HEAD RIFLE TO ADO

Testimony that Joseph Matr, guard at the Fairview reservoir, on July 20, 1917, leveled a rifle at his head late that night, was given by Edward McNamara of the Falls when he was a witness in the superior court in New London Wednesday morning in the trial of the suit of Miss Mae Richmond for $25,000 damages against the city of Norwich. Miss Richmond was shot in the leg about 6.30 o'clock that night by Matr while he was on guard at the reservoir and had to have her leg amputated.

Trial of the case occupied all day Wednesday with testimony introduced by attorneys for the plaintiff, who were not ready to rest their case yet when court adjourned at 4.30 in the afternoon to come in again next Tuesday morning to continue the trial.

Attorneys John H. Cassidy of Waterbury, T. M. Shields and C. W. Cassidy of Norwich, are conducting the case for the plaintiff, while Corporation Counsel Joseph T. Fanning has Attorney Allyn L. Brown associated with him on the defense.

McNamara was the first witness of the day Wednesday after Jack Hill from New Jersey had been put on the stand but not allowed to testify. The court sustained the objection of the attorneys for the defense against Hill's testimony about the condition of the barrier across the reservoir road weeks before the date of the shooting was irrelevant.

Mr. McNamara, who runs a grocery store at the Falls, Norwich, testified that he drove up the reservoir road in about 5.30 on the night Miss Richmond was shot. He did not know of the shooting. He drove through the fence and went up to the dam and saw Matr, the guard, coming toward him. Matr shouted for him to go back. He backed around and Matr shouted "Stop!"

McNamara said he stopped the automobile and Matr asked him what he was doing there. Matr answered that he was taking a ride. Leveling the rifle at McNamara's head, Matr said to him: "I've a mind to blow your brains out." The witness said the rifle was within four feet of his head and he was scared stiff. It seemed as if Matr held it there five

CONFIRMATION CLASS AT CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

A class of four boys was confirmed by Suffragan Bishop E. Campion Acheson at Christ Episcopal church Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance at the confirmation service, which was presided over by Bishop Acheson.

Prayer was offered by Rev. J. Elwood Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church. After the confirmation, Bishop Acheson delivered a sermon on the Humility of Christ. "I think we may safely say that life presents many startling things to us and that we are often ignorant of the things that are to befall us," he said.

From a human standpoint we may say that St. Paul did not have the humiliation of Christ. Our reputation is a tremendous thing. Our Lord was treated as though He had no name and He had the highest name of all. He came to die for us, and He died for the people of the lowest kind, associating with people who couldn't comprehend Him or His ideas. His life was far different from that of the Son of God.

Dominion. Kings have an idea of what that is. Business men and politicians in office have an idea of what that is. I believe there is a rising protest against the human conception of these things. The old idea of the "great things" that God does, our Blessed Lord is gradually coming into His own in the turmoil of the world.

A man should know men before he attempts to rule them; should labor to know the man, the aspiration before he dictates to them. You are judged today by everybody who knows you by the mind of Christ. The wife judges her husband, the husband judges the wife, the mother judges the daughter, the daughter judges the mother, and criminal judges criminal by the mind of Christ.

There was no other way for Christ by the way of the cross. And there is no other way for us. If we are crucified with Christ we shall rise with Him.

Mary K. Hartney, widow of Thomas W. Enright, died at her home at 33 Fifth street about 10 o'clock Wednesday evening after an illness of about a week. Mrs. Enright had been in poor health for some time but her condition became serious only a week ago.

Frederick G. Barnard.

Frederick G. Barnard died suddenly at the home of his grandson, Lieut. F. B. Craven, at 26 Warren street, early Wednesday morning as the result of an attack of heart trouble. Mr. Barnard had apparently been in his usual health until Tuesday and when he arose early Wednesday morning he was seized with the attack. Summoning assistance he went to his room and medical aid was summoned. Some time later he had been cread for, the nurse who was in attendance left the room and upon her return found that Mr. Barnard had died.

Mr. Barnard was born in Pittsford, N. Y., Feb. 14, 1849, and had resided in that city the greater part of his life. Of late he had made his home with his daughter, Mrs. John E. Craven, at 26 Warren street, and since October in this city. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. John E. Craven of Norwich, Mrs. C. M. W. Rand of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Frank Le Bourgeois of New York, N. Y.; one son, Daniel D. Craven of Rochester, N. Y.; one stepdaughter, Mrs. H. C. Sherrard of Pittsford, Pa.; 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Although Mr. Barnard was not very widely known in Norwich, having come to this city in October with Commodore and Mrs. John E. Craven to live with his grandson, Lieut. Frederick Barnard Craven, of 26 Warren street, all who have met him will carry the remembrance of a most delightful personality for years to come. He was of the strongest character and notwithstanding his age he was keen of mind and ever ready to discuss the topics of the day with those with whom he came in contact. The neighborhood will miss a familiar and much loved figure.

The body will be taken to Pittsford for burial.

Ha: Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Discoverer Tells Druggists Not to Take Retail of This Powerful Heavy Tabled Afternoon Complexly Bunkable All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of senseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, usually called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind, he consulted a physician, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let not a "cure" everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. Lee & Ogden Company has been appointed agents for Allen's in this vicinity with the understanding that they will freely return the surplus money for all who state they received no benefit.
