WESTERLY The weekly session of the Third district court, Judge Oliver H. Williams, was held in Westerly, Friday. For occupancy of automobiles in excess of twenty-five miles an hour, William Inness, of Watch Hill, and Arthur H. Coy, of Westerly, pleaded guilty, and each was fined $15 and costs of $2.50. Like case were continued for one week against Elias Burgelesin of New York, Fred J. Jelke of New York, Thomas J. Simmons of York, Pa., Arthur P. Hawes of Philadelphia, Joseph Davis was before the court charged with violently assaulting William Duquid. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100. Duquid was tried Friday for trial. It is alleged that Davis kicked the plaintiff, causing severe bruises, and attempted to assault him with ice tongs, but was prevented when Duquid closed in and held him. The trouble arose over the weight of a piece of ice delivered by Davis to the home of Duquid.

The contract has been awarded to Amos D. Bridges Sons, Inc., of Hazardville, Conn., the bid being considered the lowest. The contract is for ten offered, for reconstructing the Boston Post road between Westerly and Charlestown. The bid is $194,000. Half the expense will be paid by the government under the federal aid law. This stretch of five miles of road will be resurfaced with bituminous concrete. When completed, it will make a continuous highway of bituminous concrete to Mianusuck, and the road beyond has already been put in concrete.

The Henry is painted black and is a Rhode Island registry number 7208. The makers' number is 1619939. Joseph Moran, recently returned from army service, was arrested by L. Gavitt, warden, was injured while at work in Pleasant street, on Friday. Aside from a broken nose and a fracture of the only external injury was to his left elbow, which was believed to be fractured. He was taken to the Memorial Hospital, where an X-ray examination, to be made by Dr. Daniel Sullivan.

Senator Gerry has introduced a bill to permanently transfer the United States Fish Commission to the navy department. The latter wants the war transfer to become permanent, while the treasury department prefers the coast guard restored to its jurisdiction. Representative Stines has presented a bill to change the status of the coast guard following the war.

The reduction of train service, passenger and freight, which includes excess and postal business, has hit Westerly just as hard as other stations of importance along the line of the railroad, caused by the strike of railroad shopmen that went into effect on Thursday. Workmen here and elsewhere knew nothing of the withdrawal of trains that took them to and from their places of employment Thursday. Some returned to their homes, while others waited an hour or so and boarded trains that had doubled up to run on one schedule in substitution for the trains that had been taken off. These men lost the whole or part of the day, and lost the pay that would have been theirs. The absence of the trolley service is hardship to the people, but the lack of steam road service is the one that breaks. The conditions here increased the calls for motor truck service, and there is difficulty to get this class of vehicles for transportation of supplies from Providence, the main source of supplies for the town of Westerly.

An automobile operated by Frederick Phelps, and with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheeler as occupants, was upset in making a turn near Noose Neck Hill, Friday afternoon. Chagnon's car was broken and the child was severely cut. The woman was slightly injured but sustained severe shock.

Local Lassies. Private George Bullock, 21, Thirtieth company, Rhode Island State Guard, Bristol, who was swept from a truck on which he was riding to the Quonset Point, died Thursday in the Rhode Island hospital. John M. Coggeshall, 22, town clerk of Buxton, ten years, died Thursday night, after three weeks' sickness, of peritonitis.

Miss Mary A. Torston, seven years employed in the East Greenwich factory company, has disappeared, and the bank is $4,000 short in Liberty bonds, which have probably been cashed. Secretary Edwin C. Gleason has returned to his home in East Greenwich, after serving in U. S. C. A. work in Ireland, England and France. Major William D. Dodge, U. S. A., son of Edward M. Dodge, is home on leave of absence. Troop leaders were clearing the roadbed between Westerly and Stonington on Friday. A cheering sign of the near return of trolley car service, was the organization of a new local funeral service of Walter E. Wheeler, a large number of friends being in attendance. Burial was at River Bank cemetery. Albert Langworthy, Eugene B. Pendleton, Howard E. Thorn, Everett E. Whipple, William B. Austin and John Cole.

NORWICH TOWN

The following information was received Thursday from George P. Hyde of Washington street, who is passing this week in Buffalo, N. Y. Hyde is serving more than 1,000 delegates of the International Christian Endeavor societies opened the twenty-seventh international convention at the Star and Stripes Music hall. Beneath the Stars and Stripes and the red and white banners of the society, the delegates almost all had and it was predicted that before the convention closed on August 10, 2,500 delegates would be present.

George S. Buck officially opened the convention with an address of welcome, throwing the city open to the out of town delegates on behalf of the citizens of Buffalo. Mayor Buck pronounced the convention the largest he had addressed. Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., LL. D., president of the United States Christian Endeavor union, gave the keynote address of the evening, lauding the work of the Christian Endeavor society at the first convention held since the great world's conflict. A cordial message from President Woodrow Wilson to Rev. Dr. Clark was read into the minutes of the meeting, in which the president quoted "My Heart Will Go Out to You."

Communications expressing hearty greetings and well wishes were received from the societies in Mexico, and the secretary of the society, Mrs. J. A. Wutky, of Roath street, called recently on relatives in Norwich Town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shepard of Portland, Oregon, who have been passing several weeks with relatives in New York, and who at present are the guests of Mrs. Shepard's sister, Mrs. J. A. Wutky, of Roath street, called recently on relatives in Norwich Town.

Brooklyn, N. Y., resident visiting in town, who previously spent several weeks at Central Park, L. I., stated that he had been in the seven-year locust put in its appearance this year in Nassau county, L. I. This locust is usually more prevalent in the Western part of the state, but is most destructive to crops of all kinds. The inhabitants of different places are greatly relieved when it disappears as when hundreds of trees in one locality are making the accustomed noise it is most disagreeable to hear.

Rev. F. A. Jenkins, of Mediterranean lane, will supply the pulpit at the First Congregational church Sunday morning. John Heath of Elm avenue and Julian Rangus of Tanner avenue, left Thursday morning for Fargo, North Dakota, where they expect to work in the wheat fields.

Maurice Gay and Julian Williams of Washington street returned recently from a business trip to Boston. Mrs. Charles Pendleton, Mrs. Alexander Pendleton, Misses Mildred and Gladys Pendleton of Wauwau Hill, and Mrs. Frank L. Weaver of West Town street motored to Ocean beach Thursday. A stop was made in New London where the party called on Mrs. Weaver's brother, Elisha Post.

Gordon Francis Bailey, of Collinsville, to become pastor of this church. Miss Mildred Pendleton of Wauwau Hill is spending a few days at Saybrook Heights. Thursday evening Mrs. Richard Carter held a lawn tea at her home on Sturtevant street, for the benefit of the First Methodist church. There was a very large attendance and every thing was sold by nine o'clock. A country store provided much fun for those present. Groceries articles of all kinds, bakery, candy, etc., came up in packages numbering from one to twenty-five cents, brought $5. Miss Wheeler was in charge. The tables, decorated with different colored crepe paper made a charming effect.

ANIMAL SHOWS WILL ARRIVE SUNDAY
The Ferrari Animal shows will arrive in Norwich at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and will be unloaded at the Ferry street station immediately after their arrival. A 40 foot crossing has been built as a landing for the big wagons as they come down the ramp. The shows will be hauled to the Battleground, where a number of motor trucks furnished under contract by the estate of L. E. Harris. The public is invited to witness the unloading of the shows, and it is expected that a large crowd will be on hand.

Free hand concerts will be given every evening during the week by the Carnival band, which will tour the streets in a motor truck. The carnival is conducted under the auspices of Robert O. Fletcher post, American Legion, and enjoys the support of the largest crowd ever on the show grounds, as the committee in charge has been very successful in their night to make it a big success, as they are bringing into our city the largest and cleanest shows that will ever be seen here, so that the public may see and give the Robert O. Fletcher post shows the biggest crowd that was ever on the show grounds and enjoy your self, as it is a real show where you can bring your mother, sweetheart or sister, as you won't see any gambling games or immoral shows.

AT THE BREED THEATRE.
The Grand theatre Sunday night Jackie Saunders will be seen in her latest play, Muggsy. In this play she portrays the hoydenish role of a girl who longed to be a boy. Brought into the world on a farm, her girlish companions but few, Muggsy is practically forced to enjoy the company of the male sex. She can pitch a ball, jump and tumble, play leap-frog and throw the knife with the best of them. But to Muggsy her early youth is the shadow of her future. For later in the picture she is forced to actually impersonate a boy that she may win the favor of her wealthy and older relative who has nothing to do with women. Then the feminine instinct for gorgeous frocks develops and she is tempted to identify their appeal and her true identity is discovered.

How she has the affection of her old uncle, and how she wins recognition for the glory of womanhood in the heart of a confirmed woman hater, is exciting picture in the five reels of photoplay entertainment. June Elvidge will also be seen in Love and the Woman. This is a remarkably interesting play, told in a delightfully entertaining manner.

BREED THEATRE.
Sparkling humor and clever situations abound in the Beanie Love picture which will be seen at the Breed theatre today. There are strong dramatic situations in Beanie Love, which is blended into one of Miss Love's very best screen efforts. She has the role of the daughter of a one-eyed contractor and residing in Florida's flats, who having made his millions, buys a young man and his wife and daughter and sends them to the city. He gets into trouble enough himself, but his daughter Patsy narrowly escapes marrying a bogus lord. The story is a grand one, and the picture is a masterpiece of dramatic art. Patsy, and David Smith directed the picture. William Desmond will also be seen in A Sage Brush Hamlet. It is western, breezy fun, clean and wholesome comedy and bristles with tense action that moves at a fast pace. The Pathe news will complete the bill.

DAVIS THEATRE.
There is hope, joy, laughter and the sheer happiness of living in Better Times, the big musical comedy picture which will be shown at the Davis today. The story is one of home folks—human beings whom we all know in our everyday life, and who are getting relief from the artificial high life domestic triangles, vamp stuff and forced situations. The other big feature is Wallace Reid in The Roaring Road, a five-part Paramount production. The picture has been admirably cast, and is a complete cast headed by dainty Ann Little.

Trying to Get Along, a two-part Sennet comedy, with Charles Murray and the famous singer, Beanie Love, completes this excellent show. Four performances, at 1.20, 2.15, 3.15 and 5.15.

DAVIS THEATRE SUNDAY.
Winning Grandma is the title of the newest Pathe play in which the picture Baby Marie Osborne is starred that comes to the Davis theatre on Sunday night. The new play offers the clever and thoroughly unspoiled little girl screen star a fine opportunity for her talents. "Sunny, smiling Sammy," the cute little colored boy who has been appearing in recent Marie Osborne pictures, is here again, and what he does to a perfectly good grand piano is enough to get a laugh out of a mummy.

Another big feature on this bill is Helene Chadwick in The Honest Thief, a powerful dramatic picture with a good lesson and a very interesting story that everyone will enjoy. Post Travel Series, an educational scenic picture, and Topic of the Day, a nunchy, timely and humorous film, with odds and ends from the Literary Digest, complete the program.

Note: All picture shows here Sunday evenings are approved by the Massachusetts state police. Two complete performances at 7 and 8.45. Special musical program.

AUDITORIUM.
The weekly Sunday performance at the Auditorium next week promises to be one of great attractions. May Marsh will be seen in The Face in the Dark, The Duke in the Dark, Arnie, the Artist, a great comedy, and the Graphic Weekly will be shown. The first two big features come to the Auditorium in a big time circuit and were carefully chosen by the management for the Sunday performance. Remember, there will be picture shows at the theatre Sunday evening from 7 to 10.30.

In order to assist in every way the members of the Robert O. Fletcher post of the American Legion in their carnival next week this theatre will remain closed. This action is taken purely in the desire to help in every way all of the returned soldiers, and the post can count upon full support from the management of this theatre. Today's show at this theatre includes some great feature photoplays.

No, Hazel, a man seldom proposes to a woman unless she has made up her mind to make him do so.

General Diquez, of the Mexican Federal Forces, who is about to take command in the field in the campaign against the Villa forces. Occasionally a man spends a lot of time at his club because there is no place like home.
