

MACPHERSON'S "FOR QUALITY" FURS OF INDIVIDUALITY

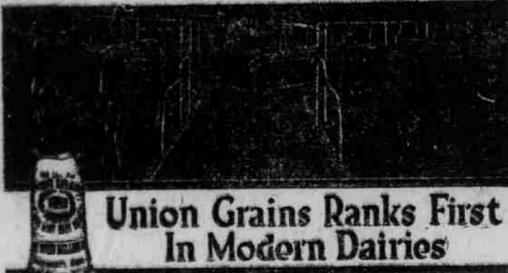

For twenty-five years Macpherson Furs have been recognized for their dependability—distinction is style—highest standard of workmanship, coupled with moderation in prices.

Our showing of Furs for the season 1919-1920 reflects credit upon us and their designers—characterizing furs of the highest type.

REVENUE BUREAU WILL HELP ON INCOME TAX RETURNS

In filing their income tax returns for 1919, taxpayers will be given the aid and advice of thousands of employees of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, trained in the intricacies of the internal revenue laws and regulations by correspondence-school methods.

There has been established in the Bureau a "correspondence-study department" through which is being issued to 2,000 field deputies and as many office deputies and clerks courses of instruction in the income and miscellaneous tax sections of the law. Each written lecture contains a careful discussion of the topic involved, such as personal exemptions, depreciation, bad debts, losses, gross and net income, etc.

The course is not confined to questions of law. "Ethics" is the subject of one of the lectures. The Bureau's representatives are advised to be careful of their personal appearance, to be at all times and under all circumstances courteous, and "not to forget to inform the taxpayers of all his rights."

"Whether your interviewee be rich or poor, you should be thoughtful to give the same care and attention to both," the instructions say. "The man who pays a small tax is entitled to as much respect as the man who pays a large tax."

Revenue officers will be sent into every county in the United States to assist taxpayers in making out their returns.

The date of their arrival and the location of their offices will be announced through the press, or may be learned on inquiry at offices of collectors of internal revenue, post offices and banks. The period for filing is from January 1 to March 15, 1920. The exemptions are the same as for the year 1918, $1,000 for single persons and $2,000 for married persons and heads of families, plus $100 additional for each person dependent upon the taxpayer, if under eighteen years of age or incapable of self support. Every person whose net income for 1919 equalled or exceeded this amount, according to their status, must file a return.

The normal rate of tax for the year 1919 and subsequent years, as provided by the Revenue Act of 1918, is 4 per cent on the remaining net income. The rates for 1918 were 5 and 12 per cent respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. Gypsy Smith, Jr., were the guests at dinner Sunday of Rev. and Mrs. Arthur F. Purkins and spent Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown. Mr. Smith gave a short talk to the City Bible class at the Central Baptist church on Sunday but otherwise took no part in the service.

One should learn to talk well—also when it is well not to talk.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

William McDermott, of High street, is en route to New Orleans, where he will spend the winter as a representative of the company with which he has been engaged in Michigan for the past few months.

Major and Mrs. Albert Warren are guests of Major Warren's mother, Mrs. Emma Warren, of Main street. Major Warren is in the regular army service.

Miss Beryl Wolcott of Worcester is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Warren, of Main street. Miss Wolcott formerly lived in Danielson.

Postmaster Raymond Allen announced Tuesday that the last mail will close at 7 p. m. instead of 7:30 on New Year's night. The office will be closed for the day after 11:30 a. m. The rural service will be suspended for the day and no money order or postal savings business will be transacted.

The Danielson Building and Loan association, which is just rounding out its fourth year, has assets of $40,000. A new series of shares is to be issued next month, this being the first time the association has made applications for loans that it can fill.

The American Woolen Company's plant at Elmville has been closed for the past few days as the result of a shortage of yarn.

Rev. Ignatius Kost, pastor of St. Joseph's parish, Dayville, which includes Goodyear, Attawaugan and Ballouville, has just completed taking the census, a long and arduous task. Father Kost's parish will show a substantial gain in number of souls during 1919.

The schools here will close tonight for the New Year's vacation, giving the pupils a festive holiday period extending to Monday of next week.

An Open House service has been arranged by Rev. J. T. Edwards for this evening's Watch Night gathering at the Baptist church. The program for the service covers the hours from 9 p. m. to midnight. From 9 to 10 o'clock will be Fellowship hour. At 10 o'clock a musical programme will be given, arranged as follows:

Overture—Prest of Laniter. Elnet Perfection—Mobile. Schelemuller Souvenir d'En Bal. Ludecke Overture—Bridal Roses. Lavalle Baumtanz. Schelemuller En Sourdis. Telman. Rallet Selection from Faust. Guarded Trio in G. Carl Bohm.

The musicians will be Miss Grace Stanton, pianist; Mrs. F. E. Wallace, violinist; Mrs. J. T. Edwards, cellist. Following these numbers there will be a program of readings by the Crusaders. From 11:30 until the midnight hour there will be special closing exercises.

Eusatia Pallidani is dead! The "Spanish granddame" of fame to Dayville has passed on to the hereinafter. Greatest of her race, most wonderful of her kind, death came to claim her at the astounding age of 72. For he who knows that Musatia is or was, the black Spanish conductor, a nation-wide distinction a few years ago following the appearance, relative to her remarkable age, of a story that was printed in The Bulletin and was afterwards republished, with many variations, facetious comments and ornamentalations in scores of papers in all parts of the United States. The story eventually was the means of bringing the owners of the hen into touch with a friend, in a western state, from whom they had not heard for many years.

As a matter of authentic record, it may be stated that this wonderful hen really was 22 years of age. She had been the property of James P. Banchard's family at Dayville during all of that time. She was hatched from a very fine and expensive thoroughbred strain of Black Spanish variety eggs. During her earlier years she was kept on account of her distinguished lineage that she might reproduce her kind. It was not until she had attained what would ordinarily be considered a patriarchal age for a hen that the idea of keeping her so long as life would last occurred to the owners and then they just waited and marvelled as Musatia piled on the years. Originally her feathers were glossy black, but as age stole on and she had attained to the venerable estate of 15 summers, the feathers began to whiten and eventually her coat was as white as the driven snow. In the next half decade the feathers regained some color and she appeared as a speckled beauty, but this attempted some-back to her previous color more than it is with the forms of life, and the near revival of the glories of her early plumage gave place to another period of fading—and Eusatia was gathered to her forebears wearing a mantle of pure white.

In all of her years Musatia never spent a useless one. Only last spring she patiently performed the annual rite of setting on a nest of eggs from which eventually a fine brood of chickens was brought forth and she continued to lay until late this very fall.

Eusatia was known far and wide as the most remarkable hen in New England, and her passing will be of wide-spread interest.

The body of Edwin L. Palmer is being forwarded from Denver, Col., where he died, to Danielson, for burial in Westfield cemetery. Mr. Palmer's death followed a surgical operation, performed in the hope that he might be protected from death from septic poisoning by which he had been made dangerously ill.

A score of years ago Mr. Palmer was one of Danielson's most widely known citizens. He was one of the town's most public spirited men and applied his energy and ability toward the upbuilding of the town of Killingly and especially the borough of Danielson.

Mr. Palmer was born on a small farm near Jewett City, February 17, 1847. When he was less than five years of age his father died and from a very young age he was thrown on his own resources.

He remained on the farm until he was 18. He came to Danielson in 1865 and entered the employ of Waldo Brothers as a clerk in their grocery store, remaining with them for several years. In 1871 he engaged in the grocery business in Putnam as a member of the newly organized firm.

PUTNAM

James E. Barnes, who has been in the employ of L. E. Smith for some past ten years, will conclude his labors there Saturday evening.

Edwin L. Palmer, who died in Denver, and whose body is now on the way to Danielson, was in fact Mrs. Charlotte Rawley of this city, where Mr. Palmer was engaged in business for a short time, many years ago.

The postoffice will follow the usual holiday schedule of hours on New Year's day. The rural service will be suspended and the routes of this office and no money order or postal savings business will be transacted.

When the local milkmen's organizations throughout the county hold their meetings within a few days they will give consideration to the always important question of what they are to receive for their milk during the coming months.

The ice harvest is well under way in Putnam, though the storm of Tuesday made the cutting anything but a pleasant operation.

The annual census of St. Mary's parish is expected to show an increase in the number of souls in the parish over the figures for last year.

Cargill Council, K. of C., which will lose upwards of 65 members through transfer to the new council to be organized in North Groton, has named a committee to conduct a membership drive planned for January.

Putnam's schools, which re-opened Monday for the winter term, will close this afternoon for the New Year's recess.

Constable Nerri Coderre of North Groton, who is in charge of the business killing record to 69 porkers for the season, and with the beginning of the new year will start out to make a new high record.

Various parties will watch the old year out and the new year in in various ways tonight. There will be the usual Watch Night services in the city and in the country and other social events to last at least until the midnight hour.

Coal shipments are beginning to go through this city with greater frequency during the period of the strike when they fell to nothing.

Morocco Bound was the musical playlet presented Tuesday afternoon and evening to the audiences at the Bradley theatre by Tommy Levene's O-U-I-aby company. The stage settings and costumes and singing were such as to win the appreciation of the audience.

Demetra Vaka, Mrs. Kenneth Brown, it is announced from Pomfret, where she has been a frequent visitor, is founder of a new organization called The Friends of Greek Women. The purpose of the organization is the bringing from Greece young women of that race who are of good character and education and to help them acquire such practical training as is most needed in their native country.

While there are many rumors as to the man who is named to fill this position and the position within the giving of the in-common common council, it is not expected that any definite announcements will be made until they may have an opportunity to sell.

While they are much discouraged, it is said that former liquor dealers here have not utterly abandoned the idea of getting back into business. At present their hope is pinned on the coming decision of the United States supreme court on the Volstead enforcement act, the hope being that they may have an opportunity to sell.

Mrs. Hermon G. Carver has been spending a few days with relatives in Providence.

It was stated Tuesday afternoon at the office of the Putnam Building and Loan association that $2,000 has been loaned by the organization during the past six months. The total amount of the loans of the organization is in excess of $28,000. The association at the present time has requests for loans $1 would total $10,000, and $30,000 could be placed, it was said Tuesday.

Harvey Houck of Worcester, after a hearing in a justice court in Woodstock, has been bound over for trial at the next term of the superior court. He is charged with having stolen two tons of hay, valued at $100. Mr. Houck denies the charge. The hay in question was on property where there was hay that belonged to his father. Mr. Houck furnished a cash bond for his release.

Quinebaug lodge, A. F. and A. M., is to confer the P. C. degree on a class at the New Year's evening meeting of the organization.

In many homes in the northern section of the city tonight and New Year's day the olden custom of paying New Year's call will be carried out, as has been the rule here for many years.

It was stated here Tuesday that it now seems established that no light will be given here as the result of the activities of state and federal officers who have been engaged during the past few weeks in applying penalties to those who have been violating the game laws by shipping protected game birds out of this section of the country to the New York market. Practically all of those caught in the net were for those engaged in illegal trafficking in game birds across the border in Rhode Island, and the poachers of that state seemed to have been the most active in the business since early last fall.

Mrs. G. L. Upham and daughter Ethel are spending a week in Boston. Miss Upham attended the alumni banquet of Boston university Saturday evening.

Miss Edith Eddy of Stafford is home for the holiday vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacDougal of Boston have been visiting Mrs. George Neely.

T. White and family spent Christmas week with Dr. R. C. Paine and family in Thompson.

Roscoe Alton and family entertained at Christmas dinner J. E. Child and family of Putnam.

Mrs. Christine Anderson of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., has been in town this week visiting her son, Carl Danielson, and his wife, and other relatives.
