Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions? Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief? Why cutting and burning is so painful and causes the pain to recur? Do you know the cause of piles is internal? That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel? Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Lombardi and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Lee, Higgin and druggists generally, that is guaranteed to cure?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of sufferers. It is a relief to the pain, rest and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not be the same for you.

son that has made it possible for them to build up their great empire, for it proved to them that a nation cannot be held together by force, according to Premier Venkatesh the defeat of the British by Washington's army proved that the spirit of democracy can always conquer autocracy. The English statesman realized then the truth of this fact, and ever since have made it the guide to their colonies. "Rule by force," said Mr. Vaughan, "has been supplanted by rule by love, and it is a bond of love that holds together the great nation of which I am a citizen." Music at the service was by Miss Florence Stearns, violinist. Harry Morse and Wallace Aldrich, of Putnam, spent the holiday fishing at Eastford.

Miss Harriet W. Becknell, 56, died on Monday morning at her home in Eastford.

One hundred cases of bottled liquor in bond, 100 proof rye, were temporarily seized Sunday afternoon by Captain John Bulger of the Putnam police, when he discovered the liquor on an automobile truck that had stopped on Pomfret street while passing through the city. The shipment of wet goods was consigned to the Taunton Wine Company, Taunton, Mass., and was being transported on a truck owned by the Shoe City Express company of Brockton, driven by Zorian Bulger of Brockton. Immediately upon discovery of the liquor, Captain Bulger took Samata and his load to police headquarters from where he communicated with federal authorities. Samata had in his possession two federal permits, both issued at Washington, one a beverage permit to the Taunton Wine Company, and the other a carrier's permit issued by the express company who owned the truck. In all details, not properly made out in all permits, and some of the entries were in ink and some in pencil.

By telephone Captain Bulger got in touch with Julius Steinhilf, of Hartford, federal prohibition officer, also with Daniel P. O'Connell, federal prohibition officer at Eastford. The latter stated that the shipment of the liquor was in violation of the law, and that the Taunton Wine Company and said that the concern in the past had had beverage permits upon numerous occasions. The company is engaged in the manufacture of patent medicine, and the federal prohibition officer also transportation and possession of liquors needed in the business. The federal officer in Boston was not able to say, however, whether the permit held by the driver of the truck were for the particular consignment of rye that Captain Bulger had in view of the fact that the police and federal authorities knew to whom the load of rye was being shipped and that the permit was in the name of Daniel P. O'Connell, federal prohibition officer at Eastford. Upon this advice the driver was allowed to continue on his way with his cargo.

Instead of the quiet and peaceful day that had been expected, Captain John Bulger and the other members of the Putnam police force were called upon to keep order on what was the most riotous and noisy Fourth that Putnam has had for many years. Boose and patriotism combined to produce a celebration that at times overstepped the bounds of decency in spite of all that the police could do. Up to midnight on Sunday all was quiet throughout the town, with only the occasional report of a fire cracker or blank cartridge to disturb the slumbers of Putnam citizens. But hardly had the clock in the Congregational church tower begun to ring twelve when the festive report was heard that had subsided a false fire alarm had been sounded, an entire neighborhood had been terrorized by a mob of over 300 men and boys, and the whole police department had been called out to preserve order and prevent further spread of disorder. Shortly after 12:30 a. m. a mob began to collect at Bugbee corner, newly known to the members of which were armed with large sized crackers and revolvers in what to shoot blanks. The night patrolmen on duty were unable to control the mob which moved down Main street toward the Congregational church. According to the police many were partially under the influence of liquor and in an ugly temper. Near the home of W. J. Bartlett they let loose a volley of stones and bricks, and firecrackers which were thrown against windows, and revolvers discharged at front doors and on piazzas. When the supply of noise-makers gave out the crowd moved on to replenish its supply, to return to the same neighborhood and continue the uproar. One woman ventured upon her piazza to request the crowd to move along. The only response she got was a volley of indecent language, characterized by one onlooker as "the most vile I ever heard." Captain Bulger was summoned and shortly after his arrival and the arrival of extra policemen, the crowd was scattered.

In commenting upon the affair Monday morning Captain Bulger said, "I am completely disgusted that any crowd should go to such limits as that crowd did early Monday. It was disgusting, simply disgusting. I don't mind a little good fun, but when it comes to insulting a woman and hurdling vile language at her the limit has been reached." Others who were witnesses to the mob action expressed similar opinion and declared that they could not far overstep the limits of decency. A number of the participants in the affair were recognized by the police, but it is not yet known what action will be taken during the excitement, someone pulled in an alarm from Box 41 which is located in the center of the business section. The fire department responded to the nature of a fire could be found.

All day Monday there was more noise in Putnam than has been heard in many years. Many people were on the streets, but the crowds were orderly and gave the police no trouble. The band concert by the Putnam band attracted many in the afternoon. At the country club there was a match for the men in the afternoon, followed by basket lunch. In the afternoon the Putnam Y.M.C.A. played and the women members engaged in clock golf.

While chasing a man who had thrown a fire cracker at the window of a house on Main street in the midst of the disorder early Monday, Sergeant George Laird of the police department tripped over a wire stretched across a lawn. He was thrown to the ground and at the same time his revolver slipped from his pocket, striking in such a way as to pierce the rim of the officer's shoe, but did not enter the flesh of his foot. quietly played.

The work on the tenement at the rear of the Ponemah company at the rear of Norwich avenue is still progressing. Two of the houses have been roofed in and the brick walls on a third have been raised to the first story. The other two sections of several other of the houses are nearly complete. The contractors are Peck McWilliams Company.
