Fire damaged a small structure in the rear of the Willington property on Main street Thursday. The alarm from box 24 called the department out at 11:30, and the blaze, which was a small one, running along the roof, was quickly brought under control. The fire was in an exceedingly dangerous locality, however, and, if out of control, would have had a chance to sweep through a whole string of big frame buildings, including the Danielson inn, which abuts the little building that was afire, and the Winkelman block. Happily, the fire was a small one and it was put out before any great amount of damage was done. The fire started on the roof of a small building in the rear of the S. Gingras restaurant and is believed to have been caused by a spark. The recall was sounded at 12:05 p. m.
