WESTERLY

The name of Larkin is closely associated with Watch Hill, as the family were long and interested in the development of the property until it has become one of the most fashionable resorts on the New England coast. The Larkins own practically all of Watch Hill proper, that is before the colony spread in all directions when the Larkin house was the objective center. Daniel Larkin is the present owner of all the bathing beach property from the point of the entrance to the old Block Island pier to a point near the Judge John W. Sweeney cottage on the Fort or Napa-tuck Point road, and extending along the west side of Bay street to the property of the Watch Hill fire district and skirting Little Narragansett bay. All the ground and some of the buildings on the west side of Bay street is also owned by Mr. Larkin and from the western boundary of his property, some of the buildings devoted to business are on land leased from Mr. Larkin. The section is the largest and most valuable individually owned property at Watch Hill.

Mr. Larkin has decided to transfer all this property to his three sons—Frank P., Albert C. and Daniel F. Larkin.

Arthur Leiper, 38, formerly of Pawcatuck, died Tuesday in Mount Kisco hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident. He was a machinist by trade and employed in New York city as an automobile mechanic. He was the son of George J. Leiper, 15 Hillman street. Besides his father, he leaves two brothers, Thomas and Alexander, and two sisters, Ella, a bookkeeper at the George C. Moore company post, and Josephine, clerk in a Lorraine mill.

A New York newspaper report of the fatality of "Michael" Gorman, a chauffeur for Jonathan Bulkeley, a farmer of Ridgefield, N. J., was killed and Arthur Leiper of 126 West 52d street, Manhattan, received injuries from which he died five hours later, when the automobile which Gorman was operating turned over twice and landed bottom up on a stone wall. Tuesday near Lake Waccabuc, 12 miles from Mount Kisco. A woman passenger who was too hysterical to give her name, was taken to Mount Kisco hospital suffering from shock.

Another report says the woman is Benjamin Gorman and a black Bayville home in Ridgefield. Her right shoulder was dislocated and she suffered from severe shock. The body of Mr. Leiper arrived in Westerly Wednesday.

The annual field day and outing of the state grange will be held today at the Rhode Island State college, Kingston. Addresses will be made by Governor Beecman, President Edwards of the State college, Charles E. Keene, master of the grange, and John C. Ketcham, lecturer of the national grange. There will be vocal and instrumental music. Mr. Ketcham will attend the New England lecturers conference at Kingston on Friday and Saturday.

This is the date for the annual joint outing of the Westerly Physicians' association and the Westerly Dental association, one of the big local events. Plans on the Shore and the proposed invitational have been extended to other professional brethren outside the membership of the local associations and to physicians and dentists in the professions. It is expected that at least 200 men will participate in the outing, a partake of the shore dinner and clam bake.

At the Westerly probate court session the first and final account of the administrator of the estate of Edward H. Gorman, deceased, was read. Mary L. Kingsley was appointed administratrix of the estate of Harry M. Kingsley, of Bond $1,000. William L. Fowler, of Pawcatuck, was appointed guardian of Helen C. Maxson to sell real estate was continued to Aug. 19 with order of notice.

There were many relatives and friends at the requiem high mass in St. Michael's church Wednesday sung by the choir.

BREED THEATRE

One-Thing-at-a-Time O'Day, the feature attraction at the Breed today is a brilliant comedy-drama which gives Bert Lyell a role of remarkable versatility. It is a romance of the sawdust ring, an appealing play of comic folk that deals with the intimate details of a man's life as he penetrates into the big ring. The story is that of O'Day, a young man who falls in love at first sight with Marie, the beautiful barback river of the show. He is a remarkable young fellow who, though looked upon by his friends as being crazy, actually does possess the key to success—he believes in doing one thing at a time, with this in view he determines to accomplish the feat of marrying Marie, to become part owner of the show and to lick the strong man. How he does all three and the extraordinary methods he employs to achieve his purposes makes the play one of unusual originality and shows the clever star in his best vein. It is a play with strong heart appeal as well as unlimted humor. Tom Mix will also be seen in a new picture entitled The Coming of the Clouds. This picture is a full-blown western story of the days before the law had reached its hands into the far corners of that section. As usual, Mr. deLoe makes some remarkable stunts in this picture that are real hair-raising.

DAVIS THEATRE

If you want to see an all round good bill of high class feature photoplays with all the variety of subjects that anyone could desire, go to the Davis Theatre. The special feature is William Russell in Some Folks, a five part western comedy drama, with many thrilling and amusing situations. Mr. Russell portrays a class of a five part western comedy drama, with many thrilling and amusing situations. Mr. Russell portrays a class of a five part western comedy drama, with many thrilling and amusing situations. BRIEF STATE NEWS

New Haven.—This city is preparing to turn some of its saloons into oyster houses, with plans to serve food of all kinds.

Bristol.—Aloysius T. Spielman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Spielman, July 26 of Mrs. Addie Lord.

Milford.—This town will welcome her returned soldiers with a big celebration and is also the 28th anniversary of the founding of the town.

Manchester.—Manager Pentland of the Park Hill Flower Shops received orders today by representatives of the present New York florists for 15,000 gladioli and aster blooms.

Wethersfield.—Gov. Marcus H. Holcomb has appointed S. Frank Smith of Hartford and E. B. Robbins of Wethersfield to appraise the property of the state prison at Wethersfield and the state penitentiary at Middletown, as required annually under the statutes.

Bristol.—That the local barbers will soon demand a minimum wage rate of $25 a week plus half of the receipts over $31 taken in by the employer was decided at a recent meeting of the barbers' union. The present minimum rate is $20 a week and half of the receipts over $27.

New Haven.—Reduction in the number of men employed in the cigar trade in this city was announced this week at the office of the cigarmakers' union when it was declared that there are about 500 men working here at present, which is 150 less than the number two years ago.

Milford.—A retreat for Catholic women of Connecticut will be held at Lauriaton hall, Milford, August 15 to 17, which will be in charge of Rev. William J. Ennis, S. J., for several years president of Loyola college, Baltimore, and lately connected with the Church of St. Ignatius, New York city.

New Britain.—Resignations of three teachers are announced by School Superintendent S. H. Holmes. Miss Ella Johnson, who is to become county supervisor for the T. W. C. A.; Miss Helene Denfield, teacher of bookkeeping at the Academic High school, who is to teach at the Commercial High school at Passaic, N. J.; and Miss Ava Collins, whose health is poor.

Norwalk.—A weekly stipend of $50 for pushing a wheelbarrow is pretty good pay for even these days of high finance, yet that is what one of the men who is carting oyster shells at one of the local plants earned last week. There are 50 men at work and they get $50 per schooner loaded, or $2 a man. They are loading about five boats a day, which means about 250 tons. This work about ten hours a day for this pay.

Meriden.—Rev. Alphonse van Oppen, pastor of St. Laurent's church, Meriden, has sailed for Rotterdam and will visit his aged sister and brothers in his old home town, Maastricht, which he left in 1875, when ordained to the priesthood, to come to America. His sister is seventy-six years old, one of his other brothers ninety years and the other brother seventy-six. A third brother died during the war.

Southington.—A record sale of Jersey cattle took place the other day at the farm of Edmund Butler, a breeder who is importing to the priesthood.
