DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Santa is scheduled to make a personal visit to Goodyear Christmas eve, when the thousand or more residents of that most thriving village are to have a Community Christmas tree. Santa's coming is the talk of the village and it will be one of the big events of the year for the little people, surpassing for them even the announcement that Goodyear is to have a new mill in the spring and start on its way to be the Akron of the east.

Agent Robert W. Ross of the company made known Friday the arrangements that he has entered into with St. Nicholas and with the operators of the big plant to make the community tree program a stellar success.

There is to be a great tree, 200 feet in height, ablaze with 200 electric lights. The tree will be glittering with silver and gold and dazzling in its array of Christmas gifts, for there are 200 children in Goodyear, all under 14 years of age, and Santa Claus has the names of every one of them, and not one will be forgotten.

The 650 operatives in the Goodyear mill have entered 100 per cent. strong into the spirit of the festival and every last one of them without a single exception has contributed to the Christmas fund that will be used in the development of the community tree idea. Here is an expression of the idea of perfect co-operation which holds such a paramount place in the plans and programmes of the great Goodyear corporations, and the response of the operatives is highly pleasing to the officials of the big concern. It is the spirit of friendship exemplified, and a striking illustration of the great Christmas motto: Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men.

A half hundred carol singers will join in making the community tree programme a success. The tree itself is to be erected on what is hoped will be the new school site, between the church and the Social club building. All Goodyear will be there, and Agent Ross made it very clear Friday that he hopes people from Danielson and all other communities in the town of Killingly will come to Goodyear and join with its residents in making the event one of great joy. The exercises will be between 7 and 8 o'clock next evening, and the Christmas eve. Music will be by the Goodyear band.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bridget Sullivan, of Moosup, were held at All Saints' church in that place Friday morning. Rev. J. E. McCarthy being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. The service was attended by many relatives and friends from various towns and cities in eastern Connecticut. Burial was at Jewett City. The bearers were William Gauthier, Daniel Kennedy, John Coffey, William Daly, William Elliott, J. L. Sullivan, Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Everybody says "the nicest line of pocketbooks and handbags we have seen"—Specials at 50c, $1, $1.50, $2.50 and up to $4.95 at the Keystone store.

How many Killingly boys would like some day in the future, to be an admiral of one of Uncle Sam's great fleets, which are destined to be the most wonderful of the world has seen? How many of Killingly's boys would like some time to be, even the commander of one of America's mammoth dreadnoughts or all-powerful cruisers? How would some of the boys who are now so prosaically studying in Killingly High school like, some day, to wear the blue and gold of Uncle Sam's splendid navy and be respected and admired as all the fine young Americans who have followed in the footsteps of Farragut and Dewey and Sampson and scores of other wonderful officers who have commanded American fleets and made history that will endure for all time?

Seems like a dream prospect, probably to most of Killingly's young men who are physically and mentally qualified, but it is a possibility well within the reach of those who are qualified to pass the tests that are set for those who would enter the United States naval academy at Annapolis to take up the studies that lead to the making of every officer who serves his country on the seas.

As already stated in The Bulletin, Senator Frank B. Brandegee has three appointments to make to the naval academy during 1920 and in the filling of them he is allowed to recommend a principal and three alternates for each vacancy. His recommendations will go to the navy department for approval.

Killingly has boys that can pass the tests if they will only try, and successful effort along this line will bring success and, maybe, fame not only to themselves but to their home town for which they may win an honorable place in history, as General John J. Pershing has done for a little town in Missouri.

Within the next few days the barbers of Danielson will officially tell the public that it is going to cost the said public more to have its hair cut, more to have its head washed and more to have its face shaved. The barbers deny any intent to apportion the joys of the Christmas season by declaring an advance in prices at this time, nor can anyone charge that they want to play a little joke on their patrons by boosting prices so that the patrons will be tempted to let their hair and whiskers grow, a la bolshevik.

The fact is that the prices the barbers are asking for their work here are too low. Everything else, excepting the temperature, has gone up recently and the barber barbers are under pressure from their journeymen for higher wages. No one who knows what long hours and painstaking attention a barber must give to his work and has a knowledge of the average wages paid the journeymen will deny that these workers are underpaid. Yet they must live upon what they get—and pay the prices for food, stiffs, and all other things, that much higher paid workers in other lines of endeavor are charged.

The contemplated advance, a schedule of which will be announced early next week, is to put the barbering business here on a reasonably profitable basis. Letting out a little secret, it may be stated that the price of shaves will be 20 cents, an advance of 5 cents over the rate now charged for the simple and less elaborate service of this kind in Danielson.

The new mill to be built at Goodyear will be of concrete. This fact was made known Friday by Agent R. W. Ross, who also stated that a still larger new mill than originally planned for is to be erected. The structure will be 100 feet in length, 140 feet wide, two stories and a basement. An extraordinary amount of wall surface is reserved for window space, the first being completed early next fall, or late in the summer, will look much the same as the attractive plant of the American Optical company at Southbridge.

Work on the mill will start not later than March 1, it was said Friday, though operations may begin sooner if the weather is length.

PUTNAM

Along with the Arctic weather, predictions of the end of the world, shortage of fuel and sugar and other "near-worries," a group of United States revenue men paid Putnam an official visit Friday.

Now the revenue men are fine American citizens and there is no reason to fear them—providing one hasn't done anything to be afraid of—yet their presence here drew a scare into some of Putnam's good citizens and kind of upset their joyous train of holiday thoughts.

The revenue men visited a considerable number of places in the city and inspected them more or less thoroughly. They took a look at the former barroom, going in back of the bars and about the premises. If they found anything that wasn't entirely regular, they didn't tell the public. The tobaccoists also came in for investigation and did their places that sell goods carrying revenue stamps.

It is to be hoped that the visit of the revenue men will not mean a Christmas present of a summons to court for someone. Chances are that it won't—but dog gone it all, Putnam isn't sufficiently familiar with these representatives of the government to feel fully at ease when they are around—or even after they have gone! It's hard to understand all of Uncle Sam's revenue requirements as they are today and everyone isn't a Philadelphia lawyer.

According to dispatches from Reno, Nevada, printed in the various papers of the city, the E. A. degree on candidates at Thursday evening's meeting of Mrs. C. H. Nichols of Mrs. Sarah Holloway, Mrs. Carver acting as matron of honor at the wedding, which was attended by a large number of guests.

Winthrop Bowen of New York city and Woodstock, has instituted suit for divorce in the Nevada courts. The dispatches add that Mrs. Van Rensselaer has been a resident of Reno for the past six months in order to establish the legal residence necessary for the divorce action.

Mrs. van Rensselaer is very well known in Putnam and has spent many summers at the beautiful residence of her parents in Woodstock. Her marriage with Mr. van Rensselaer took place April 8, 1917, in New York city, the wedding being one of the events of the social season. Mrs. van Rensselaer had been a particularly popular debutante while at the time of his marriage Mr. van Rensselaer was a member of the diplomatic corps and assigned as an attaché to the embassy at Rome. Mr. van Rensselaer is a member of one of New York's oldest families. Mrs. van Rensselaer is a granddaughter of the late Henry C. Bowen and a descendant of John Wentworth, a delegate to the Continental Congress.

Another 10 to 15 degrees below zero morning was ushered in for Putnam people Thursday. It's getting to be habit of the weather man to run the temperature down until it seems that there isn't any more space for dropping, and most people don't like it. Since last Sunday night the mercury has remained below the freezing point about every minute of the time. The one big benefit of the week as the result of the cold weather is that there is an ice crust on the roads, which doesn't happen to spoil it. A very few days more of cold weather will make conditions right for the ice harvest.

There was interest here Friday in a rumor that the Putnam Manufacturing company's plant is to be sold, but there has not been an official verification of the story. This company, one of the oldest in the city, manufactures cotton goods and employs about 200 hands.

There are now upwards of 60 students at the Putnam State Trade school, the attendance being larger than at any other time since the institution was first opened. Splendid progress is being made by those students, there being no difficulty in illustrating every day what a very fine thing it is for developing young artists who, upon completing their course, have no difficulty in getting good positions. Tuition is free to students from Putnam and other towns.

The Day Kimball hospital is in need of a new ambulance—a motor-driven vehicle. The present ambulance has been taken to create a fund to be used in purchasing such a vehicle. The only ambulance available at the present time is horse-drawn. While the old ambulance has performed good service in its day, it has become antiquated, and it is not possible to give the speedy service with it that could be expected from a motor ambulance. The woman's board of the hospital has signified its intention of assisting in getting the fund for the new ambulance.

Just arrived at the Keystone store, Danielson, more of those beautiful dolls at $7.50, $7.50, $10.00 and $12.50 each—and lots of cheaper ones—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Hermon G. Carver were at Providence to attend the wedding of Mrs. C. H. Nichols of Mrs. Sarah Holloway, Mrs. Carver acting as matron of honor at the wedding, which was attended by a large number of guests.

The cold weather has been the means of playing havoc with the train services. Delayed trains have been common during the past two days, several of the passenger trains that run through this city being as far as two hours late on schedule.

Go to Danielson to the Keystone Store and see the big assortment of toys, dolls, games, books—adv.

The present common council will hold its last session on the evening of January 6, to close up business awaiting its attention.

NORWICH TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert S. Beebe of Norwich town, with their son, Lucian, and daughter, Miss Clara Beebe, of New London, were included in the large attendance of relatives at the funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane Hurlbut Beebe, which was held here Thursday, from her home in Millington. Rev. Franklin Contryman, of Little Hadams, officiated. There were beautiful floral pieces. Burial was in the family plot in Millington cemetery.

Mrs. Beebe was the daughter of Job and Corrella Hurlbut, was the last of twelve children, November 21, 1854, she was united in marriage with Caleb Sherman Beebe, in the home where she resided for over sixty-five years.

Robert L. and Frederick F. of Millington, Charles T. of Waterford, Clarence of Colchester, and Adelbert S. and George S. Beebe, of Norwich town. There are twenty-four grandchildren and twenty-seven great-grandchildren. Mrs. Beebe was of superior intelligence and wonderful capabilities. Her home was a center of activity. Her domestic life was worthy of emulation and her rigid adherence to life's duties as she met them richly entitled her to the respect and admiration of all who knew her.
