SEARCH FOR AUTOMOBILE PARTS

Where Fred J. Carling of New London is a question that automobile authorities and officers of that city would like to have answered so that he could answer two questions.

One of the questions is, "What is the automobile belonging to Michael J. Doyle of Blydenburg avenue, New London, with which he ran into a machine operated by Edward W. Jewett of 125 West Hamer street, this city, last Saturday night in Montville. The other is to explain where Mr. Doyle's 3 1/2-ton truck is which was found missing from the Doyle garage last Monday.

Carling and the Doyle automobile, which is a Veille limousine, figured in a collision with a truck on the Montville road turning right, and up to Tuesday his whereabouts had not been located although the New London police and Deputy Automobile Inspector George H. Bradford of Montville had been looking for him.

Mr. Jewett was driving from New London to this city Saturday night and found that a 2 1/2-ton Auburn truck was missing. It is supposed that Carling must have gone to the garage and used the truck to make a get-away. He is known to have been from the opposite direction at such speed that it shot straight across the curve and took the Jewett car in the side. The Jewett car was badly damaged, the left front wheel being smashed and the front of the car crushed in.

Two men were in the Doyle car.

GOVERNOR GUEST AT BALTIAC ACADEMY WEDNESDAY

His Excellency Governor M. H. Holcomb was a guest at the Baltiac Academy in Baltimore Wednesday.

At the close of the reading Governor Holcomb addressed the students and members of the faculty present, saying that he had been impressed by the royal reception tendered him and that as he observed the finely equipped school rooms, he could not but draw a contrast between them and the old-time, one-roomed school houses of his boyhood days.

He complimented the students on the splendid advantages they were enjoying and the need they had of being fitted to the present and to meet so much for the world into which they would later enter.

The students were then formally presented to His Excellency by Mr. M. A. Balley, president of the Alumni association, who was also a guest.

Governor Holcomb seemed to be especially impressed by several of the pupils who, dressed in the national colors and carrying the flag poles on the stage, where they had been standing in the past, were invited to place their hands in welcome to their visitor.

The session closed with the singing of the national anthem.

After dinner had been served the governor met the students informally on the Academy grounds, during which time the pupils possessing cameras were invited to photograph the governor.

When Governor Holcomb left the Academy the pupils stood in open ranks on either side of the long walk leading to the street, waving the United States flag, while they gave these cheers for their departing guest.

Speaking for the pupils and their teachers was Mrs. Harry E. Kimball, of the Sisters of Charity, Miss Kimball said:

Your Excellency, Governor Holcomb: We know we are voting the sentiment of our Rev. Father Alphonsus of each member of the faculty and every pupil from the seniors down to the youngest primary, for when we see you here today, we are justly proud to have you here, and we are warmly welcome to the Academy of the Holy Family.

It is not only a pleasure, but an unqualified honor to have the privilege of receiving in our Academy a guest of distinguished executive head of the state that stands second to none of our country.

We are proud to have you here, and we are warmly welcome to the Academy of the Holy Family.

After the great cities of New England have been visited with each other during the present month in doing honor to guests whose fame has gone far and wide and encircled the world, we feel proud to have you here, and we are warmly welcome to the Academy of the Holy Family.

Remembering that all this is fresh in your mind we have felt no small misgiving that the thought of your visit to our little school and humble academy would be forgotten.

But we want the fact that Dr. J. J. Walsh, while lecturing before the academy students in this hall, less than a week ago, told us that it was just such little villages and schools that have the world's greatest men and women. It is not impossible that your visit to our little school and humble academy may be a welcome to you today.

Your Excellency is the honored and beloved leader of Connecticut, the noblest of states in great and good things since the days, long since, when her colonists drew up the first written constitution of an American government, forming by that act a young republic. As the other colonies were by a similar love of liberty, feeling that the right of the people to liberty spread far and wide over this fair land, and later when the time came to defend that same spirit against foreign invaders, what a glorious part our little school played! What great women rose to be inspirations to the men! What intrepid generals led the "Old Put" bravely and courageously, outgeneraled the traitors, strategists of a proud and mighty nation, for, and, too, what brave men, following the example of our heroes, "paid the last full measure of life's devotion!"

We have seen the people of Connecticut during the great war, just passing rise again to the same heights of patriotic devotion, unswerving in their efforts to stem the tide of might and anarchy, and to keep the world safe for democracy.

While we were watching with interest the growing importance of our little "Nursing Stabs" during the trying days of the great war, we saw our covered privileges to help on her noble efforts by devoting our money and time to the benefit of our country.

And now, Governor Holcomb, we are warmly welcome to the Academy of the Holy Family.

NORWICH HEALTH NORMAL SAYS DOCTOR BROPHY

During the first two weeks of October there was a noticeable increase in contagious disease in the city but during the past week the health conditions have returned to normal, there being about the usual cases of influenza but now there is only one out of two or three cases. The spread of the disease was largely due to the fact that those who developed the disease were not taken to doctors as soon as their throats became sore.

Health Officer E. J. Brophy advises all parents to have their children carefully and at the first appearance of any soreness of the throat have the child examined immediately. At the present time there is very little sickness in town outside of a few cases of tonsillitis. There have been no cases of influenza reported so far this year and it is hoped that there will be none reported.

New Haven.—Dr. John P. Sullivan of 134 1/2 Chapel street, well known local physician, is recuperating at St. Raphael's hospital after an operation in which it was necessary to amputate the top of his right leg suffering from a peculiar disease which has attacked the bone.

Sure Way to Regain Robust Bloom of Youth

A smooth, velvety-soft skin, with a delicate peach-like bloom, is one of the Creator's most exquisite works. When the first blush of youth is over, the beautiful tint of the skin is rarely seen. How to preserve them—this is the question.

Famous specialists abroad long have known that ordinary mercurized wax works wonder on the skin, but the actual use of a new surface to the skin, restoring that marvellous girlish color and softness is a remarkable discovery. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug store, will give the most faded, flannel-faced, freckled or pimply complexion into one of captivating loveliness in less than ten days.

No special skill is necessary in applying mercurized wax, it being smeared on the face with the fingers and washed off in the morning.

activities; though with such leaders as our worthy governor, we could not but give our best to the cause, for which so many of our state's brave men died and gave all.

We assure Your Excellency that it is our firm purpose to grow up to a noble womanhood, such as has helped to make the commonwealth of Connecticut one of the foremost in this great best of the world, through the assistance in keeping our people to a high standard of living, we must be active in all that makes for the best of our state. We are proud to have our American ideals, though they are the young school girls, we realize that the future of our great nation lies in the hands of the boys and girls who fill our schools today.

I do thank you for the privilege of this special visit to this academy, and I do thank you for the privilege of this special visit to this academy, and I do thank you for the privilege of this special visit to this academy.

Prosperous Colorado Town

Alton Davis, who left this city 12 years ago to locate in Boulder, Colorado, is visiting his brother, G. Warren Davis of the Corning road, to start back for his western home. He is accompanied by his wife, Edith, who has been visiting his brother, Charles E. Davis of Smith's Corners, Farmington. His visit to Norwich this time has been a most pleasant one, though an unexpected family reunion that came about with the return of two other brothers of the family, Edward, who lives in New Haven, and Harry, who lives in Jacksonville, Fla.

In the 42 years that his home has been in Colorado, Boulder has grown from a rough mining town of a few people to a modern town of 15,000 inhabitants with all the modern advantages. It has also become the educational center of Colorado, having located in it the University of Colorado, which is the state college, co-educational, with an enrollment of 1,800 pupils. The town also contains the largest Chautauque in the United States and has a high school of 800 pupils with 80 teachers. Mr. Davis has been on the board of education of the past several years and has been highly successful in business and is now the managing partner of the White, Davis Co., the largest department store in the town.

NORWICH WOMEN ORGANIZE TO CLOTHE NEEDY INFANTS

Twenty-two enthusiastic and benevolent Norwich women met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Adolph Levy, 317 Washington street, and formally organized a circle which has for its object clothing the needy infants of the town.

Mrs. Levy was elected president, Mrs. Harry E. Kimball, treasurer and Mrs. John T. Fitzpatrick secretary.

It was voted to meet the first and third Tuesday in each month. The next meeting will be with Mrs. H. E. Higgins.

The meeting was addressed by Miss Dowd, supervisor of nurses at Backus hospital, and by Supt. P. Leon Hutchins. Both spoke of the urgent need of the Central Baptist church. The board of the organization, which was predicted the practical good it is certain to accomplish.

It is the plan of the workers to prepare layettes which will be sent by the circle to the hospital and distributed from there and through the Norwich physicians. Two boxes were completed during Tuesday's meeting and extra work was taken home by members of the circle.

Each box is to contain two dresses, two wrappers, three diapers, two petticoats, three woolen slits, three pairs of stockings, two caps, three bands and two woolen blankets. Money contributed to date amounts to $14.00. The board of the organization has announced, besides donations of material, etc., from the Porteous & Mitchell company, the Boston store and the Lyons company.

INTRODUCES PENSION BILL FOR NORWICH WOMAN

Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London introduced in the house Tuesday a special bill providing for pension for Mrs. Mary A. Kimball, of 93 Sackham street, Norwich.

Under the terms of the bill, the secretary of the interior is authorized to place the name of Mrs. Kimball on the pension rolls and to pay her $25 per month. The bill was referred to the committee on pensions and ordered to be printed.

Mrs. Kimball is the widow of James W. Kimball, who served with Co. B, 5th Regiment, and also in G. Co., 50th Regiment, during the war. She had attempted to secure the pension through the pension bureau, but all her efforts had failed and she then appealed to the secretary of the interior.

She had been in Norwich the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly. He was graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in 1878 and from Holy Cross college in 1881. He was a member of the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and for 15 years was a curate in Ansonia and had been rector of the Catholic churches in New Canaan and New Milford.

He was an only son and his nearest relatives are two sons, Mrs. Thomas Cummings of Geer avenue, Norwich and Mrs. Cornelius Casey of Greenfield.
