of Arnold's late is rapidly recovering after three weeks' illness.

The assignment of police officers and their respective beats for April follows: Officer Egan, duty duty; Officer Leahy, Sodom; Officer Grady, upper Main street; Officer McKean, Jackson street; Officer Faulstich, center Main. The change takes effect next Tuesday.

At the session of the police court Friday evening Felix Baudry pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication. The accused admitted having been placed on probation by the police court in Hartford, Mass. Judge Ross sentenced Baudry to 30 days in jail and later placed him on probation for six months, with a warning to leave liquor alone in the future.

The case of Frank W. Postemski, charged with assault and resisting an officer, was continued until Wednesday next before Judge Ross. Judge Ross being a witness, was unable to be present Friday morning. Constable Elmer M. Young had considerable trouble with Postemski Friday afternoon when the former went to the latter's place on the road between North Windham and Windham for the purpose of serving attachment papers in a civil action brought against Postemski by Ardrivno Sebastino. Postemski refused to allow the constable to serve the papers, ordered him off the premises, and went after the constable with a hayfork. Postemski's wife took a hand in the scuffle on behalf of her husband. Postemski came to this city during the afternoon and was arrested. Immediately following the continuance of the case in the police court Friday morning, Constable Elmer M. Young went to the farm of Postemski and attached some property. An officer's receipt for $200 was taken and the property was returned to the defendant.

Miss Helen Church, instructor in Latin at the local high school, attended the big Latin conference held in Boston Friday.

A very pleasing program was given at Windham High school Friday morning when the Latin club met in the music room and discussed The Roman Forum. Miss Vera Briggs gave an informing talk on The Heating and Lighting of a Roman House. This was followed by a chalk talk on The Plan of the Roman Forum by John King. Miss Inez Paxton then described Roman Furniture in a very interesting way. A short talk on Roman Interiors by Walter Gavigan brought the interesting and instructive program to a close.

The death of Mrs. Jda E. Keating occurred Wednesday night at her late home in South Manchester, in which town she had resided practically all of her life. She had been ill a long time and was a patient sufferer to the end. Her husband, Arthur E. Keating, is a brother of Dr. W. P. S. Keating and Miss Inez Paxton described Roman Furniture in a very interesting way. A short talk on Roman Interiors by Walter Gavigan brought the interesting and instructive program to a close.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet E. Atwood was held Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at her home in this city. Rev. E. P. Ayer conducting the services. The bearers were George Clark, Robert Moulton, Byron Moore and George Leathers of this city. Burial in this city had charge of arrangements.

Rev. J. B. Wallace of this city was the chairman, team captains and various committees of the local campaign for funds for relief in the Near East called for Friday night was postponed.

The Weather Man switched on his winter current early Friday afternoon, changing the situation in Danielson from mud and slush to ice. The most people look for in late February. The entertainment included, steel and snow and pie and drinks, but Mr. March can go out like him even though the winter did cheat Danielson out of its supply of ice.

Joseph Labelle and Dieudonne Page, who have been partners in the hardware and vicinity for years as skilled workmen in their trade, have formed a business partnership and are to operate in the town of Killingly.

A unique device employed by the Germans in conducting their trench warfare is on exhibition in the store window of George F. Davignon. It is a trench periscope, which is a simple affair, but a periscope that contains lenses of exceedingly high quality and power. The periscope was taken from a trench near Verdun, France, by Charles Robitaille of Central Village, who was overseas with the 50th Coast Artillery, in which Danielson was so heavily represented.

The periscope is said to be worth 7,000 to 8,000 francs, and those who know something of the value of lenses say this apparatus is not too high.

The periscope has "arms," so that it may be set up behind any protecting object, and the arms swing out so that the observer can get his view though he be hidden himself. Taken out and set up on a tripod, as one would set up from a trench, it is used to locate the enemy's position, to bring the head in Main street, at the northerly end of Davis park, right up, seemingly, to within ten feet of where the periscope is placed. The instrument is available for effective use in observation over a range of several miles.

Rev. M. S. Stocking, pastor of Danielson's Methodist Episcopal church, is in Taunton attending the annual Southern New England conference, which this year will be of extra special interest on account of what will be said there relative to the Centenary movement.

W. I. Bullard, formerly of Danielson, now of Boston, resigned Friday as assistant treasurer and financial manager of the Goodyear Cotton Mills, incorporated at Goodyear, in the town of Killingly. This action, on the part of Mr. Bullard, was made necessary by his larger interests and duties in the Merchants' National Bank of Boston, of which he is an officer. Those interests and duties have been rapidly increasing during the past few months and have necessitated Mr. Bullard's giving up, so far as possible, attention to his local interests in Killingly.

The complete retirement of Mr. Bullard from Goodyear was precipitated at this time because of the resignation, to take effect April 1st, of Charles E. Wiggins, vice president of The Merchants' National Bank of Boston.

The Goodyear Cotton Mills incorporation accepted Mr. Bullard's resignation with sincere regret and great reluctance. Mr. Bullard took hold of this Goodyear proposition when it was known as The Killingly Manufacturing Company, before the Akron interests took it over and changed the name to Killingly Manufacturing Company. Mr. Bullard had purchased the Willimantic property at the village of Willimantic, which has since been retained by Goodyear, of the Atwood interests about 1911, but the Killingly Manufacturing Company was not getting ahead when some months later Mr. Bullard entered the organization.

Mr. Bullard's great energy and his astuteness, he induced the Goodyear Tire and Rubber interests at Akron, Ohio, to take over the plant of The Killingly Manufacturing Company to manufacture high grade tire truck for their Akron enterprise.

Since that time, the business at these mills in this town has grown and increased amazingly. A new village has been built near the mill at Goodyear. Substantial additions have been made to the factory, and the large ware and store house erected.

Probably, with the exception of the location of The Connecticut Mills company, which also makes automobile tires, in this town by the late Charles B. Wheatley, no one achievement of any single individual ever accomplished so much for the town of Killingly as this triumph of Mr. Bullard in inducing the Goodyear interests to locate their tire truck factory here. Other plants, with persistent plodding, have accomplished a great deal for this town, and no disparagement of what has been done for Killingly by others is intended by this reference, but Mr. Bullard and the late Mr. Wheatley each almost in a day, located an industry of the factory, industrial and financial life of the town.

The people of this section are deeply sorry to have Mr. Bullard gradually depart from this town and community, although Mr. Bullard will retain his active interest in the E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing Company.

Mr. Bullard's success as an assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the Goodyear Cotton Mills is a credit to his ability and his energy.

Mr. Turner is a young man of great promise and ability, but while there is copious over losing Mr. Bullard there is general rejoicing because of Mr. Turner's advancement.

Danielson's second annual automobile show, which was held at the town hall during Friday, notwithstanding the storm. The showing of new cars, with particular interest to those who are prospective buyers and mechanics, was inspected in detail, many of the little improvements being noted with particular interest. Large crowds are expected at the show today, providing the weather man agrees to be the least bit reasonable. The cars are displayed in two big show rooms that have been attractively lightened.

We have cut the price of gas to 25 cents a gallon. The Danielson Garage—adv.

DISTINCTIVE STYLES IN Suits, Coats and Dresses FOR SPRING AND SUMMER

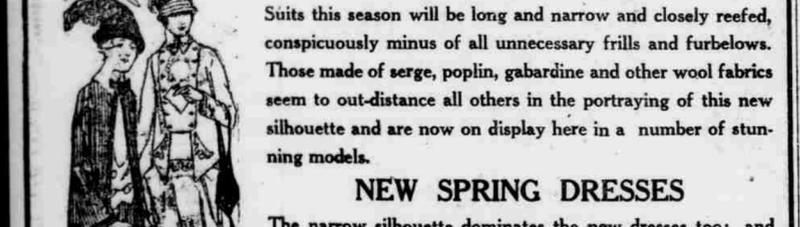

Once again Dame Fashion has waved her Magic Wand and from out of the innermost recesses of that mysterious place we call imagination she summoned the conception for the slender lines and supple forms she has developed the creations which we now ask you to view.

NEW SPRING COATS Coats of the Cape and Dolman type developed on slender, straight lines seem to be the most favored for spring wear. Of these the models with loose flowing lines, straight flaring backs and belted in front sections are to all extents receiving the greatest amount of attention

NEW SPRING SUITS Suits this season will be long and narrow and closely reefed, conspicuously minus of all unnecessary frills and furbelows. Those made of serge, poplin, gabardine and other wool fabrics seem to out-distance all others in the portraying of this new silhouette and are now on display here in a number of stunning models.

NEW SPRING DRESSES The narrow silhouette dominates the new dresses too; and embodies them with youthfulness which does not fail to bring forth numerous "Ohs and Ahs" of genuine admiration from the onlookers. Cunning little puffings, draperies, pleats and the loveliest little sashes and bows you ever saw adorn these new styles most becomingly.
