

Norwich Bulletin and Courier 124 YEARS OLD

CIRCULATION WEEK ENDING APRIL 3, 1920 10,624

THE RIGHT MOVE. In regard to the daylight saving question the court of common council has done the right thing...

MOVING GOAL. When General Freight Agent Wood of the New Haven road requests his agents to interest coal firms to use the spring, summer and fall months...

WOODLAND FIRES. We have gotten to the season again when people are again moving about in the woods and fields...

EDITORIAL NOTES. The latest campaign cry is "We're not going to stop till it's Hoover over here."

need of eliminating carelessness in connection with the use of matches and smoking material...

TAKING GERMAN CITIES.

Germany may not like it, but it must realize that the occupation of several German cities by French troops is only what it had every reason to expect in view of the use it had made of its own troops.

LANSING'S IDEAS. Until the finger is definitely placed upon the very thing that caused the trouble between President Wilson and Secretary Lansing...

Whether or not the Rogers bill for honest money passed by congress, it has already been effective in stirring up a campaign here in Washington against false advertising.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. Will Not Rest There. Mr. Editor: Thaddeus C. Sweet has been successful in ousting the five socialist members of the assembly.

When the carpenter of Nazareth was brought before Pilate the charge was, "He stirreth up the people."

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. The dandruff is entirely dead. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, April 6.—The question of democratic party leadership in the senate is still hanging in the balance. Neither Senator Foraker nor Senator Underwood has made an open move since the treaty went down to defeat.

Whether or not the Rogers bill for honest money passed by congress, it has already been effective in stirring up a campaign here in Washington against false advertising.

Whether or not the Rogers bill for honest money passed by congress, it has already been effective in stirring up a campaign here in Washington against false advertising.

Whether or not the Rogers bill for honest money passed by congress, it has already been effective in stirring up a campaign here in Washington against false advertising.

Whether or not the Rogers bill for honest money passed by congress, it has already been effective in stirring up a campaign here in Washington against false advertising.

Whether or not the Rogers bill for honest money passed by congress, it has already been effective in stirring up a campaign here in Washington against false advertising.

CRUELLY UNSYMPATHETIC

"Till tell you just how it is," said the girl in the squirrel coat as she carefully rearranged her lips with the aid of a little mirror and cosmetics.

"Oh, Estelle," sniffed the girl in the squirrel coat, "it was perfectly awful the way some of the girls chased poor Lester. Last summer he would fairly run to me to get rid of them."

"Well, I must say," breathed her friend, "every girl he knows taking a full course in the trapper's art for his benefit—and owning three cars and acres of the United States above and below ground as he does— and looking like an advertisement and growing a perfect nose—they usually get out the brass band when Archibald approaches in this city. What do you mean, bored?"

"You are so abrupt," complained her friend. "I think it is poor taste to talk about sincere devotion—I should not dream of doing it. Only lately, I have been to realize what a simply marvelous man Archibald is. I feel I must have been blind! The way he looks at me is positively touching!"

"I tell you," said her friend in mole-skin drily, "you just put the whole matter up to Lester when he arrives in town next week."

"W-w-what?" almost shrieked the girl in squirrel. "Lester, coming here?"

"Why didn't you know? Of course she's probably mistaken, but Regina told me yesterday that Lester was coming on to be present at his wedding to the interest of the multitude of the people in the White House."

"I'll never ask you for advice again so long as I live," spluttered the girl in squirrel, furiously. "You are absolutely the most unsympathetic person I ever met."—Chicago News.

Try This If You Have Dandruff. There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it.

Five Minutes a Day With Our Presidents

Copyright 1920—By James Morgan. XX—THE JACKSONIAN REVOLUTION.

1828—Andrew Jackson elected. 1829—inaugurated seventh President, aged 61.

Jackson's election to the presidency almost deserved to be called the laud American revolution. The first in 1776 left the country still under the rule of the colonial aristocracy, which, though liberally loving, distrusted the republic and hated a democracy.

Jackson really was the first president to be popularly chosen. His was the first presidential election to rouse the interest of the multitude of the people in nearly every village setting up a hickory pole and around it rallying to the support of "Old Hickory."

Jackson's hour of triumph was turned to a time of mourning for this devoted, faithful companion—a being so gentle and so virtuous as he recorded in his epitaph, "slender slighted wound, but could not slumber."

Tomorrow—Slaying Dragons.

CHARGE IT JUST SAY JUST SAY New Spring Clothes ON EASY PAYMENT TERMS SMART SUITS FOR WOMEN Modish Suits of the latest fabrics and patterns—with braiding, buttons and all the newer frills.