Saturday and Sunday were busy days in local police circles and at the session of the police court this (Monday) morning the cases to be heard will range from poker to house and back again to suspicious characters.

Saturday night about 6:30 Officers Grant Dombria and Frank McLean stepped in on a poker game in full swing in the back room of the pool room run by Charles Mazzola at 524 Main street. Things were evidently thought to be O. K. by the manipulators of the cards and when the officers came into the room about 11:30 p. m. was found on the green. All bets were called off and the cash was appropriated for evidence. The game then in progress was a five-handed one but the arrival of the police broke up the sport and adjournment followed, the next game being in the police station, where the following names were entered on the blotter: Wilfred Lamoureux, 21; Joseph Monaghan, 49; Tony Fiele, 34; James McConnell, 46, and Henry Nichols, 25. The names of Charles Mazzola was added after furnishing bonds all were told to be in court Monday morning.

All was quiet at the police station during the remainder of the week and on Sunday morning the usual walk-up on Main street and as he was passing the store run by Arthur McMillan he noticed two men, Patrick Doyle and Joseph Moriarty, come out of the place and start to cross the street. Doyle's coat had something suspicious in the way of a bulge about the upper part. Chief Killourey, knowing the reputation of McMillan regarding selling questionable liquor, called to Doyle and asked him what he had. Doyle produced a good sized bottle of water, also a bottle of Jager, alias Jamaica ginger. Moriarty also produced a bottle of Jager and both men claimed they had bought the stuff in the store of McMillan. A third man who came out of the store, a bottle of ginger ale was allowed to go but Doyle and Moriarty were told to appear at court Monday morning.

The third arrest in the series came shortly after 11 Sunday morning, when Lieutenant Allan McArthur and Officer Frank McLean took John Saunders, 20, of New London, and George Davidson, 23, to the police station as suspicious characters. Saunders and Davidson were

United States Exports

Exports from United States to Canada in 1919 were $150,000,000 below those of 1918, while in practically every other important country of the world the exports show an increase. The total exports for 1919 were $1,450,000,000, compared with $1,600,000,000 in 1918, and $1,520,000,000 in 1917. To practically all of the other important countries exports were up. Exports to Mexico were $23,000,000; to Cuba a gain of $1,000,000; to Argentina an increase of $5,000,000; to Brazil a gain of $5,000,000; to China an increase of $10,000,000; to Japan a gain of $3,000,000; to Great Britain a gain of over $20,000,000. Exports to every grand division except North America were up in 1919 when compared with the immediately preceding year, while in the case of North America there is a fall off. This is apparently occurring for war purposes in 1918 and 1917, and in the movements to Canada. Exports to Europe in 1919 show an increase of 14.6 per cent. over 1918; to Asia 5.9 per cent.; to Oceania 2.3 per cent. Note that the exports to South America 41.2 per cent., while to North America the total is $1,295,000,000 against $1,325,000,000 in 1918, a decrease of about $30,000,000, or 2.3 per cent., indicating that to other parts of North America the exports show a large gain.

Steel Magnate

These articles numbering a dozen, and of a character greatly in demand in Europe in 1919 are the principal ones in which a fall off occurred in 1919, and curiously their fall off is greater proportionally than any other. The reduction in our exports to Canada in 1919, of other parts of the hundreds of articles of the class required by the domestic market in Canada shows in a large proportion of cases an increase in 1919 instead of the decrease occurring in the classes of material presumably passed on from Canada to Europe in 1918 but not required for that purpose in 1919. In cotton cloth, for example, the exports to Canada in 1919 show large totals in every class of cotton goods, except in the piece showing an increase of $2,300,000 in 1919 as compared with 1918; unbleached cloth an increase of nearly $1,000,000; broad cloth an increase of $2,000,000; steel plates $2,000,000; steel sheets $2,000,000; tin plate $5,000,000; pig iron $5,000,000.

From the Consular Reports.

Because of its skill in cotton goods manufacturing in pre-war times Germany was able to dress its population, pay its labor and export manufactured goods almost to the value of the imported raw cotton.

People in the Canary Islands are steadily purchasing more of their needs from the United States.

Each year this country imports more than $1,000,000 worth of almonds.

South America is to have an all-British railway for the carrying of mails. The route extends for 2,600 miles, with twelve air ports en route, and runs from Pernambuco to Buenos Aires.

With its new loan of $5,000,000, Rev. J. J. Spill, will moderate the first One Day of the improvement of the house of labor and export manufactured goods almost to the value of the imported raw cotton.
