COWSLIPS.

Cowslips, sweetlips, smelling of the summer,
Coming with the cuckoo, bringing in the May,
Lifting heads in pastures, where the cattle spare you,
Waiting to be gathered when the children come to play...

Faint and soft and honied, fragrant as the king's breath,
Wafted airs of cowslips gladden London streets;
Yellow-speckled handfls, penny-worths of sunshine,
To the dusty passers they are lavish of their sweets.

Not from London barrows came our Irish cowslips,
Tossed and cramped and prisoned all the night they've lain;
But when morning reddened, lest they should feel strange,
Cowslips from each cutting kept a-nodding to the train.

Kindly was the thought for children who this May-time
Weave no cowslip neckties, wind no cowslip ball;
London parks are gray with beds of guarded blossoms,
But, to pluck and treasure—not a cowslip in them all.

Cowslips, sweetlips, smelling of the country,
Coming with the cuckoo, bringing in the May,
Straight and tall and slender, springing in the pastures,
Waiting to be gathered when the children come to play.

WESTERLY

Alexander Mitchell of Westerly, Pride of New England lodge, served as right supporter to deputy grand master at the thirty-seventh annual convention of the grand lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows Manchester Unity, held in Providence. Thomas R. Platt, of Westerly, served on the board of arbitrators. The financial report showed total funds of the order in the state $116,920.23, a gain of $6,408.96, notwithstanding that $13,334 was paid in sick benefits and $5,850 in funeral benefits. Officers were elected as follows:

Thomas Scholtes of Central Falls, provincial grand master; Herbert Merritt, Pawtucket, provincial deputy grand master; George Lord, Providence, provincial corresponding secretary; Isaac A. Wood, Providence, provincial treasurer; Hector B. McFadden, Providence, immediate past provincial grand master; Walter Lowe, Providence, district auditor; two years; Horace E. Fletcher, Providence, high exalted ruler, two years; Alfred E. Wiving, Providence, board of management, three years; Hector B. McFadden, Isaac A. Kenworthy, Herbert E. Robert of Providence, Thomas Scholtes of Central Falls, representative to grand lodge convention in New York. John Sinsler of Providence, was appointed district deputy to Pride of New England and City of the Valley lodge.

Wednesday was the sixtieth day, and the last day of the session of the Rhode Island general assembly in which members can receive pay unless they have been absent. Those members who have been perfect in attendance are anxious to finish the session, while many others who have been absent are willing to sit a few days more and collect the full amount of cash. It was predicted Thursday that the assembly would adjourn some time Friday night or early Saturday morning, dependent upon the bill providing for reorganization of the Rhode Island company.

An act passed in the senate the nomination of George A. Delan of Westerly, as commissioner of inland fisheries for the term ending January 3, 1921, vice Dr. Edwin K. Lewis, of Westerly resigned. Fabled under the name of the Grand Royal chapter of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of Rhode Island and allows holding of $50,000 in personal property.

An act was passed which allows nurses registered in other states, to practice in Rhode Island without passing examination.

A blanket bill was passed which authorizes the use of erroneous names or controlled by the state by organizations of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines who served in the war with Germany.

The Westerly branch of the Rhode Island Child Welfare bureau, has received copies of the first in a series of publications regarding the health of the children, which are issued under the title of "Is Rhode Island a Thoughtful Father to His Little Children?" The present survey was compiled under the leadership of Dr. Elizabeth M. Gardner, under authority of the state legislature.

Representative Samuel H. Davis, of Westerly made a vigorous attack upon the Snazy Club license bill, which was passed in the house of representatives Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Davis declared that of passed and the thirteenth amendment was found constitutional, the act would be a direct defiance to the government of the United States and the constitution. Messrs. Owen and Flynn took exception and declared the bill was not in defiance, but supplemental to the eighteenth amendment.

Mr. Davis moved indefinite postponement of the liquor club license bill. Lost by a vote of 13 to 47.

In the superior court at Kingston Thursday, was tried the $50,000 suit brought by Owen F. Lee against Everett C. Jones, Oliver H. Jones and Sheriff John R. Wilcox, for false arrest and imprisonment and malicious prosecution. Lee was arrested last December for alleged forgery, but it was shown he was innocent. He was in Kingston jail for two days. The forged check in the case was issued by the Coast Finishing company of New York, to Elmer Babcock, but another person endorsed the check and received the cash from the Joneses.

At the opening of the case, Judge George T. Brown ordered court adjourned to come in at Westerly Thursday morning. At the opening the jurors were taken out and Attorney Grim moved for non-suit on the grounds that his clients had nothing to do with the false arrest and imprisonment or malicious prosecution of Lee as set forth in the complaint. Attorney Phillips also made a motion for non-suit for Sheriff Wilcox, as the officer was within his authority in making the arrest and that there was no evidence to show malicious prosecution.

Judge Brown denied both motions to dismiss.

Most of the testimony for the prosecution was heard at Kingston and but little was added at Thursday's session in Westerly. After the noon recess Attorney Phillips, counsel for Sheriff Wilcox addressed the jury. He said he intended to prove that the sheriff was not guilty of the allegation set forth in the complaint.

It is the duty of the sheriff to see to it that men suspected of crime are brought into court. Officers of the law have made mistakes and the sheriff made a mistake in this case.

The Jones brothers had a forged check cashed in their store and the sheriff was called into the case to make investigation. The sheriff found out that Lee had been making purchases at the store about the time the check was cashed, July 11, 1919.

The sheriff did precautionary things cited before getting out a warrant for the arrest of Lee. He did not rush the case but investigated for twenty days. Finally Lee was arrested and when presented before Justice of the Peace Perry in Wakefield, pleaded not guilty. Lee could not furnish bail and was taken to the Kingston jail where he remained two days.

Sheriff Wilcox continued his investigation. Mr. Phillips told the jury, and he found out there was another Elmer Babcock in the town. The sheriff succeeded in locating him, and learned that it was this Elmer Babcock, and not Lee, who forged the check. He immediately notified Attorney Casey counsel for Lee that Lee was innocent. He open court Sheriff Wilcox stated that he had made a mistake, and was sorry for it, and asked the court to discharge Lee, and did all that he could do in respect Lee's innocence of the crime.

Attorney Grimm, counsel for the Jones brothers, addressed the jury briefly.

The testimony for the defense was then heard, and was in progress when court adjourned to Friday morning.

That was a senatorial surprise, the passage of the bill to abolish the office of jury commissioner, the job held by Representative Jacob A. Eaton, of Providence, a recognized majority leader.

James Dixon, of Westerly, is chief clerk in the office of the commissioner. Senator Langley said that it had been expected that the jury commission act would improve the jury system in the selection of jurors. This, however, has not been the case, he said.

At the annual meeting of the Rhode Island Golf association held at the Agawam Hunt club, Earl Crandall, of Pawtucket, formerly of Westerly, was elected second vice president. The other officers were: Henry A. Boss, president; Harold Congdon, first vice president; Earl Davis, third vice president; Myron Affleck, secretary and treasurer.

The threatened trouble between the striking laborers and the laborers from out of town here on contract work before the strike, did not materialize. The police supplies prohibition to the men at work on the spar track to the new silk mill, and that work is now about completed. A squad of police were also at the work on the Pleasant View road. There was no trouble and the work went on without interruption. The men who were employed on the Post road for the state highway department did not report for work. It is said these men had been warned not to work. After working half a day, Wednesday, the men employed on the Post road decided to quit in sympathy with the strikers.

Just One Glance

at a sallow complexion or a pimpled face tells the story of imperfect elimination of harmful substances from the body. The liver and kidneys are organs for the elimination of waste and injurious matter from the blood. A poor complexion immediately suggests the need of the famous family medicine—Beecham's Pills—which for over sixty years have been a reliable remedy for those digestive ills so clearly evidenced by dull eyes, a sallow skin, or bad breath.

Headache in most cases is nature's cry against a blood congestion caused by impurities; the liver is not secreting the necessary amount of bile, the kidneys are not doing their proper work; the food is not being properly digested, so nature sounds the alarm.

Sick headache, backache, biliousness, sour stomach and constipation are all due to digestive ills quickly and efficiently removed by that never-failing, ever-ready and popular remedy
