CONNECTICUT COLLEGE

The junior class, after a prolonged period of tranquility and quiet, rose up to new life and vigor Friday evening at a sumptuous, jolly, enthusiastic banquet at the Mohican hotel. The banquet, held in accordance with the custom of preceding junior classes, was for the express purpose of initiating the class mascot, the distinguished characteristic of class and collegiate affairs and events. The matter of a junior mascot is always a weighty one, and in former years ten meetings have been held to suggest, debate, choose possible features worthy to be chosen as the attribute of a class. This year's course has been no exception to other years, for the juniors pondered long and seriously over the matter and at length made a decision. Every member of the class knew the elected mascot but no one else in the entire college, from senior down to freshman, from president down to the least of college officials, had any intimation of the chosen good luck token. And good luck token it is indeed for the junior class initiated at the banquet the "Good Fairy," the well known statuette, which has the place of honor in practically every college girl's room which signifies good luck, happiness, youth, success. The connection between the statuette and the juniors is a story of good fortune.

consensus of opinion was that juniors had chosen well, unusually well. But that wasn't all that happened at this merry junior banquet in the Dutch room of the venerable Mohican hotel. President B. T. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, Miss Edna Blue, Miss Orle Sherer, honorary members of the class of 1921, were guests of honor at the banquet and speakers for the occasion. Miss Rachael Smith of Bayonne, N. J., president of the class, acted as toastmistress as if to the manor born and called upon the honorary guests and prominent members of the class to make remarks pertinent to the aforementioned class. Miss Agnes Leahy of Norwich, president of the class of 1921 in its sophomore year, and Miss Dorothy Gregson of Norwich, president of the class in its freshman year, spoke wittily and cleverly and were enthusiastically applauded by their classmates. Songs and cheers made the banquet a truly collegiate affair and although the banqueters did not return to college until a late hour the echoes of the songs and cheers composed for the occasion made themselves heard on the campus long after the sedate upper and under classmen had been dreaming of banquets and singing in the land of dreams. Twelfth Night was celebrated at the college on Wednesday evening in accordance with a custom initiated in its opening years. The dining hour had been selected as the time most favorable for the convention of students and faculty and Thayer Hall was completely transformed for the occasion. Laurel was twined about the rafters, pines and hemlocks were in the corners, and huge wreaths hung about the room; in the fireplace, logs blazed high and with the tallow candles which were placed on each table, was the only illumination in the long low room. Although few of the students dressed in costume, the faculty as a body made appearance in old Shakespearian and Elizabethan costumes, which added much to the spirit of the feast. At the king's table, were seated the "nobles" of the faculty: President Marshall played the role of king to perfection, in his robes, crown and scepter, and in his gentle words of wit and wisdom kept the guests entertained in various fashions. Dean Nye, as queen, also in costume, was most satisfactory and most charming. The bear's head was brought in by two pages to the king's table with fitting ceremony. Dances, speeches, and a wandering minstrel were the features of the evening's entertainment, which concluded with the burning of the Christmas wreath and greens. Mid-year exams are scheduled to start Friday, Jan. 23, and to continue through until Wednesday, Feb. 4. Temporary schedules have been posted on the bulletin board and the final draft will be concluded Monday. The Psychic Circle is to attend the Norwich Spiritual Academy on Sunday evening, accompanied by Dr. Allen J. Thomas and Dr. Frank E. Morris of the psychological department. A system of exchange professorships between the Republic of Chile and universities and schools in the United States has been arranged, and the first two representatives from the United States will leave early in 1920 for their South American posts according to a statement in School Life, the official publication of the Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior. Her Preference. Emily was eating at a restaurant with the family and had finished an order of waffles. She was still hungry and her father asked her if she would have something more—a sandwich, perhaps. She said: "No, I would rather have another set of these than anything else." Divinity in Friendship. The most I can do for my friend is simply to be his friend. I have no wealth to bestow on him. If he knows that I am happy in loving him, he will want no other reward. Is not friendship divine in this?—Henry D. Thoreau. Brunettes Have First Call. Dark-haired people, so says an authority, get married sooner than fair-haired individuals. He has shown by statistics that an overwhelming majority of those women who live and die spinsters have fair hair. Self-Appreciation. When Effie was visiting her aunt she found, on the table, a photograph of herself taken when she was 6 weeks old. "O, Aunt Emma," she cried: "Who is this ugly, cunning little baby?" A close student of human nature seldom lends money to his friends.

Why Archie Muffed It. It was at a cricket match in Australia. A tremendous skyer had been hit and the fielder was in fair way to catch the batter out. At this tense moment one of the spectators called out, "Miss it, Archie, and I'll let you kiss my sister." Demand for First Cotton Bale. The appearance of the first bale of cotton is made an occasion in many markets and is sold at auction. Buyers compete for the privilege of purchasing the first bale on account of the advertising prestige, and often run the price to a very high figure. Makes Life Interesting. "You have often heard that opinions differ," remarked the Man on the Car. "Well, that interesting fact is the cause of all the trouble in the world."—Toledo Blade. Good to Be Done. That which is good to be done, can not be done too soon; and if it is neglected to be done early, it will frequently happen that it will not be done at all.—Bishop Mant. To Improve Chinese Tobacco. Efforts are being made in China to improve native tobacco by planting American seed and teaching modern methods of cultivation.

A Stock Problem. When the Cabinet members have no other business on hand they discuss the Mexican situation.—Indianapolis Star. Getting Over It. A few prominent citizens appear to feel that they might as well go ahead with their presidential booms and get them over with.—Washington Star. A gem of thought is often impaired by a bad setting. Some people put on airs while others merely whistle them.
