

JANUARY SPECIALS!

During this month we offer special inducements in all our departments.

With prices daily advancing it is not in accord with the established policy of this house to boldly proclaim starting reductions in print which facts cannot sustain. But we do promise this—

A Full Dollar's Value For Each Dollar Spent

No one can ask for more; we dare not give less.

All we ask is a visit and comparison of our goods and prices with those elsewhere.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM

DANIELSON

A Putnam Woodward, J. N. Lavallee and E. H. Keach have been at the church home in Ashford this week for an ice fishing trip, guests of Henry E. Church of Hartford.

W. K. Litch, treasurer of the concern, has given notice that the stockholders of the Sabin Worsted company have executed an agreement to terminate the corporate existence of the company.

The Workabit club of the Congregational church, planned a candy pull for this afternoon.

Mill extensions planned for Killigly during 1920 will provide employment for at least an additional 1,000 operatives, and this means an increase from 2,000 to 3,000 in the town's population. Verily, Killigly is hitting its stride.

The plant of the Central Cotton Yarn company at Central Village was burned to the ground Friday morning in a spectacular fire that broke out shortly after nine o'clock.

All efforts to save the structure with the limited fire fighting apparatus on hand proved unavailing, though the light made by the firemen saved the surrounding dwellings from destruction.

The loss, estimated at not less than $25,000, is total, as there was no insurance on the mill, the machinery or the stock.

A spark that flashed in one of the pickers and which probably was caused by a piece of metal running through the machine is believed to have caused the fire, which spread through the woods that skirt the edge of the mill, the ice being sucked up into the pipe and blocking the screens. The big pump, which was working mechanically for a few minutes, was delivering from 700 to 1,000 gallons a minute, but it never nearly reached that capacity on account of the ice choking up the discharge screens. At times the streams dwindled away almost to nothing and then the firemen, who would be making good headway in checking the fire, would see their efforts being nullified as the streams failed on account of the ice clogging in the suction pipes.

The heat from the fire was terrific and there were times when the firemen had to face a seething mass of flames and make the best of it in their effort to keep the flames from spreading to the mill building, which was the most needed. At one time when the fire was at its height the mill structure was a roaring furnace and the good streets of the neighborhood had been too much to have fought it successfully.

Some of the waste, of which a year's supply had just been stocked, was from a large stock of products in the building, but the greater part of this raw material and a valuable quantity of finished product were lost in the flames.

The company manufactured wicking for lamps and other such products and was a successful industry giving employment to a small number of hands.

The mill at the front was a three story wooden structure, while the rear of the building, this being a newer part, was two stories.

During the course of the fire John E. Collins had his hand injured, but the hurt was not a serious one. George S. Collins, the senior member of the firm operating the plant, is confined to his home recovering from an injury to his leg.

The fire broke out at about 9 o'clock and it is expected that the nearly $300 raised by contributions from the public will be about sufficient to put the clock in the steeple of the Methodist Congregational church in striking order again. The clock has not been striking since the heavy weights fell from the mechanism last fall and crashed down to the street level of the church.

Members of the senior, junior, sophomore and high school classes of Killigly High school enjoyed a sleighing party in the woods in a number of such parties in the surrounding towns the past two nights.

The Miracle Man ranks with the great men of the world. His story of love and faith that will grip you. See this picture at the Orpheum theater Jan. 18-20—adv.

President Bowdoin of the Connecticut college at New London will address the members of the Killigly Woman's club next Wednesday afternoon at the assembly hall at the high school. He will speak on the subject, Challenge to Women—Community service.

Friday morning's low temperature as shown by the recording thermometer at Woodward's store was nine degrees below zero, this being one of the low marks of the winter.

W. Irving Bullard, formerly of Danielson, was elected to the presidency of the Merchants' national bank of Boston, with which institution he has been connected for some time.

Neighborhood prayer meetings arranged under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal church of Danielson were held Friday evening at the parsonage, other homes in Danielson and at Enfield.

Mrs. Ida Boutlas of School street is a patient at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester.

Mrs. Louise Duhamel, who has been

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM

PUTNAM

A. A. Houghton died Friday morning last at eight o'clock at the home of his son, Dr. Harry A. Houghton, on Grove street. Mr. Houghton had been a resident of Putnam for half a century.

Mr. Houghton came from an old family of manufacturers in this section. In his early life he followed the supervision of his father, who died in Putnam in 1839.

Some time ago Mr. Houghton's heart became affected and he has been confined to the home several months past, so that the end was not unexpected.

Alexander Augustus Houghton was born September 2, 1810, at West Gloucester, R. I., son of Augustus and Elizabeth (Hawkins) Houghton. Mr. Houghton was but six months old when his parents moved to Worcester. When he was 18 his parents moved to Putnam, where he attended school and later completed a commercial course at Willbraham Academy.

At the age of 23 he entered the yarn mill of his father at East Putnam, to learn every detail of the business. He became superintendent of the plant, a position he held for three years.

Later Mr. Houghton took a saw mill in West Gloucester and erected a three-story stone mill on the site and under the firm name of Hawkins & Houghton did an extensive business in the manufacture of cotton yarns. He continued in this business for 14 years and at such an early age he leased his interests to James Stockard. The mill was destroyed by fire in January, 1902. Since that time Mr. Houghton has been engaged in matters concerning the large estate of his father and his own business interests.

In politics Mr. Houghton was a republican and served on the republican town committee for years. For three years he was a selectman and in 1892 was elected representative to the state legislature. July 1, 1888, he was elected a director of the First National bank, and was re-elected at Tuesday's meeting, a continuous service of about 32 years.

He was a member of the East Putnam Baptist church. He belonged to Quinebaug lodge of Masons and Putnam chapter. He was a member of the Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows, the A. O. U. W., Putnam council, Royal Arcanum, and Putnam lodge of Elks.

Mr. Houghton married Miss Anna Mary Cady. Of this union three sons were born: James Elbert, born Sept. 20, 1871; Winfred Augustus, born Jan. 5, 1875; Harry Alexander, born July 27, 1884.

Besides his wife and three sons Mr. Houghton leaves a sister, Mrs. De Witt C. Park, matron at the Windham County Temporary Home.

The southerly end of the Chickering hotel was the result to prohibit quarters for the Putnam News company and Charles Miron, barber, whose place of business were in that section of the building, which was practically destroyed in Thursday morning's fire.

Many incidents were being related Friday of the narrow escapes that the guests of the hotel were getting from the building. Regular boarders at the hotel got away in a number of cases with not much more than their shirts on their backs, and others as they could slip into in record time. That none lost their lives is now regarded as very remarkable.

The department men were busy during Friday night, and were through the fire that covers the entire length of Union street to the depth of several inches, so that the thoroughfare is blocked to traffic, much to the inconvenience of firms doing business there.

Immense quantities of water that flowed from the fire and into the street congested almost instantly during the fire and all of Thursday while streams were being played on the hotel and has made a frozen river of Union street.

The entire southerly end of the hotel is sheathed in ice and a ladder of the fire department that rests against the building is frozen in and hidden under an ice covering that makes the rounds as big as a man's arm.

William G. Mason of Thompson has been ordered to appear in a justice's court in the town of Thompson this (Saturday) morning to answer to a charge of violating the motor vehicle laws. He was arrested by State Officer Howard Elliott.

In the opinion of all motorists who use the highways between this city and Providence and this city and Danielson, and other points to the south, something must be done to regulate the operation of the big motor trucks that are now running in such numbers on these highways. The majority of the drivers of these motor vehicles simply ignore the rights of all other traffic and many of them operate their trucks at higher rates of speed than is allowed under Connecticut laws. The manner of operation is such as to a menace to other traffic, especially now that the roads are slippery and the big trucks are sliding about. Many of the drivers of these trucks pay no attention whatever to signals from cars that wish to pass, and assume an attitude that is highly irritating and unfair to other users of the highways.

At the Thursday evening prayer meeting at the Congregational church a purse of $100 was presented L. O. Willard, for his services in organizing there, the presentation being made by Rev. Bowdoin Merrill and members of the congregation.

Former County Agent B. W. Ellis and the present county agent, Frank Davis, attended meetings of the officials of the New England Milk Producers' association held the past week, and which were well attended and a success throughout. A great deal of interest was shown in the marketing of milk, one of the principal farm products.

Some of the topics under discussion at these meetings were plans of taking care of the surplus of milk, advertising milk, and matters of organization.

Taking care of the surplus seemed to be one of the most difficult problems to solve, and is one of the things spending several weeks in Canada. is visiting her mother, Mrs. Alexander Duhamel, on Cottage street.

High school girls will assist today (Saturday) in conducting the Tag day campaign for the fund that will go for the relief of Italian soldiers blinded in the war.

Manager W. E. Keach of the Congregational church has been elected to have the All-Collegians of Providence as an attraction here tonight. The Long Speed Boys will also line up against a Jewett City team, making a double header.

Earl Collins of this town is a patient at the Day-Kimball hospital in Putnam, where he has undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Winford L'Heureux has been elected president of the Fraternal Benefit society.

The ice fishing season closes January 20, but most of the fishermen have lost their enthusiasm for the sport—17-inch ice being the explanation.

which these locals will have to work on for some time, in order to work out a satisfactory system.

All of the locals were very much in favor of advertising their product. They went so far as to authorize a deduction of one-quarter of one percent, from their monthly milk receipts, to be used by the Milk Campaign committee to advertise and advocate the greater use of milk.

The organization of the locals in Windham county is quite complete. Practically all the milkmen belong to the nearest local, and are boosters of the New England Milk Producers' Association.

The following officers and delegates have been elected:

East Woodstock Local: President, L. H. Healey; secretary, S. H. Peckham; Delegates, L. H. Healey, S. H. Peckham.

Pomfret Local: President, John R. Stromberg; secretary, Joseph A. Stoddard; Delegates, John R. Stromberg, William S. Warren.

South Windham Local: President, W. F. Spokesfield; secretary, Thomas Marra; Delegates, W. F. Spokesfield, Thomas Marra.

Scotland Local: President, Charles F. Brennan; secretary, Gerald Waldo; Delegates, Charles F. Brennan, G. N. Perry.

Plainfield Local: President, John E. Tanner; secretary, Nathan Exley; Delegates, John E. Tanner, John A. Cornell, Byron Young.

These delegates will attend the county meeting, February 3rd, at 11 a. m., at the Farmers' Association of office in Putnam, for the purpose of electing officers of the county association, whose president is the voting delegate to the annual meeting of the New England Milk Producers' Association in Boston.

State Attorney and Mrs. Charles E. Seale are leaving next week for a trip south. They will be away several weeks.

What is described as a mid-winter camp meeting is to open this (Saturday) evening at the Salvation Army hall, which has been decorated with little pine trees to make it look like a camp ground.

There will be special speakers and good music at each evening's meeting. County Detective W. E. Jackson of Williamantic was a visitor in Putnam Friday.

Martin Nelson was elected master of Senexet grange at Woodstock. Temperatures down to 19 below zero were reported in this city Friday morning.
