GREENVILLE. The graduating exercises of the Greenville school were held in the school Thursday afternoon.

The hall was prettily decorated with red glass colors, blue and white, while the stage was a bower of flowers.

Previous to the exercises, the class picture was taken, the class being grouped on the school lawn.

The several numbers on the program were rendered in a creditable manner, the cantata, "A Mother Goose Arabesque," coming in for much merited praise from the audience.

Class 1920 numbers: 31 boys and girls, many of whom will go to higher schools of learning. Practically half of the class will enter Norwich Free Academy in the fall.

A certificate of merit was awarded Mary E. Breckinridge for excellence in essay work by the National Society of Colonial Dames.

Rev. C. H. Ricketts, in his talk to the graduates, spoke interestingly on what was to be expected from the graduates. The following his remarks with brief attention:

The children of John Cote held a surprise party for him Thursday evening at his home on North Main street. Friends and relatives were present from Fort Point and other places. Refreshments were served consisting of salad a la creme, olives, chicken fritzelery, lettuce, ice cream and soda. There was a very large gathering.

A horse and wagon belonging to Frank Perry, of about 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The foot-board of the wagon broke and Mr. Perry fell behind the horse heels and he kicked him in the foot, fracturing it. The horse started to run on Oakridge street but stopped himself in front of St. Mary's school on Prospect street. The wagon was slightly damaged with a broken shaft. The harness was torn to pieces but the horse escaped injury. Mr. Perry was attended to by a doctor and carried to his home.

The graduating class of St. Mary's school had a outing at Ocean Beach Thursday, starting from the school in six automobiles at about 10 o'clock. A very delightful day was spent by them with games and refreshments on the beach. During the afternoon two teams were picked to play baseball. Thomas Dooley captained one team and George Swanton the other. The game was one-sided but provided enjoyment for everybody as the girls played as well as the boys. The team captained by Thomas Dooley won the game by the score of 22 to 3. The other team being unable to solve his mysterious deliveries. They returned to Greenville at an early hour in the evening.

YALE WINS FIRST TWO RACES

Yale won two crew races on the Thames late Thursday, the graduates eight defeating the Harvard alumni in a half mile contest and the Blue combination shell winning over the crimson combination in a mile spin.

In the combination shell race Yale won by a length—time, Yale 5 minutes 35 seconds; Harvard 5:38. The 211 graduates won by a half length, time, Yale 2:35; Harvard 2:35. The advance guard of the regatta throng watched the races from yachts launches and the shore.

Yale won three tosses out of four Thursday night for choice of positions in the races today (Friday). Yale will row in the east, course in all races, selecting that lane for the varsity race whether rowed upstream at 5 p. m. or downstream at 7:30. Yale also selected the east course for the freshman contest, while Harvard won the toss for the junior varsity and chose the west course.

The following is the way the two varsity crews will row:

CONCRETE EXPERT TESTIFIES IN COAL POCKET SUIT. Again on Thursday trial of the suit of Lewis M. Young, the contractor, against the Connecticut Coal and Wood Co., occupied all the time of the superior court session here with Judge George E. Hinman presiding. Late in the afternoon Asher Atkinnes of New Brunswick, N. J., was put on the stand as an expert in concrete construction work by the attorney for Mr. Young. He testified regarding that the plans provided for building the coal pockets for the coal company was inadequate and that he considered the steel and other material called for would build pockets of the necessary strength to hold the coal.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS DISCUSS CHRISTIAN SABBATH. The closing meeting of the Seventh Day Adventist conference business session will be held at 10:30 this Friday morning, at which the following additional resolutions will be presented for adoption: That the delegates and visitors express their appreciation to the business men of the city, through their chamber of commerce, for special courtesies extended to us during our stay in Norwich; that the newspapers for the liberal space given in reports of the convention; to the many homes in the city in which rooms for delegates and visitors to this convention have been very kindly provided; to the Talking Machine Shop for the use of one of their beautiful new pianos; to friends who have kindly furnished furnished flowers in profusion for platform decorations.

At the evening service Thursday, Pastor M. C. Wilcox, of California, preached a stirring sermon on the subject, "The Christian Sabbath—What the Institution Stands for." The speaker began by saying that the Sabbath question is not a local or denominational question. It is not a question raised by Seventh-day Adventists but is one that is up for discussion in every part of the civilized world. He laid down the four following fundamental propositions: (1) There is involved in the Sabbath question the inspiration of the Bible. Does God mean what He says? (2) There is involved in this question the integrity of the law and government of Jehovah. (3) There is involved in it the existence of true Protestantism which is based on the Bible and the Bible only. (4) There is involved in this question the stability and continuation of civil government. To the one who has given study to this question these propositions are axiomatic. To him who will candidly and without prejudice, study them they become self-evident.

The speaker went on to say that the Sabbath question is a purely Bible question, as to both origin and law. That he might put one discouraging subject worthy of three, he would study it from the view point of the three priestly dispensations, upon which all Bible students are agreed namely: Patriarchal, Levitical and Christian. The first of these, the Patriarchal, covers that period of earth's history from Eden to Sinai, during which the patriarchs of the family or tribe was the priest. The Levitical age extended from Sinai to Calvary, during which the priesthood was vested in the tribe of Levi. The third dispensation reaches from Calvary to the heavenly Zion.

All Christians, said the speaker, are further agreed that whatever changes in law, ordinance or worship occurred, did not take place in the middle of any of these dispensations, but at the time when the one blended into the other, namely near the exodus and the cross.

Turning to the Bible aspect of the Sabbath question, the speaker read a text, Mark 2:27, "The Sabbath was made for man." Gen. 2:2-3 was read to show that it was made in Eden, by the Creator, who first resting upon the first seventh day of time, then blessing and sanctifying, or setting apart for a holy and sacred use the day upon which He had rested. Other Scriptures were read to show that it was an existing institution during the patriarchal age; reaffirmed by God's own voice, amid the grandeur and thunders of Mount Sinai; that it was sacredly observed by Jesus Christ during his earthly ministry; and again reaffirmed on Mount Calvary. In these closing days of the Christian dispensation, said the speaker, as near the close of the two preceding dispensations, a great Sabbath reform movement has been foretold in Bible prophecy, and of those who respond to this movement, it is said prophetically, "Here are they that keep the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus." Rev. 14:12. Mr. Wilcox who has for many years been editor of the "Signs of the Times," published in DETOUR ARRANGED FOR WEST THAMES STREET. Now that the West Thames street pavement is ready to be laid from Shipping street to the city line that part of West Thames street will be closed to traffic until the work is completed. Traffic bound for New London will be sent out West Main street by the Fair Grounds coming onto the main highway at Trading Cove. Traffic has been going by the way of Shipping street through South street around the construction work, a detour that was not the best and although the detour by the Fair Grounds is an improvement over the Shipping street route there is much room for improvement. Thames street is to be closed for several weeks.

Mountain View, California, is a clear logical speaker, impressing his hearers that he has a fund of information from which to illustrate and emphasize his exhortations of Bible texts. Evangelist Eugene W. Farnsworth, also of California, will preach tonight.

No day services were held in the Community house Thursday it being field day, when several automobile loads of delegates and visitors went out to surrounding towns and villages, as well as in the city, calling upon the people in their homes, distributing literature and soliciting donations for foreign missions. All returned late in the afternoon, with smiling faces and related many pleasant experiences in meeting the people, and with donations amounting to $423.29.

SALEM MAN REPORTS HE WAS DRIVING AUTOMOBILE. Meyer Schumkler of Salem was the man driving the Ford automobile that collided with the automobile driven by Max Rabinovitch of West Main street on Sunday near the Uncasville trolley station. Mr. Schumkler on Monday reported the accident to Deputy Motor Vehicle Inspector George H. Bradford and from the statements of those who saw the accident Mr. Bradford finds that Mr. Schumkler was driving his car at a moderate rate of speed and that Mr. Rabinovitch was driving at a fast rate.
