DENIES PUTNAM WIDOW'S CLAIM

The claim of Mrs. Mary Reeves of No. 154 South Main street, Putnam, widow of Eugene Reeves, Putnam, who died of typhoid fever, has been denied in a decision made public by Compensation Commissioner James J. Donohue of this city.

The deceased, Eugene Reeves, was made and no agreement having been reached, the case was heard by the compensation board Monday afternoon, May 8.

The claimant, Mary Reeves, is the widow of Eugene Reeves, and it is found that she was not regularly dependent on him.

The facts in the case were agreed to by both parties, the point to be decided being whether the injury arose out of and in the course of the decedent's employment.

The doorway from which the decedent fell was about 150 feet above the sidewalk.

SETTLED HUSBAND'S ESTATE—LATER JUDGE MARRIED WIDOW

A West Haven correspondent writes regarding the recent marriage of Judge Thomas, at one time a summer resident of Eastford.

Edwin S. Thomas, judge of the United States district court, married Mrs. Amos A. Young, a wealthy widow residing in Highwood, near Norwich, Conn., recently.

The ceremony took place in New York city April 29, it is said. Judge Thomas' first wife was the daughter of the late James Peck and resided at Savin avenue and Church streets.

The couple divorced in the west some months ago. They have one daughter, who is married and now lives in New Jersey.

The second Mrs. Thomas came to Norwich with her husband from New York city about 10 years ago and acquired the large Hotel estate at the top of Prospect hill.

Mr. Young died leaving his entire fortune, which is said to be considerable, to his wife. It is understood that the judge is a bachelor and young when engaged in settling the estate.

Judge Thomas is a graduate of the Yale law school, was formerly executive secretary to Governor Simcox, and for a number of years was secretary of the democratic state committee, while he was practicing law in New Haven before he was appointed a judge of the United States court during President Wilson's first term.

He is therefore found that while the inheritance is brought about by the course of the decedent's employment, it did not arise out of the employment.

NEW LONDON WOMAN DIES AT AGE OF 98

Mrs. Sarah Beckwith, 98, widow of Captain P. D. Beckwith died Sunday at her home, at 232 Willets avenue, New London.

Beckwith was born in Montville, August 9, 1831, the daughter of Clement and Hannah Chappell Beckwith. When eight years old her parents moved to New London, and she lived in a house near the corner of Willets and Ocean avenues.

She lived at 232 Willets avenue since 1884. In 1914 she married Francis H. Beckwith, a cousin of a merchant vessel plying between this country and Europe. He died in 1928.

Mrs. Beckwith was one of the oldest members of the First Baptist church and up until the time of her death never relaxed her interest in the parish.

Beckwith has two daughters, Miss Edwina Beckwith with whom she lived, and Mrs. William Brown of Waterford, she is survived by three grandchildren, Mrs. P. H. Beaudreau and her husband, Mrs. Martin Gibson of Middletown and Frank Beckwith of New London, and two great-grandchildren, Mrs. J. C. Marsans, Jr., age 16 years and Sidney Beckwith aged two years.

MERIDEN SANATORIUM FOR CHILDREN'S CASES ONLY

Underhill, the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Meriden, is to be made a sanatorium for children exclusively, according to a report announced Monday by the tuberculosis commission.

Seventy-two adult patients at Meriden will be transferred to the sanatorium in Hartford, and the children and the children of those sanatoriums transferred to Meriden, added to 36 children already at Underhill.

With a large new building to be erected there, Underhill will have a capacity of about 170 children. Only cases of pulmonary tuberculosis will be taken there, other forms of the disease being treated at the East Lyme seaside sanatorium.

Officers at the Norwich sanatorium said Monday that they had only one child patient there, and they would have room for only three or four inpatient cases if any adult patients were to be transferred from other state sanatoriums.

JEFFREY V. COIT WILL MAKE LENGTHY CRUISE

Jeffrey V. Coit, of 149 Broadway, who re-entitled in the U. S. navy, was returned to the U. S. S. Parrott, now stationed at the Philadelphia navy yard. He will leave in a few days for Cuba, and then through the Panama canal to San Diego, Cal., and expects to visit many parts of the world before he returns.

The U. S. S. Parrott is a new destroyer, going into commission May 1, 1929.

COVENTRY SCHOOL GIRL WRITES BEST COMPOSITION

Elizabeth Schmidt of Number Ten school, Coventry, was the winner in a composition writing competition for the schools of the towns of Coventry, Mansfield and Lebanon in the United States.

The best composition from the town of Mansfield was written by Marion McKernan of the sixth grade in the Eastville school.

The best from the town of Lebanon was written by Lavonne Potts, a pupil of the eighth grade in the Center school. Elizabeth Schmidt, of the Number Ten school, Coventry, wrote the best composition sent in from that town and Miss Schmidt's work has been selected as the best from the three towns.

The judges have selected the best composition from each school, the best from each town and the best from the three towns. The winners in the several schools were as follows:

Mansfield: Storrs school, Dorothy Beebe; Center school, Amy Hawkins; Holyoke school, Daisy Coventry; Four Corners, Leona Walker; Eastville, Leona Schwab; Atwoodville, Frances Crane; Chestnut Hill, Frank Crane; School, Raymond Sledziewski; Eastville, Marion McKernan; Mansfield depot, Helen Powers.

Coventry: Center, Mabel Tillinghast; South Street, Helen Potts; Flinders, Alexander Sherill; No. 6 school, Elaine Rossmann; No. 7 school, Louise Carter; No. 8 school, Elizabeth Schmidt; No. 9 school, Laura Kingsbury; No. 10 school, Henry Schmidt.

Lebanon: School No. 2, Josephine Farkney; School No. 3, Frank Hartwick; School No. 4, Mildred Zenowitz; School No. 5, Lavonne Potts; School No. 6, Charles Briggs; School No. 8, John Kurtz; School No. 12, Alfred Sprague; School No. 13, Emily Intenza; School No. 14, Dora Levine.

After a child has grown up and has become a man of voting age, his duty is to vote for persons who will act for the best good of the town. It is his duty to vote for the man who is the candidate of the opposite party in the better man. Whenever the officers of the town need help he should never fail to give the required aid.

A citizen should appreciate the roads and bridges which the state builds for his use. He should help in sending good money to the legislature to make the laws. If good men are in the legislature they will make laws which we will obey gladly.

Every citizen should respect the flag and all it stands for. He should be loyal to the United States. He ought to endeavor to keep himself healthy for then he can be ready for service should the nation need him. Men can serve in the army and navy and women can be nurses and be ready to vote when there is an opportunity given them. They
