GREENEVILLE

At a recent meeting of the general committee in charge of the Greenville community parade which was presided over by Chairman Oscar W. Chief Marshal John A. Scott, will appoint his aides and announce the line of march within the next few days. Reports from those who are soliciting subscriptions, state that very generous amounts are being freely pledged and a substantial fund is assured. All available teams are taken for floats, but if any residents know where more teams may be procured the information will be greatly appreciated by the committee.

Upwards of 400 men alone received their monthly holy communion in St. Mary's church on Sunday morning at the early mass comprising as they did the Third Sunday Brigade movement of St. Mary's Holy Name, which movement is growing in numbers each month as their holy communion day comes round. GRADUATES AT PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

Graduation exercises for the classes from St. Patrick's parochial school and St. Mary's parochial school were held Sunday evening, attended by large numbers of relatives and friends of the graduates.

At the St. Patrick's school exercises, which were held in the basement of the church, the address to the class was by Rev. Otto Baumeler of Colchester. The class honors went to Miss Loretta Ellen Sullivan, who stood first in the class, and the second to Miss Mary Louise Winifred Nadelney.

The programme was as follows: Processional, Prof. Frank L. Farrell; hymn, 'Heavenly Queen'; class; naming of honor pupils, Rev. D. F. Sullivan; presentation of diploma, Rev. John H. Broderick; Sacred Heart hymn, Joseph Quinn; Rosemary Elizabeth, Margaret Loretta Sheridan, Loretta Ellen Sullivan, Loretta Jeremie Valentin, Ann Elizabeth Voege, Mary Anna Wenzel, Thomas Francis Winters, Names worthy of mention—Loretta Ellen Sullivan, first in class; Mary Louise Winifred Nadelney, second in class.

The members of the class received holy communion in a body at the 7:30 mass Sunday.

The sermon to the graduating class was by Rev. Otto S. Baumeler, of Colchester, who read the text, "I am the Light of the World; he that followeth me walketh not in darkness, but shall have the light of life." (John, 8:12).

Introducing his theme by portraying the Saviour and His Apostles meeting a group of mothers and their little children under the shadowy palm trees of Palestine, the preacher described Peter rushing forward to disperse them when the children gathered about the Master and called Him Jesus, Christ taught His apostles and all the world a great lesson when He waded the apostle across the sea. "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, for the Kingdom of Heaven is for such." The lesson which Christ taught at Palestine evidently had not been forgotten in St. Patrick's parish, the preacher said.

The Christian school in the expression, the embodiment of our protest against demoralization and the banishment of God from His own world. There can be no room for the devil in the Kingdom of Heaven as for such. The lesson which Christ taught at Palestine evidently had not been forgotten in St. Patrick's parish, the preacher said.

POETRY

FROM A SKYSCRAPER WINDOW.

My window frames a drop of sky; All day the sailing clouds go by, Far off and white, or fleeted with sea, When in the tired afternoon The office blinds seem to swoon A sleepy song and I could close My eyes and dream that I was strolling on a curb and see Sometimes when I look up and through, I see a square of singing blue, Sometimes a storm-track driving past, With sulphurous patches like sharp pain, Or smooth grey curtains, soft and vast, And lavellins of rain.

I see no houses, hills or trees To lift my heart to the earth, No friendly, green horizon girth, No grain fields bowing to the breeze, No Remora, Empress and Puffin, My vision waxes no memory, Not in its blue and cloudy lure To any question makes reply, Suspended beauty in the void, For heart and eye it glimmers there; But not for this am I employed— To watch it through my window square.

"BUILT-IN"

There was a built-in husband And he had a built-in wife, They had a built-in apartment And lived in a built-in life.

They slept in a triceratops, And cooked upon a grill, That doubled as a dishwasher, Or a washboard, as you will.

They had a nurse-and-housemaidette Who had a built-in milk, And a lovely feeding baby, That they raised on condensed milk.

This little built-in household Is as happy as can be, On the little built-in schedule Of the built-in bourgeoisie.

BAD GULLY IN DETOUR

Owing to the work of laying the cement to complete the West Thames street improvement, the street has been closed from Shipping street to the city line and traffic is sent around the construction work by a detour. The detour is through Shipping street along the railroad tracks near the Norwich Woolen company and then through South street to West Thames street. The detour is in fairly good condition with the exception of one place on South street where there is a gully running directly across the street over a foot deep. This is a bad place and several automobiles have suffered broken springs when they hit this spot.
